Bayonet and Bullet Enforce Peace After Forty-eight Hours of Carnage

Censorship Prevails as to Casualties; Total May Run Into Hundreds

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LISBON, April 19.—Order has been restored and peace, a frowning, belligerent peace, enforced by bayonet and bullet, prevails throughout the city today, after forty-eight hours of carnage.

The mutineers, under the leadership of Maj. Filomeno Camara, were overwhelmed by the government troops, after bloody fighting in the streets last night, following the outbreak of Friday night.

The government today issued an official communique to the effect that loyal government troops decisively defeated the rebels after sharp street fighting, during which twenty-five persons were killed and more than 300 wounded.

However, an iron-bound censorship prevails and there is no way of confirming the number of casualities. But it is believed the number killed runs into the hundreds. Both sides used machine guns and hand grenades, in addition to rifles and sabers.

After the rebels refused to surrender Saturday night, the government troops first bombarded their headquarters with grenades and machine guns and then charged the buildings. The rebels met the charge with a vicious counter-attack and it was only after the bitterest kind of fighting that they were beaten.

COOLIDGE IN SHIP FIGHT

Takes Hand in Dollar Deal

President Calls on Chairman of Board for Report on Controversy

Injunction Action Against Sale Up Today Before Supreme Court

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The 3-4 split in the Shipping Board has grown so acute over the sale of the five President type ships of the California-Orient Line that President Coolidge is understood to have addressed a letter to Chairman O'Connor requesting a report on the situation.

The Executive previously had indicated that he considered the sale a matter for the board to dispose of and assumed that in accepting the bid of the Dollar interests over that of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, which has been operating the vessels, the board has exercised its best judgment. The action of Vice-Chairman Plummer and Commissioner Thompson in placing minority views before the District of Columbia Supreme Court yesterday, with indications that the commission's differences will be aired during the injunction proceedings against the sale initiated by the Pacific Mail, however, apparently caused the President to abandon his hands-off policy.

COMMENT WITHHELD

Although the letter is said to have gone forward yesterday after the minority affidavit had been filed in the court, no announcement of it was made either at the White House or the Shipping Board. Mr. O'Connor conferred with the President late yesterday, but their discussion was described as having no new significance.

The same silence was maintained today, Chairman O'Connor refused to affirm or deny that he had received or considered such a letter, or to discuss it in any way, while other members of the board and White House officials were equally reticent.

The President's letter is looked upon as being merely a move to obtain in official form from the already published names of the three commissioners who voted against the sale and their reasons for opposing it, as a starting point for consideration of the entire Shipping Board situation. The opinion was expressed in some quarters today that it would be too extreme to assume that the President contemplated requesting resignations, at least at this time.

CASE UP TODAY

Commissioner Plummer, who is vice-chairman of the board, Thompson and Benson voted against the sale, but Mr. Benson did not present his viewpoint to the court by affidavit, being content to prove his position stated in the minutes of the board and filed Friday by Chauncey G. Parker and O. M. P. Brown, government counsel, with the answer of the board as such.

The case is to come up for hearing in the court tomorrow with attorneys prepared to argue on the motion of the government counsel to dismiss the proceedings. For this reason it is believed possible the President will await some definition of the court's position before taking any action.

If he decides to take a hand in the disposal of the California-Orient Line he could request the board to reconsider its action and call for new bids, but no indication has been given that he contemplated such a step.

NORTHERN COUNTIES DRENCHED

Bay District Receives Showers; Snow Falls in High Mountains

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—April showers were general throughout the entire Bay District today, nearly every place receiving a gentle downpour during the morning, giving way by afternoon to balmy sunshine. At north coast points, however, and in general over the northern part of the State copious rains fell.

In the higher altitudes snow fell to considerable depth. Reports from Redding, covering the interior counties, showed that the precipitation was general. Redding itself received an inch of rain, bringing the season's total to 47.24 inches. Most of this fell during the night. Mild cloudbursts were experienced at Spring Gulch, 2.25 inches of rain falling in one hour and eighteen minutes. Lamoine also had a heavy downpour. Vivid lightning storms were reported from the McCloud River.

Dunsmuir, Mt. Shasta and Weed received from one to two inches of snow.

In the Sierras snow fell at high points. The districts south of San Francisco had some rain, described as the edge of the storm.

PATRIOTS' DAY OBSERVED WITH FITTING CEREMONY

Dawes and Pershing Participate in Celebration at Boston; Concord and Lexington Hold Forth

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BOSTON (Mass.) April 19.—Boston, Concord, Lexington and a number of other towns today began the celebration of the 150th anniversary of Patriots' Day, with Vice-President Charles G. Dawes and Gen. John G. Pershing, taking leading parts in the exercises commemorating the famous events that marked the beginning of American liberty.

Both distinguished visitors and other dignitaries, representing the State and city, entered into the spirit of the occasion with an enthusiam undiminished by the intermittent showers which fell during the outdoor part of the program and which developed into a furious rainstorm after the scene of the exercises had shifted to the shelter of historic Faneuil Hall.

In that cherished cradle of American liberty where the principal ceremonies of the day took place, Vice-President Dawes, in a two-minute speech, called on the American people to follow the example of the Revolutionary patriots and "rededicate ourselves to the resolve to maintain the Constitution of the United States and the principles our forebears died for," while Gen. Pershing deplored the tendency to neglect our traditions of patriotism and expressed the wish that the example of Boston in keeping alive the memory of its patriots "might be followed in every hamlet in the United States."

BOY SCOUT HONORED

While the Faneuil Hall meeting was mainly for the rededication of the historic structure, it was also an inspiration to the younger generation of American patriots and marked a never-to-be-forgotten event in the young life of James Thomas Smith, 13 years of age, an East Boston Boy Scout, who unexpectedly shared the honors with the Vice-President and the commander of the American military forces. He was called to the platform and decorated by Gen. Pershing for saving a companion from drowning last February. As the general expressed it in pinning the medal on the yongster's breast, "to be born on Christmas Day and decorated on the platform of Faneuil Hall is the greatest honor that could befall any boy."

The Vice-President and general had the opportunity to receive the additional plaudits of spectators at the military inspection and review on the Boston Common parade ground and along the route of the parade to the Granary and King's Chapel burial grounds and the site of the home of William Dawes, Jr., in North street.

PERSHING'S TALK

"It was here in this chamber," said Gen. Pershing at Faneuil Hall, "under the leadership of men of courage and intelligence that the people gathered to discuss among themselves the probable outcome of their protest against the unjust laws that encroached upon their rights and liberties. It was from this platform they boldly asserted their attitude and from here that the sentiment of indignation and revolt spread to the remote settlements of the colonies.

"In the mighty struggle just closed the teachings of the fathers prompted the nation to send her millions of stalwart and patriotic young men to the Old World to decide the fate of liberty. The devotion and sacrifices on foreign soil of these virile men of our day were fully worthy of their performances there.

"We have demonstrated that popular government in the hands of intelligent and patriotic men is no longer a mere experiment. Under it we have steadily grown stronger until others speak of us as the world's leading nation. Our

FLEET UMPIRES NEAR GOAL

Danger of Collision, Calls to Arms Make Night Periods of Thrills as Men of War Steal on Hawaii

[BY RADIO AND A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

ABOARD U.S.S. SEATTLE, EN ROUTE TO HAWAII, April 19.—The U.S.S. Seattle, umpire ship for the coming Hawaiian maneuvers of the United States Army and Navy, early today had arrived within two days' sailing of its destination. The vessel was maintaining a speed of sixteen knots an hour.

Meanwhile, the umpires, headed by Admiral Robert E. Coontz and Maj.-Gen. John L. Hines, who will decide the results of the "war" game being conducted to test the defenses of the Hawaiian Islands, continued their conferences.

Officers and crews of the ship yesterday underwent the weekly ordeal — "Captains' inspection." From bow to stern, Capt. A. S. Smith, commander, and the chiefs of departments, went over the floating "office building" where the commands which direct the actions of the fleet are issued—except at the present time while the Seattle is in the neutral role of umpire ship.

NIGHT IS TIME OF THRILLS FOR FLEET

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19. — Severe tests are being undergone nightly by watch and navigation officers of the United States Fleet en route to the Hawaiian Islands for a simulated attack on fortifications there. In fact, night is a time of thrills aboard every vessel. Darkness not only curtains the vision against possible submarines and destroyers, but makes exceedingly difficult the prevention of collisions among the 127 units of the fleet.

A danger of collisions is made greater by the maneuvers of the ships en route. The smaller, speedier craft are required to weave in and out among the larger ships as a means of protection against supposititious mines and "subs." This is difficult enough in the light because of the nearness and number of ships. At night, with ships darkened, it requires the utmost skill and caution. When danger of submarine attack is not great the ships carry on their sterns purple-blue battle lantedns, visible only a few yards away, as a safeguard.

"General quarters," the Navy's call to the battle stations, coming at unexpected hours of the night, brings perhaps the greatest thrill of the maneuvers. All of the 40,000 officers and men, at this call, are required to drop whatever they are doing or to arise immediately if sleeping and man their stations as in actual warfare.

EX-BISHOP DEFERS SERMON

Brown Will Resume Fight Against Fundamentalists After Dramatic Scene in New York Church

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, April 19.—They drew a curtain over the altar at St. Marks-in-the-Bouwerie this afternoon. With the sanctuary thus shut off from the gaze of the ungodly, William Montgomery Brown, lately Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Arkansas, occupied the bishop's chair in the church while Dr. William Norman Guthrie, rector of the church, announced the postponement of Bishop Brown's sermon until Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, with the Community House, on Park avenue, as the scene.

This, and this only, was the net result of a sensational announcement that the bishop, twice convicted of heresy by minor courts, and whose case is now pending on appeal before the House of Bishops, will present the case of the modernists against the fundamentalists at St. Mark's Church.

CROWD OUTSIDE

Outside in the drizzing rain reserve policemen struggled with a great crowd that battled to get into the edifice. The crowd increased as the time wore on. It was joined by large numbers who could not have told on a bet what a modernist is, but who would have joined any crowd, any time, anywhere, where there was police evidence of necessity for handling it. Also the multitude numbered many who had very pronounced and sincere notions regarding the question that had split the Episcopal Church hereabouts more than once.

When the services started at 4 o'clock Dr. Brown appeared, along with Theodore Schroeder, his adviser. They occupied seats in the body of the auditorium. They took part in the singing and the services.

Then a curtain was drawn over the altar, technically, in the Guthrie view, shutting off so much as was sanctified from the material architecture of the edifice. With the altar masked, Dr. Brown was escorted to the chair reserved for bishops when they visit the house of worship.

Dr. Guthrie spoke several times. He paid his respects to the heresy charges brought against the occupant of the bishop's chair.

"What is heresy?" he asked. "Is heresy, if it exists, a crime, and if so what should be its punishment?"

The doctor did not think it a crime. He said it belonged to the same class as witchcraft and such things of the past. He regarded the idea of heresy as silly and said he had discussed the entire situation with Bishop Brown after the command had come from Bishop Manning that the church should not be used for the Brown speech and both had agreed that it would be better to have it elsewhere.

That was the first intimation the audience had of the change of intention on the part of Dr. Guthrie and of Bishop Brown.

Dr. Guthrie said the papers had confused Bishop Brown's status. He said the Bishop did not stand guilty or condemned as yet, since

BESSARABIA COUP SEEN

Soviet Plan Linked With Series of Outrages in Bulgaria

Rumanian Attack Viewed as Part of Moscow Devised Plot

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, April 19.—The past week's events in Bulgaria represent an effort of the agrarian Communist partisans of the late Premier Stambouliski, under the direction of the Third Internationale, to spread a regime of terror in the country preparatory to an effort to establish a soviet regime there.

The organization, brains and necessary funds are being supplied from Moscow through Vienna, where Joffe, soviet Ambassador to Vienna, holds the reins of the Red machinations in the Balkans.

European foreign offices have known for several months of the efforts of the Bolsheviki to stir up trouble in Bulgaria and Jugo-Slavia. The American State Department is not without knowledge of the efforts being made through Vienna soviet headquarters. It was understood that the 15th inst. had been set for the uprising in Bulgaria. Due to the efforts of the Tsankoff government there appears to have been some delay in the attempted revolution planned for mid-April, but recent events show the effort was not entirely abandoned.

BESSARABIA PLAN

In the minds of European diplomats, there is a direct connection between the efforts of Moscow to install a Red regime in Bulgaria and plans of Russia to recover Bessarabia from the Rumanians. Moscow chiefs never have abandoned this idea, as is illustrated by the fact that in the recent soviet treaty Tokio agreed not to recognize Rumanian claims to Bessarabia, which was approved by the other Allies.

If, at the time of difficulties between the Russian and Rumanian armies on the Bessarabian frontier, a soviet regime existed in Bulgaria, taking orders from Moscow, it is quite apparent that Rumanian resistance in the north will be materially weakened, since the Rumanians will be obiged keep at least one-third of their military strength on the southern border to guard against Bulgarian inroads.

AIM AT UNREST

It will be recalled that Stambouliski was killed and his government put to flight by a sort of Fascist organization in Bulgaria, made up largely of army officers, who believed the peasant Premier was about to place the country under the domination of Moscow. Friends of Stambouliski who escaped assassination fled to Budapest and Prague, whence, with the aid of Russians, they have been plotting against the Tsankoff regime.

The purpose of the agitation directed from Moscow appears to be in the opinion of European foreign offices to start a civil war in Bulgaria between the peasants and the army leaders, which it is calculated will give the Communists an opportunity to seize power. The series of tragedies and near-tragedies in Sofia during the last week shows very clearly there exists an organized effort for disorder.

SLAYINGS PRECEDE PLAN

According to the Bulgarian Legation in the last five weeks forty-one army officers and 122 government officials have been slain by Communist agents. It is said the Communist plan was to kill the King as a prelude to a general uprising of peasants and adherents of the Communist party. The plan failed to come off on schedule, more than 100 Communist leaders were arrested and the active leader was discovered to be Kolaroff, former deputy from Sobrania, who now is in Moscow co-operating with the Third Internationale.

The Bulgaria secret service has discovered the authors of the Sofia Cathedral atrocity, named Minkoff and Mosta Yankoff, leaders of the Sofia central Communist committee, but have not arrested them yet.

Minkoff, a former officer of engineers, placed the infernal machine on the roof of the cathedral the morning of the crime. His accomplice fired the Bickford cord during the funeral ceremony. He was disguised as a high school boy.

ACCOMPLICE TELLS FACTS

Peter Zategorski, the cathedral beadle, another accomplice, divulged the full facts following the arrest, putting the authorities on the track of Minkoff and Yankoff.

The situation appears very uncertain and in Paris there is grave doubt of the ability of the government to control the situation. The Bulgarian government has asked the Allied governments to lend 200 airplanes for the purpose of bombing the headquarters of the Communists and also has asked the Allied governments to take action in Vienna to control the organization work of the Communists on the ground that there is threatened a general war in the Balkans.

It is reported the Sofia government intends to appeal to the Council of the League to take action to curb the activity of Bolsheviki agents working in other

Peoria Twister, With Rain, Hail, Lightning, Razes Buildings, Causing $1,500,000 Loss

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PEORIA (Ill.) April 19.—A twister of moderate intensity, accompanied by torrential rains, hail and lightning struck Peoria early today killing two persons and injuring several others, and doing property damage estimated at $1,500,000. One costly five-story brick and stone building was destroyed, hundreds of homes were unroofed and otherwise damaged and wire communication was practically paralyzed.

The dead are George Wonders, a watchman, and an unidentified man.

The terrific wind struck the Isaac Walker Hardware Company's five-story structure and caved in its walls which tumbled over a garage adjoining. Lightning almost immediately struck the wreckage and the ensuing fire destroyed both buildings.

EXPLOSIVES IGNITED

Explosives kept in the building were ignited and spread the flames so rapidly that the fire department was powerless. The loss alone on this structure is $500,000.

George Wonder, a watchman in the Walker building was killed when it collapsed. Another watchman known only as "Frank," was asleep in the garage and was killed by the falling walls.

The storm swept along the river front, wrecking dozens of buildings. The Brundage Carnival Shows which opened here last night were wrecked, many of the tents and exhibits being blown far from the site of the shows.

CITIZENS FLEE

Countless numbers of windows were blown in throughout the business district. The Wesley Methodist Church was destroyed by lightning and wind. Great damage was suffered by the McKinley school building.

The storm broke with its greatest fury shortly after 3.30 o'clock following a half-hour of continuous lightning. The night was sultry after the rapid warming up of Saturday and Peorians were prepared for a storm. Hundreds of citizens fled to their cellars or out into the open when the storm hit. There was considerable hail. Most of the damage was confined to the section under the hills, damage in the bluffs being only from broken limbs falling across telephone and light wires.

Trolley and telephone wires were down in many parts of the city below the bluffs. Fortunately the storm occurred while the city was asleep. Otherwise many casualties and injuries might have occurred from flying signs and window panes, according to those who were out in the storm and narrowly escaped injuries. Storms also swept Kewanee and Pekin, doing much damage.

STORM RAGES THROUGH OHIO, WEST VIRGINIA

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WHEELING (W. Va.) April 19. A severe storm swept Eastern Ohio and the West Virginia Panhandle early this afternoon and wrecked business buildings and residences at Wheeling, Wellsburg, W. Va., Martins Ferry, O., Woodsfield, O., and a dozen other small Ohio and West Virginia communities.

Ten persons were injured, two of them seriously, at Wheeling and unconfirmed reports from Ohio indicate many injured. No fatalities have been reported.

Wheeling's streets were littered with debris. Roofs were blown from buildings. A heavy cornice was twisted from the Union Trust Company Building and five automobiles on the street below were caught in a falling mass of stone and timbers and their occupants injured. One automobile was

SOVIET PLAN REVEALED

Alliance Dream is Outlined

Act to Bring Germany and Japan Into Entente With Moscow

"Red" Leaders Emphasize Value of New Treaty With Nippon

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Soviet Russia's dream of an alliance with Germany on the west and Japan on the east together with soviet domination of continental Asia, is outlined in statements by two of the important soviet leaders, the English text of which was made public here today by the Russian information bureau.

These leaders are M. Tchitcherin, commissar for foreign affairs, and M. Rykov, chairman of the Council of Commissars in the soviet government. Their statements were made in the form of reports to the central executive committee of the federated soviet republics at Tiflis on March 3.

Both of these leaders laid great emphasis on the value to the soviet of the new treaty with Japan. "The consolidation of our international position is crowned," declared Tchitcherin, triumphantly, "by the signing of the soviet-Japanese agreement."

The tenor of the reports of the two officials was that Germany's sole security from the menacing pressure of the entente lies in soviet Russia; that Japan, in the face of the unfriendly attitude of the United States and Great Britain has sought to protect herself by linking her future with that of the soviet and that China is rapidly becoming Bolshevist.

"To say nothing of other motives," said Tchitcherin, "the very policy of the entente, resulting from the Versailles Treaty, forces Germany to abide by the policy of friendly relations with U.S.S.R." And he remarked significantly:

COUNT ON GERMANY

"It can be stated with certainty that, whatever Germany's agreements with the western powers may be, in the final analysis the German statesmen will always consider it indispensable to protect their rear in the east. One may rest assured that whatever vacillations Germany's policy may undergo—and there have been, are and will be such fluctuations—in the long run Germany will not break with us, she will not liquidate the policy of friendly relations

DOLE EVILS HIT BRITAIN

Vast Burden and Encouraging of Idleness Prompt Leaders, Even of Radicals, to Seek Remedy

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, April 19.—The "dole" is becoming an urgent question in British politics. Like the restriction of rents it is an emergency departure from true economic principles to relieve war conditons. But now men of all parties, George Lansbury, the extreme Socialist, as well as Sir Alfred Mond, prophet of capitalism, recognize the evils it involves and are beginning to consider abolishing or transforming it.

The cost is enormous. From the armistice to October 1, 1924, $936,585,180 has been spent on unemployment insurance. The realization is growing that whether the money is derived from contributions from employers or employed or from direct grants from government, such payment is a burden on industry which, in the face of severe international competition, it can barely afford.

With 1,166,300 men and women registered as unemployed in the first week of April, the country is at a loss as to what to do. They must be supported, and the dole, through the perilous years since the war, has prevented any disturbance or rioting and no serious privation has existed. On the other hand, it is growing clear that the dole is having a pernicious effect on the morale of the nation, particularly of the younger generation. Thousands of boys and girls, leaving school faced with the difficulty of finding jobs, settle down to lives of idleness on the pittance the state grants them as "unemployed."

The dole receivers often refuse work because it is too uncertain to surrender the benefits of idleness. Old-fashioned handy men who made a good, useful living in small communities have almost disappeared. Women everywhere complain of the servant shortage because girls prefer the dole to housework.

Economists are seeking a solution. The Socialists would keep children at school longer and would start great land settlement schemes. Sir Alfred Mond, one of the most successful business men of the country and a strong opponent of the Socialists, suggested in the House of Commons the dole be paid to employers rather than to the unemployed. Any employer who would take a bona fide unemployed man and guarantee to give him full trade union wages should be entitled to draw a dole to help him to do so, he argues.

MONEY SPOTS

Throughout Los Angeles and Southern California business openings occur daily. Some of these enterprises are already successful; others are potential money-makers and need only the right man. You'll find these "money spots" in the Business Opportunity columns of

We are bound to obey the law and preserve order, to live moral lives, to respect the rights of conscience and of property. If we fail, we revert to government by force of power and free government disappears. We shall not fail."

DAWES'S SHARE

Vice-President Dawes's share in today's ceremonies was confined to the lending of his presence at the granary burying ground and at the King's Chapel burying ground. Later in the day the Vice-President, and Gen. Pershing were escorted to North street to the site of the William Dawes, Jr., home where the tablet was placed with brief exercises. The Coolidge family also figured despite the enforced absence of the President. In the First Church of Watertown, Congregational, memorial services were conducted this morning for Joseph Coolidge, who was one of the Minute Men to give his life at the battle on Lexington Green.

Today's celebration, in various communities in addition to Boston, Concord and Lexington, signalized the opening of the elaborate two-day observance, which will reach its dramatic climax tomorrow when the eight cities and towns that shared in the historic events in 1775 will have individual celebrations and at the same time contribute to the great program of Concord and Lexington.

PARADE FEATURE

In Boston, which was the starting point of the Dawes and Revere rides as well as for the British forces that sallied forth into Middlesex, the observance began with a parade which included practically every military body in the Army and Navy, Ancient and Honorable Artillery, G.A.R., Spanish and World War veterans, Lexington Minute Men, together with delegations from many societies. Stop was made at the Old Granary burial ground on Tremont street near Park Street Church and at King's Chapel burying ground, Tremont and School streets, where the graves of Paul Revere and William Dawes, Jr., were respectively decorated.

The column then moved to the site of the Dawes home in North street where a bronze tablet was erected under direction of the Boston committee on marking historic sites. Here the parade disbanded, in time for the Faneuil Hall exercises.

Concord's program today was busiest, outside that of Boston. In the morning memorial services were conducted in all the churches. A big parade was the afternoon feature with patriotic bodies and descendants of Revolutionary heroes in line. Graves of patriots in Concern Cemetery were formally marked. Exercises then were conducted in the first parish meeting-house under the auspices of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Rev. Paul Revere Frothingham delivering the oration. Lexington conducted memorial exercises in the Town Hall tonight as at Concord, the main events are scheduled for tomorrow.

DEMONSTRATION FOR HINDENBURG

Radetzky march, as "Deutschland Uber Alles" resounded in all keys and as the black, white and red monarchist flag was dipped before him and as he was cheered by the echo of the marchers, Von Hindenburg throughout the ninety minutes scarcely shifted his feet. He went through the ordeal far better than did his adjutant, who changed his position frequently and at times even stepped back into the house, leaving the field marshal quite alone.

The pallor observed at the beginning of the review, but which shortly afterward gave place to a healthy color, returned toward the end and the field marshal gave indications that he was somewhat fatigued. Nevertheless, he remained until the last of the marchers went by. These he saluted stiffly and disappeared into the house.

NEWSPAPER MEN HEAR HINDENBURG SPEECH

[Copyright, 1925, by Chicago Tribune]
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HANOVER (Germany) April 19.—Gen. Von Hindenburg tonight outlined the new "Hindenburg line" when he made a campaign declaration at a reception to American and German newspaper men.

The veteran soldier was visibly nervous, suffering from the effects of rheumatism, and got through the ordeal of his fifteen-minute speech much as a schoolboy who has a difficult task before him.

Carrying himself straight, but limping slightly, the field-marshal made his way into the crowded hall half an hour late, reached the platform and called for a chair and sat down while introductions were made.

Then Gen. Von Hindenburg rose, donned his glasses, rimmed with white horn, and read a prepared speech in schoolboy tones with care and emphasis where black dots appeared in the copy, while friends punctuated it with perfunctory bravos.

WAR RESPONSIBILITY

Gen. Von Hindenburg dragged the question of responsibility for the war into the campaign, declaring the accusation of Germany's responsibility for the World War must be dropped before Germany can reach real freedom and sovereignty.

Not once did the word "republic" pass Gen. Von Hindenburg's lips. He declared the insinuations by his opponents that he had been unfaithful to the constitution were lies, but he did not swear his support to the Weimar pact, nor would he come out openly on the question of monarchy or republic.

Gen. Von Hindenburg appeared to be a very old man tonight. He has aged much in the years since the war. The circles under his eyes have deepened. But his bristly, white hair still stands bravely pompadoured in front and cropped on his straight, thick neck. His well-known nose carries a bloom, put there by many a good bottle of Rhine wine.

TRAPPINGS PUT AWAY

Gen. Von Hindenburg had put away all his trappings and military glory when he entered tonight. He was simply attired in a black Prince Albert and black four-in-hand. No orders except the iron cross decorated his button hole.

If one could read anything in that mask which conceals his mind, the old general was thinking the whole evening's performance was something distinctly unpleasant to be endured. His military career has not fitted him to make concessions to hearers which good politicians must make. If he had been sure in his diction his speech might have been impressive. But toward the end he found words which puzzled him to pronounce.

As he closed his speech with the old imperial war cry, "forward with God for our German fatherland," there was real enthusiasm. The small room in which he spoke rang with cheers, which nearly burst the ear drums. Such enthusiasm made the correspondent present wonder whether Herr Marx is so sure of a victory next Sunday as his followers pretend.

Following his address Gen. Von Hindenburg received a small group of newspapermen privately in a brief interview.

"You will not expect many words from the old soldier," he declared. "I am not a militarist. I learned to know war in my youth and in my old age. I know its misery. I never wish to experience it again. Whoever charges to the contrary speaks calumny. I am also not a mass murderer as I am pictured. I have defended my fatherland. It is a well-known fact that there is no guarantee of personal safety in war."

Gen. Von Hindenburg's tone was convincing as he spoke out. His eyes snapped when he referred to the charges made against him from the extreme left—charges which compared him with Harmon in the street joke.

"I hope I have convinced you that I will not travel to Berlin in an invalid chair or on top of a cannon," he concluded.

AMERICAN STAND NOTED IN GERMANY

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BERLIN, April 19. — America commands much attention in Germany's Presidential campaign. While Foreign Minister Stresemann is seeking to counteract the belief that Hindenburg's candidacy will prevent the flow of credits from America to Germany, the newspapers of the left bloc as if on a concerted signal paint in black colors the effect of Hindenburg's entry into the political arena on the golden stream from America. Stresemann told the Reichstag advisory committee that among reports from America received from German consular representatives and others only one took up the question of American credits for Germany, stating that the German Presidential campaign would probably mean the interruption of such American credits because Americans would wish to learn first who was elected German President. This is interpreted by the left bloc organs as proof that American capital has been scared away.

THREE HELD IN GEM HOLD-UPS

Two Men and Woman Are Arrested, in Bay City

Local Police Believe Trio to be "Ring Finger" Bandits

Prisoners Are Suspected in Series of Thefts Here

In the arrest of two men and a woman in San Francisco yesterday local police believe they have in custody the "ring finger" bandits who terrorize their victims by threatening to amputate one or more fingers unless valuable rings are removed.

This method of banditry came to a local climax in the hold-up the 5th inst. of Marc McDermott, motion-picture actor, and a woman companion. The two were robbed of $5300 in currency and jewelry.

The same robbers are suspected by police of the hold-up of an after-theater party on the 6th inst., in which were George S. Daugherty, formerly commissioner and chief of detectives of New York police, his wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Rene Marx of 248 North Rampart Boulevard. The hold-up occurred in front of the Marx home. Diamond pins, necklaces, lavalieres and rings valued intrinsically at $20,000 were stolen from members of the party.

Those under arrest describe themselves as William Carter, 30 years of age, a mechanic; Lillian McCray, alias Carter, alias Brooks, and Roy Schaeffer, alias Stump.

SEIZED IN HOTEL

They were seized in a hotel on O'Farrel street in the Bay city by Assistant Captain of Detectives Ray Cato of this city and Detective Sergeant George McLaughlin of San Francisco police.

All three of the prisoners will be brought back to Los Angeles, leaving San Francisco today. Chief of Detectives George K. Home said last night that they will be grilled on several local hold-ups in which jewels were taken, as well as some unsolved jewel robberies. He also said that they will be subjected to extensive questioning in connection with the Daugherty and McDermott hold-ups.

It was learned last night that police had believed that the perpetrators of the Los Angeles jewel robberies were members of the so-called Eggers gang of the Bay district, led by Ariel and Milo Eggers, brothers. Ariel was shot and killed in a sensational pistol and ammonia battle in the San Francisco Postoffice Building several months ago, when an attempt was made to rescue him from the custody of United States Deputy Marshal Jack Donnelly. Eggers was facing extradition proceedings for return to Canada on charges of rum-piracy, a capital offense in Canada. In the melee Milo Eggers escaped and is now a fugitive from justice. However, connection of the prisoners with the Eggers gang had not been made last night, according to word from San Francisco.

SOUGHT BY DETECTIVE

Coincidentally with the arrests, it was learned that Carter and the McCray woman were the quarry which Detective Lieutenant Walter Barr was seeking when the machine which he was driving skidded off the Coast Highway near San Francisco a few days ago, instantly killing one of the three occupants.

Carter, doing the talking for himself and his companions, declared the arrests were the result of mistaken identity.

BULGARIA ASKS FOR LARGER ARMY

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, April 19. — Bulgaria, through the intermediary of the Inter-Allied Military Control Commission in Sofia, has demanded the Council of Ambassadors' permission to increase its army to maintain order.

I am informed that the Sofia government intimated to the commission liquidating disarmament and demobilization in Bulgaria that it might be necessary to increase the military forces immediately, without waiting for the ambassadors' reply. This provoked a repercussion and the Jugo-Slav government already has served warning that any violation of the military clauses of the Treaty of Neuilly, limiting Bulgaria's army to 10,000 men, will precipitate intervention.

Reports state that Belgrade already is taking measures to interfere forcefully if the Sofia government is unable to control the situation, and it is realized that the Serbs are seeking any excuse to deal with the Macedonian problem through an occupation region if a pretext arises.

SOVIET TELLS OF ALLIANCE PLAN

which has been established between her and us during the course of the past few years."

The Commissar for Foreign Affairs further reported that "in Austria the trend toward union with Germany, which had at one time quieted down, is beginning to arise once more. Against this, France, of course, objects very strenuously."

But it is in relation to Japan and the Far East that Tchitcherin and Rykov become even more assured. Thus, in his report Tchitcherin said:

"Japan finds herself in a dual position. She occupies the position of an imperialist power. She has an extensive industry, a fleet, a powerful army, and dominion over certain parts of the Asiatic continent. However, as an imperialist power she is not a match for America and England.

"At the same time she belongs to the colored Asiatic race. It is a dual position. On the one hand an imperialist power, and on the other hand a colored Asiatic nation—the object of the hostile policy of the 'white man's supremacy.' Hence the extreme hesitancy which characterizes the entire Japanese policy.

"Lately England has been constructing a naval base at Singapore. England gave up her alliance with Japan for the sake of an alliance with America. On her part, America is also adopting hostile measures against Japan, she excludes Japanese immigration, etc.

JAPAN SEES MENACE

"Japan feels herself threatened. Hence that trend toward a rapprochement with us which grew steadily more intense and finally terminated in the latest soviet-Japanese agreement. After three years of probings, vaccillations and attempts to come to an understanding, we have an agreement which shows that Japan is endeavoring to find protection for herself in another quarter also. This Japanese policy also represents an extremely sharp departure from the old undisputed supremacy of the entente."

He added:

"Japan has returned Northern Sakhalin to us. This is eloquent testimony to the fact that friendly relations with us possess great political importance for Japan.

"Indeed, at present, when, due to the increasing relative importance of the dominions, the enmity of the white man toward the colored races plays an ever-growing part in the policy of many nations, when America has excluded Japanese immigration and when the Philippine Islands constitute her base, when Singapore is the seat of a military base in the event of war with Japan—the protection of her rear has substantial significance for Japan. And friendly relations with us are such a protection for Japan.

"But there are still other and more important causes. Japan's entire policy must change with the altered relations in the Pacific. The more Japan feels the hostile attitude of the British dominions and America, the more Japan must look for support in international relations in Asia and the greater the role that rapprochement with the soviet union must play in 'Japan's future."

In discussing the United States, Tchitcherin indulged in flights of fancy. The Russian Far Eastern policy, he asserted "especially the agreement with Japan and in general the necessity of having some sort of contact with a nation embracing one-sixth of the earth's surface compels America to alter her course with us," and he hints that Washington, partly due to Ambassador Houghton who, he says, has been "sympathetic toward the resumption of relations with us," may make an approach to the soviet, now that Secretary Hughes is out.

He admitted, however, that in America "we still face a question mark." Then he added:

"But with a neighbor of the United States, Mexico, we have succeeded in re-establishing diplomatic relations, which furnish us a political base on the new continent. The Mexican government rests on the moderate trade unions and the progressive petty bourgeoisie. The soviet republic is extremely popular in Mexico. Pestkovsky, our plenipotentiary representative, met with the most enthusiastic reception in Mexico, and from all quarters he constantly receives expressions of the most friendly, even of the most enthusiastic, attitude toward the soviet republic. Mexico accordingly gives us in America a very convenient base for the further development of our relations."

Rykov, in his report, told of the rise of soviet influence in Asia. Said he:

"If the situation of the Union of S. S. R. in the Near and Far East during the course of the past two or three years is compared with the standing of any of the west European nations in that part of the world it is apparent that our importance and influence throughout the East is steadily rising, while the influence of the bourgeoise countries is progressively declining.

"Furthermore, there is every sign of an expanding movement for national liberation in the East. This movement sees in our solution of national and colonial questions the realization of its desires, of its aims. Consequently the eastern people see in the soviet union their friend and ally. This is extremely alarming to the entire capitalistic world whose fate is, to a considerable degree, bound up with the exploitation of the East."

WOMAN HELD IN CAMP CASE

Mrs. Brown, Foster Mother and Heir to Dead Man's Estate, Arrested on Sick Bed; Murder Charged

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HANFORD, April 19.—Mrs. Jennie Laura Brown, 55 years of age, foster mother of the young rancher Lee Camp, and heir to his $200,000 estate, was arrested on her sick bed today, charged with his murder.

Broken, weeping, but maintaining a dogged silence, "the woman in the case" was loaded into an ambulance, taken to the County Hospital jail ward under guard of a matron. Her attorney, H. P. Brown, and her physician, Dr. C. T. Rosson, accompanied Undersheriff J. J. Walker in making the arrest.

Mrs. Brown may never live to face trial. Dr. Rosson pronounced her today suffering acutely from heart trouble and laboring under a terrific strain; a shock may prove fatal.

HUSBAND WEEPS

The old rancher, more than ten years his wife's senior, broke down and cried as the guarded ambulance took his wife away. He alone of the occupants of the big white ranch home has escaped the charge of murdering the wealthy young Lee Camp.

Mrs. Brown's arrest closes the list of indictments voted by the county grand jury. Dist.-Atty. William McKay said today. Rumors that a fifth person had been accused in the mystery he called unfounded.

"I have a John Doe warrant just for emergency," he said. "One can never tell what will turn up in this case, and to be on the safe side, I obtained a John Doe warrant as a protective measure." It is freely rumored that McKay expects some one of the four under arrest to break down and confess. This confession might involve a fifth person, but townspeople consider that to be unlikely.

THOSE ARRESTED

Those now under arrest, charged with Camp's murder, are:

Mrs. Brown, guiding spirit of the "ranch of Lost Hopes," who before her recent illness was a strong, forceful woman, attractive despite her years.

John Henry Tipton, her uncle, right-hand man of the ranch. He first reported young Camp's "fatal accident."

Frederick Mills, middle aged, who took Camp's place as foreman.

Robert McCamish, 18, one of the several foster children that Mrs. Brown kept on her ranch.

Dist.-Atty. McKay does not expect to arraign the four until late this week, he said today.

His case hangs on Mrs. Brown, "a strong silent woman," he intimated. He hopes she will talk before the trial begins. If she maintains her silence, his task will be hard. Rumors persist that she will make a "dying statement." Those who know her do not think so. "If she has a secret, it will go into her grave," they say.

WOMAN ADMITS KILLING SEVEN

Husband and Two of Her Own Children Victims

Denies Poisoning of Infant Daughter Last Year

She Blames Uncontrollable Desire to Destroy

ST. PAUL (Neb.) April 19.—Mrs. Emanuel Sorenson, who was arrested several days ago on suspicion of having poisoned her husband, her mother-in-law, three of her own children, a niece, a nephew and the baby daughter of a family friend, and who was yesterday afternoon adjudged insane and ordered sent to the hospital, for incurably insane, late last night confessed that she had killed seven of the eight by poisoning, but denied she had killed her infant daughter which died last year.

"I had an uncontrollable desire to kill, and especially to kill children," she confessed. "At times I could not keep from giving them poison."

The confession came after two hours of questioning on the part of County Attorney Dobrey. Previous to the confession the woman had simply denied the murders, but refused any explanation.

The deaths to which Mrs. Sorenson confessed are as follows:

Viola Cooper, her niece, 13 months of age.

Clifford Cooper, her nephew, and brother of Viola, 4 months.

Ruth Brock, infant daughter of a friend.

Doloes Sorenson, 1-year-old daughter of Mrs. Sorenson.

Minnie Weldam, her daughter by a former marriage, aged 3 years.

Joe W. Weldam, her first husband.

FIRST TO DIE

The murders extended over a period of five years. The first to die was little Viola Cooper in 1918. Following the death of Viola there was a break of two years, and then, in 1920, within a period of six weeks, Minnie Weldam, Joe Weldam and Wilhelmina Weldam died.

The confession was made just before midnight Saturday night. During the questioning, most of which Mrs. Sorenson refused to answer one way or the other, she suddenly said: "Yes, I poisoned my husband. I gave him poison. No, I didn't, either. He died from drinking coffee out of a rusty coffee pot."

A few minutes later she returned to her original confession and again admitted she had killed her husband.

HAD FEELING TO KILL

"I had feelings which would settle over me forcing me to kill or destroy," she confessed.

"I felt funny. I killed the Cooper children because of that uncontrollable desire to kill. I gave the children poison on some stick candy.

"The little Brock baby was visiting at my house. Its mother went upstairs for a nap. I gave it poison while she was asleep. I put the poison on a cookie.

"My mother-in-law, Mrs. Weldam, got peevish when she came home from the hospital and either drank some poison by mistake or committed suicide. I didn't kill her." Later Mrs. Sorenson admitted she had poisoned Mrs. Weldam.

Winnie Weldam, a daughter, died after eating pork and beans given her by her mother and she died in convulsions.

Emanuel Sorenson, her husband, says his wife took out insurance on two of the children whom she poisoned and that she had $2000 insurance on her first husband.

BABIES ARE POISONED

For more than a year there has been talk that something was wrong with Mrs. Sorenson and there was a suspicion that she was the cause of so many deaths in her house. Authorities decided some time ago that the next suspicious circumstance would be investigated.

Two months ago Mrs. Irwin Knott, a friend, went to visit the Sorensons. She stepped out of the house a moment, leaving her year-old child in the room. When she returned Mrs. Sorenson had the child in her lap and had given her a piece of candy. An hour later the baby was in convulsions, but recovered.

Three days later Mrs. Sorenson went to the Knott home. Mrs. Knott found her giving the baby a cookie. An hour later the baby was in convulsions.

About the same time another child got sick. Mrs. Sorenson objected to calling a doctor, but Mrs. Knott finally secured one. The children were saved. An investigation by the State chemist showed the children had both been poisoned.

The investigation followed and Mrs. Sorenson was declared a paranoiac.

There will be no prosecution, County Attorney Dobrey says, since the woman is already virtually in prison for the remainder of her life.

Mrs. Sorenson is 28 years of age and is prepossessing in appearance, although illiterate and incapable of learning, the insanity board declares.

CALIFORNIA WOMEN WIN LEAGUE CUP

State Feminine Voters' Body Gets Presidential Vote Contest Award

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

RICHMOND (Va.) April 19.—The California League of Women Voters is the winner of the silver loving cup given by the National League of Women Voters to the league in the State which entered the national league's get-out-the-vote contest, and which had "the highest percentage of increase in the vote cast for President in 1924 over the vote cast in 1920."

Formal presentation of the loving cup to the California league was made last night by Mrs. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, chairman of the committee of award at the sixth annual convention of the national league in session here. The California delegation, headed by Miss Marion Delany, its president, was accorded a great ovation by the hundreds of delegates and special visitors.

In accordance with the rules governing the get-out-the-vote contest, two other State leagues, Texas and Rhode Island, were given honorable mention in recognition of an increase of 25 per cent or more in the vote cast in their respective States in 1924 over that cast in 1920. Two other States, Wyoming and Mississippi, had higher percentages of increases than California, but they did not participate in the contest and therefore were not eligible for the cup award. Thirty-five State leagues of women voters entered the national contest.

Howard recently was subjected to an investigation when it was charged he was selling liquor to bootleggers in and around Sacramento and then raiding their establishments.

SURRENDERS TO CRIPPLE WITH KNIFE

Auto Theft Suspect, Pistol in Hand, Quails Before Plucky Youth

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

OWENSMOUTH, April 19.—Joe Amador, accused of burglary and theft, is in the Van Nuys jail tonight—and Cecil Graves, 17-year-old cripple who captured Amador in the face of a smoking revolver, is the hero of the entire farming district between Chatsworth and Zelza. Cecil, who makes his way through life on crutches, pointed a silly-looking little jackknife at Amador—but he backed up the knife with a wealth of nerve and courage that forced Amador to drop his gun and surrender in dozed wonderment.

Amador, according to local police, robbed the ranch house and stole the automobile of Glen Pogue today while Pogue was visiting A. N. Graves, father of Cecil. After the robbery, the Mexican drove past the Graves home, and the car was recognized by Pogue. With the crippled Graves boy as companion, Pogue gave chase in Graves's car.

Amador leaped from the car and entered a field, followed by Pogue while the crippled boy drove the Graves' machine around the field at reckless speed. Amador, the two pursuers said, drew a revolver and fired repeatedly.

The crippled youth drove his car alongside Amador as the latter leaped over the fence on the far side of the field. The Mexican is asserted to have fired once more, and then to have wilted completely when the cripple drew a knife and pointed it at him.

Graves and Pogue tied Amador with a tire chain, brought him to Owensmouth and turned him over to the police.

While the plaudits of the multitude were still on the air Cooper blew his right rear tire and while high on the curve turned completely around and skidded backward some 300 yards along the track. In some miraculous manner Cooper kept the charger from turning turtle and slid gracefully into the lower fence without even scratching any of the robin's-egg blue paint off his chariot.

DE PAOLO ROARS PAST

The veteran driver had hardly come to a dead stop before De Paolo roared past. Peter was driving slightly slower than had been his wont all day. He had a bad tire and wanted to finish in the money, so was plugging along safely. If the Italian star's tires had been O.K., nothing in the world could have prevented him from smashing into Cooper, as the race between these two and Hartz had been a bitter battle while De Paolo's rubber was good. Cooper got a tremendous ovation when he appeared in front of the grand stand later. He was as cool as a month-old corpse, but looked more alive than most of his friends who crowded around him. The skid lost him $2000.

Although Leon Duray, the French star, had the pole for the start of the race, Hartz took it away from him almost immediately. Duray went out on the fourth lap with a broken superstructure

FLIRTING WITH THE GRIM REAPER

Harry Hartz, lower, and Earl Cooper, staged a terrific battle yesterday in the last ten laps of the fifty-mile sprint at Culver City. The photo, by David Mann, Times staff photographer, shows Hartz and Cooper roaring around the track at something in excess of 135 miles per hour. Almost immediately after this photo was taken Cooper put on the skidding act that cost him $2000.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

Nevada Stock Farm Stable's Campaigner Wins Au Revoir Handicap on Border Turf

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN DIEGO, April 19.—General Thatcher, the Nevada Stock Farm Stable's crack campaigner, won the Au Revoir handicap of a mile and a sixteenth, feature event of the final day's program at the Tia Juana race track near here, today over a field of six other horses. Fabian, from the McGill barn, was second with Dr. Clark, owned by Baron Long, third.

General Thatcher equalled the track record of 1:45 3-5 in winning easily. His main opposition, Sunspero and Spic and Span, were scratched.

MAKES IT DOUBLE

Thistlewood made it double for the Nevada Stock Farm by taking the La Golondrina Handicap of six furlongs, secondary feature of the closing card. Right On Time was a fast-going second, with Swingalong third. The time was 1:11 4-5.

General Thatcher was an overwhelming favorite in the betting, prices in the $2 mutuel machines being posted at $2.80 to win, $2.60 to place and $2.20 to show.

A good-sized crowd turned out for the final day's racing and remained until the sun had almost gone down with the running of the final race.

The meeting which closed today was the banner one since the border track opened. It ran for 125 racing days, during which time about 1140 races were run, with about $1,000,000 offered in purses.

With several special trains scheduled to leave for tracks east both tomorrow and Tuesday, the barns on Coffroth Hill will be practically empty by midweek, track officials predict.

The results:

First race, six furlongs—Nacomee (Sylvia) won, Lady Barrett (G. Johnson) second, Dan Arri (Elston) third. Time, 1:14 2-5.

Second race, mile and seventy yards—Insurance (Hoagland) won, Love Song (Mortenson) second, Bardalid (Molter) third. Time, 1:46 2-5.

Third race, mile and quarter—Harry Maxim

Barfoot Outhurled by Root in 1-to-0 Opener

Seraphs Make Walkaway of Sundown Struggle

Fourteen Thousand Fans on Hand for Twin Bill

BY ROBERT E. RAY

By taking both games of yesterday's twin bill, Marty Krug's Angels managed to annex the local series from Bill Essick's Vernon Tigers. A crowd of 14,000 fans jammed Washington Park to see yesterday's contests, which were won by the Seraphs by scores of 1 to 0 and 14 to 6.

Last season in the first home-brew series, the Angels won out by taking a double-header on Sunday. History repeated itself, if that means anything.

The fans got their money's worth in the opener, in which Charley Root outpitched Clyde Barfoot after a brilliant hurling duel. Root yielded but five hits to the Bengals and pitched great ball all the way. Barfoot was touched for nine hits, but in the pinches he had the Angel sluggers hitting his knuckle ball into the ground, making it possible for the Bengal infield to turn in its four double plays.

SECOND WALK-AWAY

Krug's pill-maulers made a walk-away out of the supper-shift, slamming the offerings of Ed Bryan, Jim Christian, Lefty Thomas and Fred Groat for twelve runs in the first four frames. After that it was just a question of getting the nine innings over.

Ike Wolfer and Eddie Moore, Tiger outfielders, forced their way into the calcium of the public eye during the initial game when they made a couple of wonderful catches that helped Barfoot out plenty and did the Angels no good. Wolfer ran back to the fence and made a one-hand stab off the wall of Horan's drive that appeared labeled for a double. The catch prevented an Angel tally, for Jacobs was on first and there were none out at the time Horan smashed the agate.

Moore made two sensational running catches of Grimes's and

Hood's drives in the seventh. Hood's smash would have been an easy triple, Moore catching it with his back to the plate right in front of the gate leading into the clubhouse.

The Seraphs put over the solitary tally of the game in the fifth frame, bunching two hits and a sacrifice fly. Hood opened the inning by beating out a hit over second. Hemingway made a nice stop but was unable to regain his balance in time to make a throw to first. Gus Sandberg drove Wally to third with a single through the box. Beck sent a sacrifice fly to Blakesley in short right and Hood barely beat the latter's throw to Hannah. Hannah claimed Hood failed to touch the plate, but Ed Finney ruled otherwise, thus, as later developments proved, preventing the tilt going extra innings.

TAKE EARLY LEAD

The Cherubs took a one-run lead in the first inning of the sundown bill, Twombly singling to left, going to second on Jacobs's safety, to third on Whaley's sacrifice and scoring on Horan's infield out. Whaley injured his shoulder when he stumbled running to first, but stayed in the game until the sixth, when Gunther took his place at third.

Wes Griffin was also a casualty in the second game, retiring after being spiked by Hack Ennis, who caught his first league game for the Angels.

Three more Angel runs arrived in the second, walks to Myers and Whaley, hits by Hood, Beck and Twombly and Jacobs's sacrifice fly accounting for the trio of markers. Christian relieved Bryan in this inning.

Christian's single to center brought in McDowell and Blakesley with the Tigers' first two runs in the last of the second.

A walk to Grimes and Hood's home run over the left-field wall gave the Angels two more off Christian in the third.

SCORE SIX MORE

Lefty Thomas started on the mound for the Tigers in the fourth inning, but Groat relieved him after he had walked two men, hit one and got one out on a sacrifice hit. Six Angels crossed the plate in this stanza, clinching the verdict.

After having a ten-run lead at his disposal Elmer Myers was able to coast through the rest of the game.

The Tigers left last night for Seattle where on Wednesday they will, with Red Killefer's Indians, give Seattle fans their first look at 1925 baseball.

The Angels open a seven-game series with the league-leading Salt Lake Bees here Tuesday. No game today. Scores: and never got back in. Pietro Bordino, whose big, red Fiat had carried him to an easy victory in the third heat, retired on the sixth lap, got back in on the twenty-seventh and then went out for keeps. He was running fourth when he was forced into the pits.

CULVER RACE WON BY HARTZ

HILL INTO PITS

Benny Hill made a pit stop in the twelfth lap and lost two and a half laps, which was a tough break, as he had been close to the leaders. De Paolo, whose time of 135 miles per hour had led all in the heats, snorted past Hartz for the lead in the twelfth lap. Tommy Milton was bothered with engine trouble in the seventeenth lap, and had to drop back from his third place position, Cooper taking his berth. De Paolo clung to the lead until the twenty-eighth lap, when Hartz put on a great burst of speed. Cooper was beginning to display his thunder and also passed De Paolo. The Italian lost part of his right rear tire about this time and consequently had to slow up if he desired to finish in the do-re-mi.

Then began the battle between Hartz and Cooper, followed by the sensational skid described above.

Old records for twenty-five and fifty miles were hard to get hold of last night. Tommy Milton's time of 13m. 1.4s. for the shorter race stood as a world's mark for some time. It was made at Beverly Hills in 1922. He also held the fifty-mile record, doing the distance in 26m. 1.9s. Yesterday's times were so much faster that they are almost unbelievable. De Paolo averaged 136.7 miles per hour for fifteen miles, the fastest mark of the day.

The crowd was small, but enthusiastic, 15,000 fans watching the carnival of speed.

SANTA PAULA WINS VENTURA TRACK MEET

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

OXNARD, April 19.—Santa Paula High School won the Ventura county track meet here yesterday, scoring 44 points and copping the title from Oxnard by one-half a point, the latter school scoring 43½. Fillmore had 29 for third, Ojai 9½, Ventura 9, Moor Park 1, and Thacher School did not score. Santa Paula won the five points in the relay to win the meet. Oxnard was leading them by 4½ points before this event.

HERMAN AND ROPER IN MAIN EVENT AT VERNON TOMORROW

Boxing is a rough man's game.

Both Tiny Herman and Bob Roper who clash in the star bout of the orphans' benefit show at Vernon tomorrow night agree on this. Sometimes fighters attempt to gain publicity by resorting to weird things. The Herman-Roper bout is for charity.

But Jack Lewis, manager of Herman, relates a story of his fighter that is the genuine article. Herman makes his home in Omaha—and has had most of his fights there.

About a year ago Max (Fat) Tennebaum, trainer, rubber and sparring partner of fighters, was very sick at the Wise Memorial Hospital. For weeks he hovered between life and death. Finally as a last resort doctors agreed that only a blood transfusion would save Tennebaum. When word reached the gym about a dozen fellows with flattened noses, cauliflowered ears and ridged hands volunteered quickly to give the necessary pint of blood to the old trainer. Among them was Herman.

Tiny and Fat had been pals. Fat had taken Tiny's hardest jabs and swings often in the gym to help condition the Omaha battler for his bouts. All the volunteers submitted to tests. A fellow named Bill Heinzman's blood was selected by the doctors. At that time Herman was in training for a match with Battling Siki a week ahead.

"You couldn't have fought if they had selected you to give up a pint of blood to Tennebaum," some one suggested to Tiny.

"Ah, what's a pint of blood," grunted Tiny.

"I've lost more than that in some fights, besides what's a fight when a fellow's friend needs him."

Tennebaum took the blood transfusion and recovered.

Herman is a big fellow—weighs 217 pounds in condition.

He has been compared to John L. Sullivan in looks, but those who have seen Babe Ruth see a striking resemblance to the Swat King.

Put their profiles together and you can't tell who is Babe.

Herman has been boxing four and one-half years—three years under the management of Lewis. He has had thirty-five bouts under his present manager and won all of them but three. Among his knockout victims are Jack McAuliff, Al Reich, Clem Johnson, Mike Conroy, Jack McDonald, Jim Tracy and Andre Anderson. Herman is of German descent. He was born in Portland, Or., twenty-four years ago. When he was a kid he worked in a butcher shop. Later he was a policeman on the Astoria (Or.) force. He started to box while in the Army.

Tiny, the name bestowed on him by a Portland sporting writer, means the exact opposite.

He has a big stomach like Babe Ruth.

"It's muscle," says Tiny, "not velvet."

SAGEHEN GOLFERS TO MEET TROJAN TEAM

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

POMONA COLLEGE, CLAREMONT, April 19.—The oft postponed golf tournament between Sagehen and Trojan golfers will be held over the Pomona Mountain Meadows course next Thursday, according to an announcement made to local golfers today. U.S.C. boasts an excellent team and the Pomona players will meet stiff competition. The Pomona team will be composed of Reeder, Morehardt, Armour, Pepall, Tarr, Wurfel, Wise, Russell, Clark and Morris.

OBSERVATIONS

BY THE INNOCENT BYSTANDER
BILL HENRY

DOWN at the Bay League meet on the new Compton oval several young candidates for higher honors were discovered during the course of the close battle for titular honors. Most exciting of all was the work of Cecil Howard, diminutive Compton sprinter, who was credited with 9.9s. for the 100-yard dash. There were seven watches on him in the race, one catching him at 9.8, one at 10 flat and the other five at 9.9, so that it is reasonable to believe that he made the mark.

Ferguson of Inglewood is going to be a real dark horse in the distance events. He ran the half in 2.04.7 and the mile in 4.47.2, winning with ease and scarcely blowing. Williams of Inglewood is good for well over twelve feet in the pole vault and Bowen of Santa Monica looks like a sure high-point winner in the jumps. Several others were close enough to insure their placing in the Southern California meet.

Joe Pipal's Occidental relay teams, while they didn't duplicate their performance of winning five events as they did last year at Kansas, certainly did wonderfully well in winning one first, two seconds and a third in four starts. In each event the Tigers forced the winners to beat the record set by last year's Tiger teams and they manifestly upheld their end of things in first-class shape.

The mark of 2.04.2 set by the Tigers in the four-man two-mile event is by far the best time that has ever been made by a Southern California team. It means an average of 2.01 per man. Considering that one of the Tiger runners in this event—Bailey—hadn't run a half-mile this year, having specialized on the quarter, the record was excellent. They ought to do just as well or better at Drake this coming Saturday.

Bulletin—Joe Pipal has just sent us a telegram giving all the horrible details of the Drake meet. He gets in his alibis early by telling us what the wires carried Saturday morning, namely, that the Tigers drew poor lanes in every race in which they competed. Then he tells what the wire didn't carry—that Gregg, his best sprinter—pulled a muscle warming up and, therefore, was lost to the team, Donley, the pole-vaulter replacing him.

Pipal says: "Purser, Broadhead, Donley, Nash won our section in half-mile in 1.29.1, new Occidental record, however, Butler in their section won in 1.28.9—we were not pressed in our race. Took second in medley, a heartbreaker in which Montgomery did not run. Purser was badly boxed at start of mile relay. We won two-mile setting new record. We ran faster in every event than last year's team, but the competition was much stronger."

TWO EVENTS FEATURED AT ICE RINK

Hockey Contest and Bert Clark Exhibition Are on Palais de Glace Bill

Two big features are on tap for tonight at the Palais De Glace, when the Hollywood Athletic Club hockey team and the heavy Monarchs meet. The other big event of the night will be Bert Clark. This chap alone is worth the price of admission, he is known as the Charley Chaplin of the ice-skating world. Rink fans will be glad to hear of his return and in his honor it will be Bert Clark night.

But, getting back to the ice hockey game between these two deadly rivals. Make no mistake about the game. It will be one of the best ever seen on the local ice, and what's more Hollywood will win. Manager Baker has something up his sleeve when he makes the statement that his outfit will win the game. The last two games went to the Monarchs by 1 point, but, only after a sensational battle and each game was decided in the last few minutes of play.

In McKuster and Gaudin, Hollywood has about two of the best men playing in the local ice hockey league. Both are in shape and that means that it will be a nick and tuck affair all the way. But, let's get back to the heavy and rough Monarchs, we can't take anything away from their playing. In Shaver, Irvin, Galbraith, Glickman, Jacobs, Cantillion and Phipps, they have a mighty sweet looking outfit and it should be a game worth going miles to see. It will be called tonight at 8:30.

Whittier Team Scores Victory Over Sagehens

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

POMONA COLLEGE, CLAREMONT, April 19.—Coach Rube Ellis's Poet baseball team successfully plucked the feathers of the Pomona College varsity yesterday when they defeated the Sage hens, 11 to 2, on the local diamond.

The Poets started the game briskly by making their first run in the opening frame. Clark and Rasmussen, both of Whittier, put across two more runs in the sixth.

Pomona scored her first run in the seventh and Whittier came back with a vengeance when Ranzona, first man to bat, knocked out a home run. Denny and Rasmussen followed Ranzona's precedent and beat outnice hits and were later sacrificed across the home plate by Ashton and Kimmel. Whittier again found Holsinger's delivery in the eighth, making four additional runs. Pomona scored again in the ninth and Whittier made an additional marker.

NURMI ARRIVES WEDNESDAY FOR COLISEUM APPEARANCE

The great Paavo Nurmi is but three days away from Los Angeles, his participation in the Loyola College games in the Grant Park Stadium in Chicago yesterday afternoon being the concluding engagement in the East and Mid-West of the athletic sensation. A trip over the plains and desert will put him in the metropolis of the Far West, where on next Saturday he will run in the most mammoth athletic amphitheater in the world, the Los Angeles Coliseum, the building which will encircle the horde of athletes who will batle for world honors in the 1932 Olympiad.

Nurmi himself, has confessed an ambition to win the twenty-six-mile marathon that year. The mighty Finn also has made known his intention to make a desperate effort or series of efforts to run one mile in four minutes, a feat which most athletic "sharps" predict is impossible of achievement. But the super-runner has upset the dope on record-breaking so often and has lowered so many long standing "impossible" records that his prediction must be taken seriously. Nurmi will probably try for the four-minute mile next Saturday.

The events in which Nurmi will compete are not the only ones that will be fought with tough competition for a world's championship. Ugo Frigerio, Olympic Games' walking champion, a smiling yet determined Italian, will be faced on Saturday by his most feared rival, Willie Plant. Plant broke Ugo's 2500-meter record in St. Paul the other night.

At a meeting between Bob Weaver and other officials of the meet, it was announced last night that the trial heat games of the Southern California high schools which are to precede the Nurmi meet will begin at 9 o'clock Saturday morning and conclude at 11:30, in order that the running track which will be cut by the running of several hundred athletes, may be prepared for Nurmi Hahn, Connolly, Frigerio, Plant and the other stars who will walk or run later in the day.

HOLLYWOOD A. C. NABS CUP

Mercury Soccerites Refuse to Play Extra Time to Break Tie and Thereby Forfeit Trophy

After holding Hollywood A. C. to a draw, the Los Angeles Athletic Club soccer team presented their opponents with the Spalding perpetual trophy yesterday afternoon at Loyola Park. The Mercurians' refusal to play extra time to break the tie, resulted in the cup changing hands.

The Mercurians were first to score, Andy Davidson netting fifteen minutes after the kick-off. Billie Downie gave the Clubmen their second counter when he scored a brilliant goal. Downie received from Allan, and after eluding Chester and Brown bulged the net with a terrific drive which McKenzie was powerless to save. In this half the Clubmen had the better of the argument but they could not score again.

DOMINATE EXCHANGE

With the change over, Hollywood soon dominated the exchanges, and within five minutes Parkinson had given his team its first goal, when he broke through single-handed. That the winners failed to score on at least two occasions in the next ten minutes was due to a combination of sound defensive work by Milford, Lyons and Tunicliffe and to luck. The Moviemen were all over their adversaries and much of the play was in the club goal area. Still they could not score, and it appeared that the Mercurians had turned aside the assault without further damage resulting.

Capt. Jimmie Allan resorted to a defensive game evidently being content to hold on to the slim lead. Downie dropped back to the half-line to assist Allan, Davidson and Thompson. These tactics gave promise of bearing fruit, for the tide of battle was turned and honors were even in the exchanges.

EXTRA TIME

Just when it seemed that victory was within the grasp of the Clubmen, Parkinson got on the receiving end of a pass from Cook and the next minute the ball was in the net, and honors even. Neither side could break the tie in the remaining minutes of the regular period, and extra time was necessary, to which the L.A.A.C. refused to agree, thereby forfeiting the game.

MONTEBELLO TRIMS GRAYS

Montebello came from behind with two runs in the ninth inning to overcome a one-run lead of the L. A. Grays yesterday and handed the latter team an 8-to-7 beating at Montebello. Red Hatch, batting for Webb, crashed out a triple to bring in two men. The score:

Baby Gans and Sylvester to Clash Tonight

Baby Gans, the greatest black fighter in the West, will meet Eddie Sylvester in the ten-round main event of the Assembly Club at Ninth and Central tonight. Gans has been beating every one he has fought so far with ease and fans began to think the boys he was meeting were set-ups. Sylvester is one of the best trial horses in Southern California and only last week knocked the well-known Morrie Eagleson kicking in five rounds. Assembly fans know that Eddie will be in there trying at all times and Gans will have to be his best to win the decision over him. Matchmaker Burns is going to get the toughest lightweight on the Coast for Gans if he beats the tough Sylvester tonight.

Sailor Larry and Ted Frenchie tangle six rounds in the semi-wind-up. Larry looks to be in the best shape of his career and has won a number of fights recently including knockouts over the Kelly boys—Joe and Tom. This bout is a grudge fight. Art Springer will mark his return to the ring tonight when he clashes with Johnny Godinas in the six-round special event. Art was the best on the Coast at one time. They will also travel six rounds.

Eastern tire engineers came West to build them!

LESS THAN EIGHT years ago this narrative begins — at a time when leading Akron tire engineers were planning and building a twelve-million-dollar branch factory at Cumberland, Md.

"Why," they pondered, "should the far East be more able to support a model factory like this than the far West?" They sought the facts. Thirty per cent of all tires were on cars West of the Mississippi, but only three per cent were made there!

Then it was that they determined to build the C-T-C tire factory in the West.

In nine westernmost states C-T-C's have won a leading place. Quality that only skill can build has produced mileages that any motorist can appreciate!

Today C-T-C's are the largest-selling exclusively Pacific-Coast-made tire!

Throughout the West are C-T-C dealers as dependable as the tire itself. Let them serve you—and learn how to forget your tires for thousands of miles. Columbia Tire Corporation (C-T-C) Portland, Oregon.

ANTIBLINDNESS DRIVE STARTED

Campaign is on for Better Lighting in Schools

Every Teacher in America to Get Circular

Defective Vision Affects 12 Per Cent of Tots

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, April 19.—A nation-wide effort to eliminate from the schoolroom the conditions which are having a harmful effect on the eyes of children will be initiated tomorrow. The superintendent of schools in every State, county and city having a school population of 25,000 or more will receive from the National Committee for the Prevention of Blindness for distribution among public school-teachers a communication based on the code of lighting school buildings which was prepared under the joint sponsorship of the Illuminating Engineering Society and the American Institute of Architects. This code was recently approved as the American standard.

In announcing the plan to place a copy of a nontechnical summary of this code in the hands of every public and private school-teacher in America, Mrs. Winifred Hathaway, secretary of the National Committee for the Prevention of Blindness, declared that a recent study of the condition of the eyes of more than 4,000,000 public schoolchildren indicates that approximately 12 per cent of all schoolchildren in America have such seriously defective vision as to be handicapped in their work.

The communication from the national committee will not only acquaint the teacher with the principles of correct lighting, but will deal with the arrangement of seats and desks, coloring of walls, the use of window shades, construction and location of blackboards and the position of the teacher herself in the classroom, all of which have important bearings on the lighting condition within the room and on the use or abuse of the children's eyes. The committee emphasizes the fact that the eyestrain resulting from incorrect lighting of schoolrooms frequently results in functional disorders, near-sightedness or other serious eye defects. It declares that two of the chief causes of eyestrain are insufficient illumination and glare, and then describes the methods of eliminating these causes.

The nontechnical summary of the code was prepared by a special committee of nationally known lighting experts. The following collaborated in the work: Prof. S. K. Barrett, professor of electrical engineering, New York University, New York; Walter S. Deffenbaugh, chief of division of city schools, United States Bureau of Education, Washington, D. C.; J. E. Hannum, research engineer, Eyesight Conservation Council of America, New York; M. G. Lloyd, chief of safety division, United States Bureau of Standards, Washington, D. C.; M. Luckiesh, Laboratory of Applied Science, Nela Park, Cleveland, O., and Mr. W. J. Serrill, Philadelphia.

An initial edition of 112,000 copies of this summary has been published by the National Committee for the Prevention of Blindness for free distribution and additional quantities will be available soon.

BANKING, CREDIT STUDY PLANNED

National Commerce Body Seeks Improvements

Economists, Business Men to be on Committee

Survey to be Nonpolitical, R. F. Grant Says

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, April 19. — A comprehensive study of the country's banking and credit system with a view to producing suggestions for its improvement will be undertaken immediately under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. In making the announcement yesterday Richard F. Grant, president of the chamber, said in a statement that the survey, which will be conducted by committees, probably would be followed by a national conference of business men, to be called for the purpose of advancing a complete program of recommendations.

Afterward, he said, the chamber probably would submit these recommendations to a referendum vote of the chamber's membership.

"There are being organized a number of committees which with a staff of experts," said Mr. Grant, "will begin at once a study of the banking and credit system of the United States with a view to reporting their conclusions during the fall of next year or the spring of 1927. It is expected that the full personnel of these committees and of a general executive or steering committee will be announced shortly.

"The committees will be made up of economists, merchants, manufacturers, bankers and other business men. Their duty will be to evaluate various proposals for changes in our banking system with a view to securing a better integration of the credit structure of the country. They will necessarily consider current proposals for changes in the Federal Reserve Act and in the policies and practices of the Federal reserve banks, the recharter of these banks and related questions.

"The Chamber of Commerce of the United States for some months has been carefully considering numerous proposals for changes in our banking system. As a result of a special report from the advisory committee of the finance department, which committee is made up of some of the country's leading business men, the chamber has now decided to inaugurate a thorough-going study of the present situation with a view to determining what changes, if any, in our banking and credit structure are needed. Because it is nonpolitical, is representative of all forms of business and is imbued with the idea of public service, the chamber is a logical agency to organize this study.

"So far as the Federal reserve system may be concerned the chamber has been written into history as a strong proponent of the system, and from its outset has been a sympathetic and constructive critic. It is important that the danger be avoided of the adoption of ill-considered modifications of the Federal Reserve Act. At the same time it may be determined that some changes in the act and in the policies and operations of the system will make it an even more valuable auxiliary to business."

Japanese Find Dynamite Plot Against Osaka

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HONOLULU, April 19.—A dispatch from Tokio to the Nippu Jiji, a local Japanese newspaper, states that several arrests followed the discovery of a plot to dynamite the entire city of Osaka and to murder the manager of the Osaka branch of one of the leading Tokio banks to get $100,000 with which to obtain the freedom of several persons imprisoned for the attempted assassination of Gen. Fukuda.

The plot was attributed to a secret society called the Gillotine Sha.

Stricken Town is in Grip of Fever Scourge

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

INDIANAPOLIS, April 19.—A citizens' meeting has been called at Goshen to consider measures to combat an epidemic of scarlet fever which has already taken a toll of six lives.

Statesmen Scan Ocean Garb of Waikiki Girls

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HONOLULU, April 19.—Members of the Hawaiian Legislature assembled at Waikiki Beach this afternoon as a committee of the whole to review bathing costumes in connection with consideration of a demand for a repeal of the famous Desha bathing suit law.

This law curtails considerably the display of skin by feminine bathers and requires them to cover their bathing suits when walking in the streets.

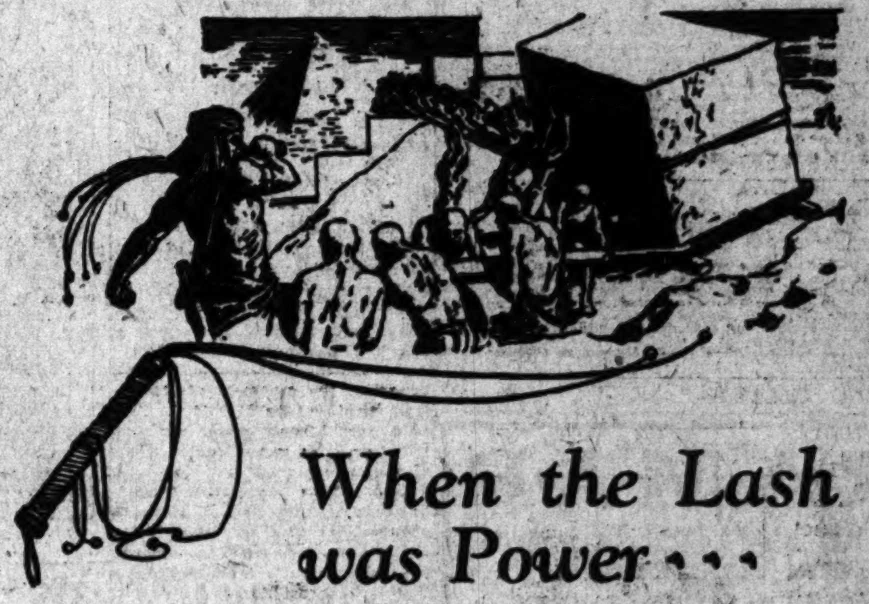
LOS ANGELES · A WORLD KNOWN METROPOLIS



When the Lash was Power . . .

UNDER the cruel, compelling force of inhuman welts raised by a tyrant's lash—Egypt prospered for a time. Her's was a mighty kingdom, yet she crumbled and decayed. Power, misdirected, cannot endure.

A Record of Achievement in 10 Years

Power, directed, lays the foundation of Los Angeles, one of the world's largest industrial cities. Fifth in population in America, producing over a billion dollars worth of manufactured products, possessing ideal maritime contact with the Far East and offering unexcelled railroad facilities, Los Angeles accomplished in less than 10 years what Egypt could not do in centuries.

City Cuts Power Costs

And in volume of cheap electrical power—Los Angeles leads America. The Los Angeles Bureau of Power and Light is the outstanding municipally owned electrical system in the World. Los Angeles electrical power is the cheapest furnished to any city of importance in the United States. The result is a constant stream of new industry.

An inexhaustible supply of cheap electrical power is one of the many available resources of the Los Angeles Bureau of Power and Light. The foresight of the Bureau has made it possible for Los Angeles to be the world port of the Pacific.

BIRD MAN TESTS AIR CURRENTS

Chief of Flying Field First to Ascend Daily to Chart Routes

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) April 19. Five mornings each week a single plane takes off from Kelly Field at 6 o'clock and circles about the field. It climbs up among the clouds and sails along aerial highways that are used for training purposes.

The ship is flown by Capt. Burdette S. Wright, officer in charge of flying for the advanced flying school. A few months ago Capt. Wright was advance officer for the 'round-the-world flyers in their trips across the United States. Now he is pathfinder for the student aviators of Kelly Field.

Capt. Wright tests the upper air currents as to direction and velocity and determines the altitude of the "ceiling" on cloudy days and the character of the clouds. He is then prepared to assign the students missions that can be performed without undue interference from the elements.

At 6:30 each morning the first section of students begins flying. Some of the students have not progressed beyond the dual stage, others are practicing "eights" or accuracy flying and the most advanced are entering upon the maximum performance stage.

"You must stay," said Victor. Joseph shook his head. The quarrel became heated and Victor, seizing a revolver from a drawer, pointed it at Joseph.

"I guess you'll stay now," he said. There was a report. Joseph fell dead.

Real Estate Man Asserted to Have Appropriated Client's Money

Asserting that Jerome Hough, a licensed real estate broker doing business as Hough & Co., at Sixth and Oxford streets, appropriated to his own use $250 which was entrusted to him to apply on the purchase of property, State Real Estate Commissioner Keiser has permanently revoked the broker's license.

According to the commission's findings Mary E. Beatty entered into negotiations with Hough for the purchase of a double bungalow at 1135 North Hudson street, paying a $500 deposit on May 14, 1924. Evidence introduced at a hearing of the case showed that Hough paid the vendor $250 of this amount but never consummated the deal and has refused to return the money, the commissioner said.

LINCOLN DEALER GIVES PROGRAM

Marquarre Ensemble Charms KHJ Audience

Harp-'Cello Duets Greeted by Loud Praise

Frances Gabrille Contributes Large Share

BY CLAIRE MELLONINO

The benevolent shadow of Lincoln hovered over our studio last night and shed its warm, kindly smile over the tribute which was being paid through his name to scientific accomplishment and art. And when the Emancipator's spirit departed, the gratitude of Radioland went out to Harold L. Arnold, Inc., Lincoln motor car distributors, who gave two hours of classic entertainment.

Last night's concert, arranged by their representative, J. Howard Johnson, served as another sturdy addition to the inspiring musical structure which is being reared by Harold L. Arnold, Inc., upon their faith in radio broadcasting and its contributions to the progress of civilization.

PLAYED YEAR AGO

The program presented the Maquarre Ensemble composed of Andre Maquarre, flute and director; Jules Lepske, first violin; Anthony Briglio, second violin; Phillip Kahgan, viola; Franz Lusschen, 'cello, and Ernest Huber, double bass; also Francis Gabrille, operatic soprano; George McLaughlin, baritone; Catherine Jackson, harpist, and Joseph Heindl, 'cellist, the latter two being featured in duets.

It was our pleasure to hear the Maquarre Ensemble at KHJ approximately one year ago and the marked impression they left with their audience upon that occasion was magnified many times last night by a sterling performance.

Under the skilled baton of Andre Maquarre and under the stimulus of his impeccable musicianship, the efforts of each member of the ensemble were amalgamated into one golden chalice from which poured the crystilline liquid of musical perfection.

Varied and rare combinations of instruments were introduced by Andre Maquarre and his associates including a Beethoven Trio for flute, viola and violin. Another feature of their share of the program was presented by Andre Maquarre, who gave as a flute solo Doppler's "Pastorale."

Philip Kahgan contributed a group of two viola solos, with a style and well-tempered emotionalism that heretofore had remained unsuspected. Mr. Kahgan's previous appearances were as a member of a chamber music organization.

Jules Lepske, first violin of the ensemble, exhibited his usual mastery of his instrument in two artistic and colorful interpretations.

DUETS APPLAUDED

Frances Gabrille contributed her customary large share toward assuring a successful reception for the program.

Catherine Jackson, harpist, and Joseph Heindl, 'cellist, proved a delightful combination in duets for their respective instruments. If the compliments received over the telephone last night can be accepted as a barometer of the sentiments of Radioland, these two young artists will be compelled to play an early return engagement.

The concert was given its final touches of excellency by the presence of George McLaughlin, whose baritone voice appeared to great advantage in the type of songs he chose for his program.

The overture to this program was presented by the International Bible Students' Association, who came to KHJ with their regular Sabbath dissertation on the Bible linked with musical numbers provided by the Orpheus Four and myself. The speaker was Charles W. Sievart. Don't forget friends, this student body holds meetings every Sunday at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. in the Trinity Auditorium.

Don't overlook the fact that KHJ is not silent tonight, as it will broadcast a splendid program presented by the El Encanto Apartments.

STAB FROM KNIFE FATAL TO STEWARD

Indian, With Bad Record, is Sought in Connection With Cutting Affray

Earl Jack Clark, an Indian and asserted proprietor of a bootleg resort at Harbor City, was sought by police last night in connection with the mortal wounding of John Silvia, 30 years of age, a steward of the steamship City of Los Angeles. Clark was under arrest in 1923, following the shooting of William Golindo in Seal Beach, but was eventually released. At that time, according to police, he was running a gambling house. Golindo died of his wounds. Clark has also been arrested several times on Wright and Volstead Act charges, the police say, and is now held in $1000 bail in Long Beach on such a charge.

Arthur Dinsmore and Card Perry of Torrance, proprietor of taxi stand and taxi driver, respectively, are under arrest as witnesses to the stabbing, said to have taken place early yesterday at 2320 Two Hundred and Fifty-first street, Harbor City. Dinsmore and Perry are said to have driven Silvia from his ship to Clark's place and to have put him back aboard his ship again after the quarrel with Clerk in which Silvia was stabbed several times. His shipmates on the Los Angeles discovered Silvia's wounds and had him transferred to Seaside Hospital, Long Beach, where he died. Mae Clark, said to be a sister of Clark, was reported to be the cause of the quarrel.

After putting the dying man wrapped in a blanket to conceal the blood aboard his ship, Dinsmore is said to have taken Clark to San Pedro and aided him to escape.

ONE GUNMAN STANDS OFF 200 POLICE

Shoots Three, Escapes Injury; Surrenders When Ammunition Plays Out

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, April 19.—A notorious gunman, supplied with plenty of ammunition, barricaded himself in a flat on the fourth floor of an apartment building here last night and for three hours withstood the furious attack of an army of 200 policemen, which stormed the apartment with rifles, revolvers and tear bombs. At 1 o'clock this morning, the gunman, Peter Podolski, his stock of bullets gone, surrendered.

Three policemen were seriously wounded by bullets from the besieged man's revolver. He himself, despite the rain of fire directed upon him, was unscathed. The injured are:

Sergt. Peter B. Kennelly, shot in the neck; Policeman David J. Fitzgerald, shot in the leg; Policeman James Cunningham, chauffeur for Chief of Detectives John Stege, shot in the abdomen and leg.

The neighborhood in which the miniature warfare was staged is composed of apartment buildings, housing well-to-do families. Podolski took up his station in the fourth-floor flat of a building which contains 100 suites.

With the first exchange of bullets, crowds flocked to the street. In fifteen minutes the apartment building was deserted, thousands came to watch the policemen attack. Bystanders were in danger from the fire until police reserves arrived to keep the crowds back.

WOMAN TO FILE WRIT

Slayer of Wealthy Indian Bases Act on Self-Defense

Mrs. Nellie Wolters, said to have stabbed George M. Stalsby in the back with a butcher knife, announced yesterday she had retained S. S. Hahn as counsel and that he will today ask for a writ to obtain her release, as she has been held since the 15th inst. with no complaint filed. Stalsby was found in the alleyway behind the Hotel Rosslyn. According to Mrs. Wolters, she killed Stalsby in self-defense and to protect her fiance, Robert McNeill, following a party at 443 Crocker street. Stalsby was an Indian and said to be wealthy. McNeill is under arrest also.

WILSHIRE APARTMENT ROBBED OF FUR COATS

Sneak thieves stole two sealskin coats valued at $1550 from the apartment of Mrs. C. Simpson at 1809 West Eighth street yesterday, according to her report to the police. Detectives of Wilshire division made an investigation and declared that they would make an arrest within twenty-four hours. Mrs. Simpson said that the coats were stolen while she was absent from her apartment. One coat belonged to her, she said, and the other to Mrs. Phil Cosgrove, a friend.

SCHOOL FOR DIPLOMATS OPEN TODAY

Twenty-five Freshmen to Begin Training for Foreign Service

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Twenty-five aspirants will begin tomorrow a course of study in the government's new foreign service school, created recently by President Coolidge to provide trained personnel for the American Diplomatic Service.

From the freshmen who compose the first class of the new school, selections probably will be made for posts at home and abroad, including possibly an Ambassador or Minister, and certainly such others as Secretary of Embassy or legation, counselor, or some consular designation. The twenty-five beginners already are the survivors of about 200 candidates who were examined in January.

The first course of the school will terminate with examinations in July and the survivors of that test then will commence a year of intensive instruction and encounter still other tests before finally being assigned to posts abroad. Even when assigned the status will be probationary, to be determined in the end by results of work performed in the field.

President Coolidge apparently has recognized the need of experienced diplomats in preference to political appointees in the foreign service. Selections made by him have largely been those of career officers with long records of service as their only recommendation for the higher places of responsibility he has given them.

In the case of John Van A. MacMurray, recently appointed Minister to China, it is known that three other candidates for that post possessed strong political backing, but failed to get the appointment because they lacked experience and Mr. MacMurray had it.

Prince Indulges in Dancing, Polo Lagos Next Stop

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

MINNA (Nigeria) April 19.—After having danced until midnight last night at Kano, the Prince of Wales left here this morning on the way to Lagos. He spent a comparatively quiet Sunday. The Prince evidently received much benefit from a polo game in which he played yesterday. This was his first ride since March 28.

The heat at Kano slightly affected the Prince and some members of his staff.

Financial Aid From America Belief in Italy

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

ROME, April 19. — In financial and political quarters the belief still is expressed that negotiations are being carried on by the Italian government with American financiers to obtain aid in stabilizing the Italian budget.

This belief has been strengthened by the fact that after the recent conference between Thomas W. Lamont of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., New York, and Premier Mussolini, there were conversations between the Premier and Otto H. Kuhn of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., New York.

Minister of Finance De Stefani was present during the conversations.

DEATH ENDS LONG COMA OF WOMAN

Funeral Rites Conducted for Victim Unconscious Thirty-two Days

Funeral services held yesterday for Mrs. Vivian Hannah Faris, 29 years of age, wife of Philip M. Faris, investment broker of 1726 North Mariposa avenue, revealed that Mrs. Faris died Saturday after lying in a coma for thirty-two days, a victim of sleeping sickness.

Not in the best of health for some time, Mrs. Faris lapsed into the sleep from which the strange malady gains its name, more than a month ago, nor were all the efforts of physicians able to arouse her from the fatal lethargy. She gradually grew weaker and died.

In addition to her husband, the deceased is survived by two sons, Paul, 5 years of age, and William, 9. Funeral services were held yesterday at the chapel of Gates, Crane & Earl, 1724 North Highland avenue, Hollywood. The body will be cremated today.

The death of Mrs. Faris recalls what was then regarded as an epidemic of sleeping sickness prevalent throughout the country in 1920. A few persons died at that time, but several were able to conquer the disease and win back their health. An El Monte man, Robert Carr, slept seventy-two days before dying.

The technical medical term for the disease is "encephalitis lethargica."

RAIN IS BENEFICIAL TO MISSOURI VALLEY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DES MOINES, April 19.—Rain which was general throughout this section of the Missouri Valley in Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota and Minnesota early today, relieved a drought situation which was rapidly becoming serious. Precipitation of from .25 to a full inch was sfficient to start recently sown small grains and to put the green into pastures and meadows.

Recall at Huntington Park Still Live Issue

Lower Court Rules Against Election

Many Questions of Law and Fact Involved

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

HUNTINGTON PARK, April 19. Another move in the recall proposition in Huntington Park is to be made in the announcement through his attorneys that Charles W. Cunningham is to appeal the mandamus suit which was recently heard in Superior Court, when Judge Hartley Shaw decided against the plaintiff.

The case brought by Mr. Cunningham was one in which he demanded that the City Trustees of Huntington Park appear in court and give cause why the board has not called a special election which would give the voters of the city an opportunity to decide at the polls whether these three Trustees, Milton A. Blanchard, Norman O. Byers and Frank Fitch, should retain their official positions as members of this board.

The judge held that the City Clerk, H. H. Hunter, had failed to check the petition for the recall, or that he had failed to supervise this work of checking as required by the statutes, but instead had turned the sixteen or more parts of the petition over to County Registrar Kerr, where the checking was done in his office.

The petition in its various parts was circulated last November and presented to the City Clerk, who, at the next regular meeting of the Board of Trustees, presented it to the board. The board then returned the petition to the City Clerk for the purpose of checking the signatures, of which there were more than 700.

This was turned over to the County Registrar, and after it had been returned to the City Clerk and then presented to the City Trustees, it was stated by one of the trustees that several signatures on the petition had not been secured according to the statutes in recall matters, and the special election was not called. Instead, the board set a date to sit in judicial session and subpoena the circulators of the different parts of the petition for a hearing.

This date was set, but in the meantime James Treadwell brought a suit in Superior Court to prevent the Trustees from calling a special election and a temporary injunction was granted. This prevented the judicial hearing as arranged by the Trustees. A writ of review was later brought in Superior Court and this was dismissed by the judge.

Then came the mandamus suit of Mr. Cunningham, which was tried, the result being against the plaintiff, and he has taken an appeal.

The attorneys for the plaintiff are Judge T. V. Cassidy, Charles Hedgcock and Arch G. McLay.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEWPORT BEACH, April 18.—Stanley Bichel, 1030 Ocean avenue, Long Beach, is in the Seaside Hospital, Long Beach, in a pitiful condition, and Howard P. MAYOR ASKS ALL IN TOWN TO DOLL UP

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

SAN FERNANDO, April 19.—Maintaining that "a "dolled-up" town is the one that most attracts tourists as they pass through, Mayor Fowler, the Woman's Civic League, the Chamber of Commerce and the local Garden Week Committee are urging San Fernando citizens to clean up, paint up and shine up everything within the townsite during National Garden Week, which began today and ends next Saturday night. Mayor Fowler in issuing his proclamation has urged all citizens to give the town a good spring house cleaning, so to speak, pointing out that a spick-and-span spotless town is usually where home-seeking tourists park the auto for good and become new citizens.

Officer Hurt in Wild Dash After Speeder

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

RIVERSIDE, April 19.—Skidding on a curve on Box Springs Grade while driving a motorcycle at approximately seventy miles an hour, State Traffic Officer W. W. Walrath yesterday suffered two broken ribs, a scalp wound and numerous cuts and bruises.

The traffic officer said last night he was chasing two speeding trucks the drivers of which were racing each other down the grade, making about forty miles an hour. One, he said, was an ice cream truck from San Bernardino county and as it rounded the turn water streamed from the truck over the pavement. Walrath's motorcycle skidded on the wet pavement and the officer was picked up a few minutes later by Jack Tiel of the Box Springs Service Station and rushed to the office of Dr. H. R. Martin.

The motorcycle was badly wrecked. While the officer's injuries are not regarded as serious it is expected he will be confined to his home at 1192 Lemon street for some time.

PROSPERITY NATURAL TO CALIFORNIA

Planning Commissioner in Address to Club Tells of State's Bright Future

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

INGLEWOOD, April 19. — Contrasting Florida's present real estate boom with Southern California's steady growth, and pointing out why the former's expansion is both literally and figuratively based upon "sand," while that of the Southland is built upon the rock of permanent progress, Hugh R. Pomeroy, secretary of the Los Angeles County Regional Planning Commission, addressed the open forum of the Inglewood Chamber of Commerce last night at the Fairview Heights Community Hall.

"Florida is now witnessing a real estate boom," said the speaker, "and in that state they are subdividing for miles, out in the sticks, between small towns, without any commercial or industrial activity, or any other backing or justification for such expansion. They are building, both literally and figuratively, on the sand.

"Eventually this boom is going to fall as flat as the Florida landscape.

"On the other hand, here in Southern California, the stream of population may accellerate or diminish, but either will be only a minor factor. Remember, that in Southern California, any forward step does not mean that eventually there may be a step backward, a forward step never is followed nor never will be followed by a backward step here.

"There is a reason for this," the speaker continued. "We are strategically situated, favored not only with unequaled climate both summer and winter, a beautiful and varied scenic wealth of both mountain and sea, instead of flat sands, but also located so as to be the collective and distributive center for the great empire of the Southwestern States, as well as the front door of the almost limitless and ever-increasing markets across the Pacific, assuring a destiny of which our present growth commercially and industrially is only a promise of greater things to come."

HANFORD, April 19.—Nearly 400 delegates and visitors from all parts of California were present at the sessions of the San Joaquin Valley Baptists' Association which adjourned last evening.

During the convention a resolution against teaching evolution in the public schools was adopted on the ground that it taught in a manner to cause and foster religious doubts. Fresno School Insists Dresses Must be Longer

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, April 19.—Dimpled knees, when they are exposed by a combination of short skirts and rolled hose, will not be tolerated at Fresno High School, and neither will excessive use of lipstick, rouge and powder be looked upon with anything but disfavor.

This is the gist of an edict that has gone forth from the powers that be, and which resulted in one girl being sent home to change her dress.

The first instance of enforcement of this ban on exposure of too much—or too little—hosiery came yesterday when a girl whose name was withheld by the school authorities, was ordered to go home and change her dress for a longer one. Others will follow unless girl students refrain from overindulgence in cosmetics and exaggeration of the fad for short skirts, the school authorities have said.

Incorporation is to be Voted on at Tujunga

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

TUJUNGA, April 19.—The voters of Tujunga on Tuesday are to ballot on the question of incorporation, which if given a majority will put Tujunga under the powers and restrictions of a city of the sixth class. Morgan, resident of the valley for years, is a candidate for City Clerk. Augustus Adams, cashier of the Tujunga Valley Bank, is a candidate for the treasurership.

The first incorporation election here was held in 1922. It resulted in defeat. The vote Tuesday may exceed 1200, it is stated, and it is forecast that the incorporation plan will pass by good majority.

PROTESTS IN VAIN

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

HUNTINGTON PARK, April 19. Although many of the clubs, lodges, newspapers, city officials and business men wired the Postal Department at Washington, stating their protests as to the selection of a site in the 300-block on South Rugby street in this city as the location for the new post-office buildings, these protests failed to have the desired effect. Postmaster Walter L. Cleveland has received a letter from the Postal Department to the effect that the Lurie Company, which was one of the bidders, had been awarded the contract.

The present quarters will be vacated about the last of July.

EISTEDDFOD PLEASES ALL

Oxnard's Annual Competition Prompts Sponsors To Plan Still Greater Event

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

OXNARD, April 19.—Musicians, artists, dramatists, judges and other noted persons from various parts of Southern California left here today after attending the second annual Ventura county Eisteddfod which was held here for a week and culminated last night.

Men and women of note from different sections of the Southland who attended many of the competitions in music, drama and art, declared that the Oxnard Eisteddfod was the finest movement of its kind in the country and were high in their praise of the work which was started here last year and which has spread until some fifty communities in Southern California are planning to take it up.

The Eisteddfod was a success from every angle, including that of finance. Last year there was a considerable deficit, while this season there will be money to spare after all expenses have been paid, according to Executive Secretary F. J. Hokin. Approximately 1500 residents of Ventura county participated in the various events. The entire county was represented in the competitions, which included community chorus work, glee club singing, service club singing, one-act plays, solo work in all branches of music, painting and art work. This was the first Eisteddfod to be given in California where all these allied arts were in competition.

An art exhibit containing several hundred paintings by noted artists was a feature. The week's activities concluded last night with a complimentary concert by the Orpheus male chorus of Los Angeles, which was heard by 2000 persons in the American Beet Sugar Company warehouse, the largest building in the city. Although a warehouse, the building offered unusually good acoustics. The selections by the chorus and the Orpheus quartet were well received. A special train brought the singers to Oxnard and waited until the concert was over to return them to Los Angeles. The expense of the trip was borne by the Eisteddfod. James G. Warren, president of the Orpheus Club, gave a splendid address on the Eisteddfod movement, saying that it was developing a spirit among people which will be the salvation of the country. He praised Oxnard for being the home of the first California Eisteddfod, and also Secretary Hokin, who introduced the idea last year.

Ben Pearson, chairman of the California Eisteddfod Association, was another speaker and prominent visitor last night. Among the prominent persons present for the purpose of judging the various events, were Alexander Stewart, Arthur M. Perry, Mrs. Perry, Mrs. Lillian Clark, Dr. Lyon Hazeltine, George M. Isbell, J. Morley Fletcher, Mr. and Mrs. Louis B. Fleckenstein, Miss Bird Bundy, J. Arthur Lewis, J. Arthur Meyers, Nina Horner and Jode Anderson.

In the service club contests, the Rotary Club of Ventura won first place. The Lions Club of the same city won second. In the band competition, Santa Paula was first. Oxnard was successful in the drama contests, in which eight one-act plays were entered. There were many winners in individual events from Ventura, Santa Paula, Fillmore and other sections of the county.

Plans for next year's Eisteddfod will be started immediately on a bigger scale. Oxnard plans the construction of a mammoth municipal auditorium which will house the Eisteddfod departments and a movement to accomplish this achievement will probably be started this year.

Sheep Ranches Bring Owners Large Fortune

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, April 19.—Sheepmen of Fresno county will derive approximately $3,000,000 from herds aggregating about 250,000 head this year, according to estimates based upon money which has already passed through Fresno banks from sheep and wool sales.

With the sheep in much better condition than last year, due to ample feed and water from winter and spring rains, and the wool of much better quality than that of last year, the stockmen are very optimistic over the outlook for a highly successful year.

Nearly $250,000 of earnings from the sheep-raising and wool-growing industry in the county has passed through local banks in the past fifteen days, and within the next month three times that amount is expected from the same source.

With lambs bringing prices ranging from $8 to $9, and wool sought at prices of from 38 cents to 43 cents a pound, as compared with last year's top prices of $6.50 for lambs and 33 cents a pound for wool, the wool growers are holding their spring clip for higher prices and are demanding 45 to 50 cents a pound.

Aged Woman is Seriously Hurt in Auto Crash

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

UPLAND, April 19. — Mrs. Ellen Wiggins, age 70 years, of Baldwin Park was seriously injured at shortly before noon today and was in a critical condition this evening at the San Antonio Community Hospital as the result of an accident at the intersection of the Foothill Boulevard and Mountain avenue in which the car she was riding in was struck by a machine driven by Richard T. Close, 1015 Hoppers Arms Apartments, Long Beach.

Mrs. Wiggins was riding with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Russell Dix, also of Baldwin Park, and a young woman friend. Mr. Dix was driving. According to Mrs. Dix, when Mrs. Close, driving a heavy touring car, cut around a third automobile. She struck the light Dix car in the rear, and turned it completely over with the wheels up in the air.

Mrs. Wiggins sustained a fracture of the right arm between the elbow and wrist, a cut over the right eye which required several stitches to close, an injured right hip which will require x-ray examination to determine its extent, and possible internal injuries. Other members of the party escaped with minor cuts and abrasions. The car was badly damaged.

CHAMBER COMMERCE BUILD NEW HOME

INGLEWOOD ORGANIZATION PUTS PEP INTO MOVEMENT TO RAISE MONEY

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

INGLEWOOD, April 19.—Within less than an hour's time after a resolution had been passed indorsing the project, $15,000 was pledged for the financing of a $50,000 Chamber of Commerce Building. The resolution, framed by City Attorney Clyde Woodworth, a director of the chamber, was indorsed by the board at today's meeting. The amount already secured assured the erection of the building at an early date, it was announced by Frank D. Parent, president of the chamber.

Plans have been drawn by Frank M. Goodwin of Compton, the architect who drew plans for the recently completed Inglewood Woman's Club Building. It calls for a two-story brick and stucco structure of Spanish colonial design, with a seventy-five-foot frontage on North Market street, immediately adjoining on the north the $20,000 Union Bus depot, work on which was begun this week.

In addition to the Chamber of Commerce offices on the ground floor, there will be storerooms with mezzanine floors, a spacious patio, with palms and a fountain in keeping with the architecture. On the upper floor will be a large banquet room and ten suites of offices. George M. Sutton, Carl Matson and Clyde Woodworth were appointed a committee to manage the project.

Altadena Residents Fail to Solve Vital Question

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, April 19.—Once again citizens of Altadena were unable to agree on the age-old question, To incorporate as a city, annex to Pasadena or remain under county supervision? Several hundred residents gathered at the Andrew Jackson School to hear a three-cornered debate on the subject and then attempted to come to an agreement.

Dr. Edward D. Ellis spoke in favor of remaining "as is" or a part of the county. H. H. Edwards advocated annexation to the neighboring city of Pasadena in his address and Edward S. Graham spoke in favor of incorporation. After all had been said, the same state of disagreement prevailed. Some favored one plan, some another and so the matter stands.

MONROVIA MOTORIST HAS POOR JUDGMENT

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, April 19.—That it is an act of poor judgment to knock a traffic officer off his box in Pasadena was clearly demonstrated when B. C. Bailey of Monrovia was fined $25 in Judge Dunham's court for sending Patrolman H. L. Calvin sprawling to the pavement.

It was testified that Bailey drove his car too close to the officer's stand in the middle of the intersection and the rear wheel of the man's car overturned the box, policeman and all.

One Way to Get Radio Receiver Without Payment

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

SOUTH PASADENA, April 19.—Details of a complicated radio transaction in which the buyer agreed to pay the monthly installments on a set providing she sold a lot within the next sixty days were aired in court yesterday. It developed that the radio buyer did not sell the lot in question and as a result did not make the payment as the contract specified. The case was tried in Judge Snyder's court when the radio sales people endeavored to force the prospective radio buyer into making a payment of $130.

Testimony revealed that a salesman for H. M. Reach, proprietor of a local radio shop had made a verbal agreement with Mrs. Emma Johnson, 669 Forest avenue, to give her a radio set to use for sixty days and at the end of that time if Mrs. Johnson hold a lot she would make the regular payments on the set. The lot was not sold and court action followed but the case against the woman was denied by the local police judge who asserted the radio shop has no claim. Notice of appeal was given by the radio shop owners.

So we will get something of a showdown in this matter as well as in the year-old dispute as to whether or not the junior Senator from Montana, campaigner with La Follette, prosecutor of Harry Daugherty, disposed of his influence as a Senator for a legal fee, with the prospect of a fortune for himself.

COOPER NEW MANAGER OF ASSOCIATED PRESS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 19.—Frank B. Noyes, president of the Associated Press, today announced that the board of directors had appointed Kent Cooper general manager. He will succeed Frederick Roy Martin, whose resignation, tendered some time ago, takes effect within a few days. Mr. Cooper's advancement to the position of general manager comes after many years of wide activity in the Associated Press. He has had experience in every phase and detail of press association work, with the advantages of fifteen years of intimate association with President Noyes and Melville E. Stone, former general manager and now counselor of the organization.

FLOOD CONTROL PLAN UP TODAY

Assembly to Consider Boggs Appropriation Measure

Bills on File in Senate of Secondary Importance

Three Important Issues Are Pending in Lower House

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO April 19.—Approval of the plan of the California Debris Commission for control of the flood waters of the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers will be before the Assembly tomorrow, when on a special order of business set for 11 a.m. the Lower House will consider a bill by Senator Boggs, Stockton.

The Boggs measure would make available eventually a total appropriation by the State not to exceed $17,000,000, not more than $2,000,000, of which would be taken from the State Treasury in any one year. A like amount would be matched by Federal appropriation and bond issues by the city of Stockton.

The Senate begins the closing week of the session with a number of Assembly bills on its file, virtually all of which are of secondary importance. While awaiting work in the Assembly on three of the more important issues of the session, the Senate, it is expected, will find much idle time on its hands.

In the lower branch there are pending the Breed gasoline-tax increase bill, the reapportionment amendment and bill for making effective the three-eighths, five-eighths plan of redistricting the State and the Swing-Johnson bill providing for the organization of metropolitan water districts to obtain from the Colorado River domestic and municipal water for several southern cities.

Except for possible concurrence in Assembly amendments all of these major issues have been definitely disposed of by the upper branch.

The Assembly also has remaining on its file the Breed amendments to the California Vehicle Act, the Inman bill setting up the legal machinery for the settlement of water-rights disputes such as has existed for some time between the city of Los Angeles and residents of Inyo county; the Johnson proposal for a constitutional amendment to authorize creation of a judicial council and numerous county salary bills.

There are seven bills on the Senate's unfinished business file for a roll call as to whether they shall be passed over the Governor's veto. Three such matters are on the Assembly file.

WAREHOUSE GUTTED BY FIRE

General Alarm is Sounded for Traction Street Blaze; Fireman Badly Burned

A general fire alarm was sounded early yesterday when fire threatened to destroy the Los Angeles Warehouse at 823 Traction street and spread to adjacent buildings. The fire was not extinguished until damage estimated to exceed $50,000 had been done.

Three carloads of peanuts were included in the loss, according to fire department reports. The structure which was partially destroyed housed the Southern California Mercantile Company, Willits & Green Co., and Marston & Co., as well as the warehouse.

The size of the fire caused a second alarm to be sounded soon after the first fire companies arrived at the scene and the latter call took seven fire companies to the Traction-street address. The blaze was confined to the warehouse and extinguished.

One fireman, H. G. Brunton, 27 years of age, of Fire Truck 6, was badly burned on the legs while fighting the fire and was rushed to the Receiving Hospital where Police Surgeon Saverien applied first-aid treatment.

Police investigators were unable to discover the origin of the fire but they expressed the opinion that it was of accidental origin.

OIL EXPLORATION AT GULF HEAD IS BEGUN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

YUMA (Ariz.) April 19.—P. L. Griffin, a geologist, is exploring the district around the head of the Gulf of California, with expectation of finding conditions favorable for the drilling of oil wells in that locality.

Manslaughter Plea Indicated in Stabbing Case

W. A. Hinson, indicted for the murder of W. H. Haynes, stabbed to death in a fight over the affections of a woman at 326 1-2 South Main street, last February, will plead guilty to a charge of manslaughter when his case is called today in Superior Judge Hardy's court. Attorney M. Davis, representing Hinson, informed Dep. Dist.-Atty. Davis yesterday, according to the latter.

It is understood that the District Attorney's office is willing to accept the guilty plea to the lesser charge, and thus what was expected to be a lengthy trial will be terminated briefly.

Hinson is asserted to have stabbed Haynes with a penknife. He fled to El Paso after Haynes's death, where he was arrested.

BOX PLANT FIRE RAZES CITY BLOCK

Four Alarms Turned in in San Francisco Blaze; Loss is Half Million

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—The Pacific Box Factory, occupying virtually an entire block on the northern edge of the North Beach section, was destroyed by fire here tonight with an estimated loss of $500,000. A small quantity of lumber stored in a yard near the plant also was burned.

Fireman and fire-fighting apparatus summoned by four alarms fought desperately to save the building. When they saw the big structure was doomed they concentrated their efforts on preventing the spread of the flames.

The fire is presumed to have been caused by defective wiring in one of the company's automobile trucks which was stored in a shed containing a large quantity of sawdust.

W. E. Hyman, president of the company said the half-million-dollar loss was covered by insurance.

ARREST TRIO CHARGED WITH ROBBING BARBER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

GLENDALE, April 19.—Local police today arrested Ray Garten, William Jones and James Smith on charges made by James Stover, Montrose barber, who declared the three men had held him up and robbed him in his shop Saturday night. Norman Smith, brother of James Smith, also was taken into custody, but later released. Sergt. Henderson and Detective Sergeant Blake took the three men to Los Angeles, where they were lodged in the County Jail. Garten and Jones live in La Canada, while Smith gave his address as Cement, Okla.

SHIP CREW SETS REPAIRS RECORD

Boobyalla's Disabled Engine is Speedily Fixed

Work Done Without Docking of Motor Craft

Ninety World Trip Tourists Due at Port Today

A new mark for speedy engine repairs was established yesterday by the engine room crew of the coastwise motorship Boobyalla, which put back Saturday night with one of her main engines disabled after having only reached Point Vincente on her way to Seattle.

The Boobyalla anchored in the roadstead at 8 p.m., her engineers broke down the disabled port engine, repaired and reassembled the machinery and at 4 o'clock yesterday morning she was again underway without even having come to dock for repairs.

Ninety around-the-world travelers are due at the port this morning aboard the Dollar around-the-world liner President Hayes, completing her fifth circumnavigation of the globe. She has a new commander, Capt. F. E. Anderson. Among the prominent passengers are Edmund Preuschoff, who has been so successful in the breeding of blue foxes at Petersburg, Alaska, that he is making a leisurely tour of the world. Others aboard include Paul Abder Halden, noted silk manufacturer of Colmar, France; Col. Roy B. Harper, U.S.A., retired, and Clifford McBrade, Chicago capitalist.

The Shipping Board freighter Hollywood will arrive at daylight today from Buenos Aires, Santos and way ports with 7000 tons of South American products for Swayne & Hoyt, her operatohs. At this port she will discharge 5800 bags of coffee, 530 tons of linseed and consignments of bone meal and cocoa beans. Capt. Randall Rogers, her master, in a radiogram last night, said that head winds have delayed his arrival.

Officials of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company have offered free transportation to all California yachts to Victoria which are to participate in the Pacific Coast regatta at the British Columbia port in early July. Fred A. Hooper, Southern California manager with offices at 710 Transportation Building, will receive the fleet entries, it is announced.

The former Navy hospital ship Comfort, recently purchased by San Francisco interests, is shortly to go to Seattle for reconditioning before being put into passenger trade between Puget Sound, San Francisco and Los Angeles, according to advices from the Bay City. The Comfort, a ship of 10,102 tons, was originally built as the liner Havana in 1906 by the Cramp yards at Philadelphia. She was purchased by the Navy in 1917.

COSTA MESA OIL RIGS ARE ACTIVE

Thirteen Out of Twenty-six Derricks Working

Lack of Storage Temporarily Stops Others

Newport Beach District is Going Ahead

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEWPORT BEACH, April 19.—A survey of the Newport Beach-Costa Mesa oil field just completed, shows twenty-six derricks in this territory, thirteen of which are active, while the others are either held up for lack of storage or because the wells have been cemented off.

Perhaps the company that has caused the most interest in the field is the Newport Petroleum Corporation, because of its mining plan. This company is reported within thirty feet of heavy oil in Well No. 1, according to the log. The incline shaft has been timbered from the top to the workings.

WILL INSTALL PUMP

The Bruce Oil Company, drilling its second well on their lease just north of the Newport Petroleum Corporation lease, is down 250 feet and drilling in hard lime formation. The company, it is stated, has given up trying to produce heavy oil by the endless rope or chain method and will install a pump, using the Macaroni system.

The Interstate Oil Company, whose lease is located on the mesa near the Newport Beach city reservoir, has picked up oil sand in its Newport No. 2 at a depth of 649 feet, it was stated, and has cemented twelve and one-half-inch casing at 641 feet. The well will stand for the next ten days. Interstate No. 1, after pumping from twenty to seventy-five barrels per day for some time began showing mud and water, and has shut down.

The Yerkes Oil Company, with four producing wells and a fifth being cemented was forced to shut down, because of lack of storage capacity and inability to secure tank cars. Its refinery, which began operating the 13th inst., and was shut down for a few days, has again started. It has turned out about 500 barrels of refined lubricant. The Gilmore Oil Company, which has installed a dehydrater, produces enough distillate to run the stills and reports a production of 500 barrels of asphaltum per day.

FOUR PRODUCERS

The Delany Oil Company, with four producing wells and a fifth about to be brought in, has reached its storage capacity, now having about 5000 barrels stored in tanks, it is stated. It has shut down all the wells, according to reports. This company is building a refinery which it is expected will be in operation withn the next two weeks. These wells, which are located in the northern end of the West Newport field, produce a heavy oil carrying 96 per cent asphaltum.

Edward Epperly of Balboa is putting down a well near Seventeenth street and Santa Ana avenue. He is down about 200 feet with a sixteen-inch hole.

None of the foregoing wells are in the group of leases recently acquired by the Standard in the Paularino area nor the Associated or other companies in the Greenville district.

RICH PLACER FIND STARTS GOLD FEVER

Discovery on Claim in Smartsville District to be Developed

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MARYSVILLE, April 19.—Gold fever has broken out afresh here as a result of a placer strike which has just been made in the Deer Creek placer claims at Mooney Flat, according to reports from Smartsville. Miners who have had a look at the strike say that gravel has been found which will run more than $20 to the ton in gold.

The strike was made under the workings of the old Black Swan property which years ago produced about $80,000 worth of precious metal and was then permanently flooded when the accidental tapping of an old shaft drained into the mine a big pond adjacent to the property.

The gravel deposits which are now claiming the attention of mining men are on the west side of the Mooney Flat hydraulic mine, and have always been considered rich prospects, but due to their depth they were never worked by hydraulic methods.

J. A. Brim, J. R. Howell, Asa Phippen, Fred Phippen, R. H. Vandecar and George R. Marshall are now operating the gravel mine and have sunk a shaft eighty-five feet deep, from which they are running a drift ninety feet long. No attempt has yet been made to block out the gravel, the operators being engaged in determining the extent of the deposit before launching extensive development plans, it is reported.

GOOD ORE BODY IS CUT BY ARIZONA COMPANY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

GLOBE (Ariz.) April 19.—A good body of commercial ore is reported lately cut by the Arizona-Globe Copper Company, which is developing the old Cole-Goodwin property, four miles southwest of the Gibson camp, in the Pinal foothills. New machinery is being installed for drifting. P. J. Hickey is president of the Arizona-Globe and his son is superintendent.

OIL STRUCK ON INDIAN'S RANCH

Nonbeverage Crude Disgusts Him

Chief Little Sticks and His Squaw

When word came from Cheyenne to the effect that oil had been struck on a ranch owned by Dick Oliver, who "works in the movies at Hollywood," the oil department of The Times had a mighty cold trail to follow, but the search finally ended successfully when it was learned that Oliver is none other than Chief Little Sticks, a Shoshone Indian, who is appearing with fellow-members of his tribe in an atmospheric prologue for "The Iron Horse" at the Egyptian Theater.

Chief Little Sticks is a natural born trouper. For fifteen years he played the role of Knee in "The Battle of Wounded Knee," as it was staged in Buffalo Bill's Wild West. Having more ready cash than he needed, the chief finally invested a few thousand dollars in a Wyoming ranch, near the Wind River Reservation, where he gets his board and room free of charge when he isn't in the show business.

The other day an oil company brought in a 400-barrel well on the ranch. The chief had never seen an oil well—he hadn't even tasted oil, but when he learned that the strike might make him wealthy he manifested such interest that a Hollywood cowboy drove him out to Rosecrans to see a forest of derricks.

The chief looked the field over with astonishment written all over his face. Then he stooped over, dipped his forefinger into a sump hole and tasted of the brackish oil. He touched his finger to his tongue, and in another moment he was registering disgust.

"Ugh!" he exclaimed, "heap bad medicine!"

The chief cares not a picayune whether they drill another well on his ranch or not. He lost interest in crude oil when he learned that it was not fit to drink.

Asbestos Mine to Put Product on Market Soon

The Riga Asbestos Mining Company of Los Angeles, says J. H. Richardson, president and manager, will soon be able to place its product on the market, and it expects to have its new milling plant in operation about May 15.

For several years the company has been developing the Sloane asbestos deposit in Gila county, Ariz., in the near vicinity of the Roosevelt dam, and now has exposed in its mine workings a considerable tonnage of material, it is said, that can be handled to advantage and at a profit, consisting of a sixteen-inch stratum of asbestos having a fiber length of from one-fourth inch to two inches.

With its milling plant in operation the company expects to have an output of from five to seven tons of asbestos fiber daily, having a market value, at present quotations, as follows: Low grade, $125 a ton; No. 2 grade, one-fourth inch to three-fourths inch in lengths, $175 a ton; No. 1 grade, three-fourths inch to one inch in length, $375 a ton, and extra long fiber, 50 cents a pound.

UNION TRACT PROVED

Developments in Colorado Put 3000 Acres on Oil List

Recent developments on the Colorado holdings of the Union Oil Company of California have caused the organization to estimate that 3000 acres of its vast oil leases in the Columbine State are proved oil territory, according to an official statement.

Started as a pure wildcat venture two years ago, the Colorado operations of the Union have grown to proportions which rival the California activities of the company. Present drilling reports of the organization show that twelve strings of tools are being worked in Colorado—almost one-third the number operated by the company in all California districts.

The company now has an established daily production from three Colorado wells of 1500 barrels of 38-degree gravity oil a day.

LACY MINE BOUGHT BY LOCAL MEN

Old Silver-Lead Prospect Near Beatty to be Worked by Interests Here

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TONOPAH (Nev.) April 19.—Los Angeles capitalists represented by S. F. Brock have purchased the old Lacy silver-lead mine, nine miles south of Beatty, from W. J. Tobin, manager of the Mayflower and Pioneer mines, and Ivey Southey. The property lies three miles from the Tonopah and Tidewater Railroad.

Large bodies of commercial ore are said to be exposed in the old workings, and the new owners plan installation of a concentrator and shipments to the smelter at Garfield, Utah. The Lacy was worked seventy years ago by Mormons, who installed a roaster and mined rich surface ores. Ore running less than $40 per ton received little attention from the pioneer miners, and substantial reserves of $25 ore are said to be exposed.

The Gilbert Midas Gold Mines Company, controlled by M. J. Monnette, Capt. J. Hassell and other Los Angeles men, last week shipped thirty tons of ore from the Marsh lease on the Homestake mine to the West End mill in this city. A compressor has been installed and the driving of a tunnel started to reach extensions of veins at fair depth in Homestake ground.

Six blocks on the Homestake have been leased by the Gilbert Golden-Berg Mines Company, controlled by A. Goldie and associates of Los Angeles. Work will be centered on the main Homestake vein, considered the most promising ore body yet found in the Gilbert district by many engineers.

Los Angeles capitalists are inspecting several properties in the field and furnishing most of the money for development of the various prospects. Drifting has started from the Last Hope shaft and Black Mammoth tunnel in the hope of locating commercial ore below the 100-foot horizon.

Rich silver-lead ore has been found in claims adjacent to the La Moine mine near Death Valley Junction. The claims are operated by M. T. Smith and other Los Angeles men. The ore carries a high percentage of galena and crystals suitable for radio contact points. Shipments from the La Moine to Utah smelters are going out regularly.

EXCHANGES FILE

Two Stock and Mining Bodies Are Backed by Local Men

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

RENO (Nev.) April 19.—Certified articles of incorporation of the Reno Stock and Mining Exchange, and Tonopah Stock and Mining Exchange, have been filed with the Secretary of State of Nevada, and county clerks at Reno and Tonopah. Directors of both exchanges are A. J. Brennan, J. M. Fuetsch and Clarence Gray of Tonopah. Los Angeles brokers and mining men are said to be backing the organizations.

Promoters of the exchanges state that Nevada and California mining stocks and other issues will be listed, and that the organizations are designed to foster legitimate mining in Nevada and adjacent California districts. The membership fee is $250. Several companies have applied for listing.

APPEAL SCHOOL VERDICT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, April 19.—In the Supreme Court an appeal has been filed against a Maricopa county judgment in favor of E. Rivera for $900 against School District No. 48 at Scottsdale. Rivera sued for the value of a frame building which had been occupied by the school district and which had been destroyed by fire.

NEW PRODUCER IN ROSECRANS

Barnsdall Completion Only One in Field

Well Brought in Yielding 1600 Barrels

Dozen Others Are Nearing Finishing Stage

New production in the Rosecrans field was limited to a single well during the past week, the Barnsdall Oil Company completing one of its O'Dea wells with an initial output reported at 1600 barrels. The Barnsdall has been the most successful of the operators in the southeast part of the field. Its two producing wells of the O'Dea lease are making a total of nearly 3000 barrels a day, which is more than any other two wells in this district.

In the Athens area where the principal industry of this field is now centered, at least a dozen should go on production within the next two weeks unless they have trouble with water, which is the besetting difficulty of the Athens area. The source of the water which spoils this otherwise productive area, is still a matter of conjecture among the operators interested. Whether it is carried by the same sand which carried the oil, or whether it is in a separate zone so near the oil sand that the intervening shale is insufficient to insure a water shutoff, are still questions of discussion.

The outpost wells of the field have made little progress so far as any decisive result is concerned during the past week. The Union Oil Company has recemented its Gordon well on the south, is preparing to sidetrack in its Trust No. 1, on the west, and is abandoning its Horowitz well on the east. Dabney is preparing to make a test in its outpost in the northeast, and the Standard is continuing to drill ahead without showings in its Cowan well.

TAMPICO OIL SHIPMENTS MAKE GAIN

Production Increase at Mexican Field Forecasts Prosperous Season

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TAMPICO (Mex.) April 19.—Exports of oil from Tampico during March were 1,613,138 barrels greater than during the preceding month, the total being 11,347,000 barrels. The Huasteca Petroleum Company exported 4,007,929 barrels, and seven other companies showed increases, indicating that production is generally on the increase.

The Transcontinental (Standard,) came second with 3,182,000 barrels, followed by the Aguila with 1,905,000 barrels, the Corona with 743,000 barrels, the Mexican Sinclair with 618,000 barrels, the Empire with 299,000 barrels, the East Coast (Southern Pacific Railway) with 288,000 barrels and the Mexican Gulf with 282,000 barrels. Other shippers were the Texas Company, the Panuco Boston, the Mexican Atlas, the Interocean and the Mexican Oil Exporting Corporation.

Fifty-five drilling permits have been issued in the last two weeks, and the supply houses report a tremendous demand for material. The confident feeling of the district is indicated by the statement of an official of the National Supply Company, who predicts that this year will rival the greatest boom days of Tampico in the amount of new development work.

The Huasteca exports during March were the greatest ever shipped by one company in a single month, in the history of the Mexican oil fields. The previous record, held by the same company, was 3,709,222 barrels, exported in November, 1922. The great new producer in Cerro Azul, brought in on St. Patrick's Day in the presence of E. L. Doheny, was partly responsible for this record.

GOLD MINE IS READY

Oatman United Reports Production is About to Start

"The mine is ready for production of gold," is the word being sent to the stockholders of the Oatman United Gold Mining Company by A. F. Andres, president.

Ore is being trammed and being hoisted to the mine bin on the surface. The mill machinery is running slowly to test out for perfect production. The management intends to speed up the crusher so as to break sufficient ore in one shift to keep the mill working for three eight-hour shifts.

The installation of the new water pump on the 700 foot level of the Ben Harrison shaft in the Tom Reed property is expected to be completed and working in a couple of days, capable of pumping eighty gallons a minute.

ANGELENOS ARE BUSY IN SONORA

Pacific Company Developing Strong Ore Vein

Robert E. Flores Takes Over Once Rich Property

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HERMOSILLO (Mex.) April 19.—The mining industry in Sonora is showing renewed activity. A large amount of American capital is coming into the State. In the last few weeks several California companies and individuals have begun operations.

The Pacific Mining Company, formed in Los Angeles, has acquired the Stella mines in the Altar district and is developing a strong vein of gold-silver ore. The direction of operations is in the hands of Peter H. Baer of Los Angeles. The company is negotiating for other properties near by which will be operated in connection with the Stella.

The Federal Copper Company, with Harry Anderson as manager, will open up the Margarita mine, also situated in the Altar district. The ores are of gold, silver and copper, the latter predominating. This company expects to install modern machinery and later may construct its own reduction plant for treating the output on the ground.

Robert E. Flores of Los Angeles, has taken over the San Francisco mine in the region of San Xavier and is making preparations to do extensive work. According to old records this property produced some rich ore many years ago, but was abandoned by former owners due to lack of capital to operate. Engineer Ernest E. Eggers is making new plans and surveys of the entire group of claims.

The Idaho mines in the Ajos Mountains, covering a surface area of approximately seventy acres of highly mineralized territory producing gold, silver, lead and copper, and the Coeur D' Alene mine, adjoining, have been acquired by George Wyman, Jr., and Charles McKinnis, business men of Los Angeles. In the meantime the property is to be fully developed.

The San Francisco Mining Company, composed of American capital and under the management of James T. Hodges, is to operate the Josefina mine, situated in the Magdalena district. This property was formerly known as the Cinco de Mayo and bears a record of having at one time been a profitable producer of copper and silver despite the fact it was worked in a very crude manner. With modern machinery and scientific methods the new proprietors expect to make a large mine of it.

R. S. Clinch, an old-time and successful mining man of the State, has become associated with L. Oviedo in the Mammoth mine of the Arizpe district. This property is located near the Ventana Canyon in a gold, silver, lead and zinc region. These ores occur in wide, well defined fissure veins which appear to be almost inexhaustible, the ore enrichment going down to an unknown depth.

Inyo Refining Plant Bought by Angelenos

The Continental Development and Reduction Corporation of Los Angeles, recently organized, has purchased the refining plant of the Chemicals Refining Company, located on the shore of Owens Lake in Inyo county. Some minor changes are being made in the plant, crushing units are being added, and it is being remodeled for the treatment of silver-lead ores by the chlorination process, using the waters of the lake as a solvent. The plant, which will have an initial capacity of 200 tons of ore daily, is scheduled to begin operations on or about May 15.

The mill will handle custom ores, the bulk of which, at first, will be furnished by the Acme Mining Company operating near Darwin. This company, it is stated, has 15,000 tons of ore broken, and 100,000 tons blocked out in its mines that is said to average $25 to the ton. The success of this enterprise is expected to stimulate the mining industry of Inyo county. Laboratory tests on Darwin ores, using the chlorination process, have been very satisfactory.

LOCAL COMPANY LOSES MILLIONS

New Mexico Leases Revert to State on Merger

Former Acreage Held Now Proven Oil Field

Californians Playing Part in Development

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ARTESIA (N. M.) April 19.—Millions of dollars, it is estimated, were lost by a Los Angeles oil company through a big company merger made several years ago. Entering Eastern New Mexico in 1918, the National Exploration Company of Los Angeles made an initial purchase of $350,000 for acreage scattered from the Texas border into the Fort Sumner country to the north.

Sixty thousand acres of their holdings are said to have been east of the Pecos River, in the territory now known as the Eddy county field. This acreage did not apparently meet with the approval of their geological department, as no locations were made until four dry holes had been drilled in other localities.

One of these tests was located at Buchanan, another at Picacho, the third at Orchard Park and the fourth at Lake Arthur. The wells were drilled to about 3200 feet and they obtained slight oil showings. As a last resort the official in charge of active operations decided to drill a well on the Mesa east of Artesia, from which the present production here is obtained. Thirty days before the tools were to be moved, a merger with the Royal Dutch-Shell interests caused suspension of all wildcatting operations, never to be resumed by the National, and apparently checked off as a loss by the English syndicate. This merger, which was made in 1921, resulted in the lapsing of all leases, these being returned to the State.

Released by the Illinois company when it became dissatisfied with the country west of the Pecos River after drilling a 4200-foot dry hole, exploration was begun and the discovery well came in during the fall of 1923. Today the field has twenty-two producing oil wells, of high gravity, in sands with yields ranging from twenty to 600 barrels.

With a vast amount of oil territory proven and a large number of wildcats drilling, Eastern New Mexico is expected to give to the country an excellent oil field. In its present development California operators are playing an important part. Many of the small independents have large blocks of acreage, which they are developing. To the south and east of the proven area the Standard of California has acquired large leases.

WELL SHOWING RIDDLES THEORY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TAFT, April 19.—Opinions of geologists that the big ravine on Section 36, 32-23, in the Hovey Hills cut off the oil sand, have been disproved by James Grant, superintendent of the Formax Oil Company, who has drilled sixty feet into an oil sand in its No. 18 well. In ten days of drilling with cable tools, it is down 959 feet and is going ahead at the rate of nearly 100 feet per day. The well is located along the line of the Big Ten Oil Company, on a 108-acre tract which was purchased by the Formax company two years ago for $100,000. This new oil showing is less than 500 feet from the line of the Olympia Oil Company, a Taft organization, which has been marking time, waiting for showings to be made by others.

This new oil find, in what has been termed somewhat doubtful territory, is reviving lagging interest in the Hovey Hills district.

The Ransome Oil Company is making good progress in drilling its No. 2 well on Section 35, 32-23, in the Hovey Hills, adjoining the property of the Lilly Oil Company on the same section. The Lilly has one well completed which has been pumping steadily. The Ransome well, which is located on property formerly owned by the Caliposa-Taft Petroleum property, has reached a depth of about 700 feet, carrying twelve and one-half-inch casing. The No. 1 well is producing about twenty barrels per day.

The Bell-Evans Oil Company, a subsidiary of Hugh B. Evans, Inc., got the first flowing well in the Hovey Hills district, with the completion of the redrilling work in its No. 6 well. The No. 6, is located on Section 35, 32-23, was redrilled and placed on production from a depth of 1976 feet about the first part of March and has shown a considerable amount of gas. The well was agitated by pumping and flowed by heads until Sunday, making better than 400 barrels per day, at which time the pump was pulled and the well started flowing, running through a three-inch tubing direct and is making an estimated production at this time of 500 barrels per day.

The company now has seven wells on production in the Hovey Hills lease. During the month of March, the Bell-Evans Oil Company shipped 30,000 barrels of oil from the property.

The No. 8 rig has been completed and will be spudded in next week, the company officials planning to run one string of tools on the property continuously.

DRILLING TO CONTINUE

Bowie Well to go to 4000-Foot Depth to Bring in Oil

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BOWIE (Ariz.) April 19.—Declaration is made by F. L. Copening of the Bowie Oil Leasing Syndicate that operations will be continued if necessary to a depth of 4000 feet and that the rig now operating has the capacity for drilling even beyond that depth.

It is asserted that a well drilled in the same locality in 1912, at 1100-foot depth, spouted oil, sand and water above the sixty-five-foot derrick for nine days. It then sanded up and was not reopened.

Evidences of oil are said to be shown by hot water and sulphur wells, parafine residium, gas blowouts and salt beds in the district, as well as by the log of a State water well near San Simon that has reached 1700 feet of depth.

PIONEER ENTERS OIL GAME

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VISALIA, April 19. — Entering the oil business as a diversion, although 80 years of age, Louis Lucier of Visalia has taken over the property of the Devil's Den Consolidated, on Section 22, in the Devil's Den district.

He is actively on the job, superintending the work of redrilling an old prospect hole, which was put down many years ago. He has redrilled the hole to 1400 feet and is within twenty or thirty feet of the bottom.

The district is about eighty miles northwest of Bakersfield, and it has been the scene of a number of pioneering efforts to develop commercial oil.

The aged oil operator is one of the pioneers of the district having owned a store in Sunflower Valley forty years ago. He came to Visalia and made a fortune here in the last twenty-five years.

The prospecting work is being done entirely with the personal funds of Mr. Lucier, who is confident that he will bring in a commercial oil well.

Another interesting bit of exploration work is being started by the Standard Oil Company in the area to the northwest of Lost Hills. The rig at Blackwells Corner, twenty miles south, was torn down and moved to the new location.

NEW MEXICO GAS SURVEYED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FARMINGTON (N. M.) April 19. Frank McCarthy, an engineer of the Producers and Refiners Corporation, has made surveys in Farmington looking to the distribution here of natural gas from the corporation's Ute Pasture well, said to have a daily capacity of 72,000,000 cubic feet.

Mrs. Wagg: This magazine says that a formal dinner is incomplete without nuts.

Wagg: Well, my dear, you always invite some to yours.—[Boston Transcript.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

Qualitative analyses will be given in this department of The Times to correspondents on ores and minerals free of charge. Make each sample of an ounce or so in weight. Be sure to write a letter stating what tests are desired and give the approximate locality from which samples were taken. Do not pulverize the specimens. Give your name and address on paper wrapped with samples.

Geodic Calcite

COLUMBUS (N. M.) April 1.—Question: Will you kindly inform me what sample is? Does it indicate anything of value deeper in vein? "SUBSCRIBER."

Answer: The sample probably indicates that ores of zinc and lead are near the spot from which the sample was taken. It reacts for zinc-lead traces, and the zinc is present as Smithsonite. The lead shows up as Cerussite (lead carbonate.) The red stain present is Hematite (iron peroxide.) The blackish oxide is chiefly manganese. The whitish and yellowish material found in the Geode is Calcite.

Carbonate and Oxide

WENDEN (Ariz.) April 2.—Q.: Under separate cover we are sending you some ore we have encountered on the 400-foot level. Will you kindly let me know what the black is? O.

A.: The black matter in the sample is not silver; it is probably Ilmenite. The specimen is chiefly limonite (yellow and brown.) Siderite (iron carbonate) found in low percentage. Traces of lead and zinc noted in tests. Traces of pyrite and copper obtained. The copper content being chiefly Chalcopyrite. Spots of iridescent "peacock iron" present.

Sulphides and Oxides

BEVERLY HILLS, April 2.—Q.: Will you please let me know what the three samples contain? Have they any commercial value? I took these samples from a British possession along the Atlantic where there is an abundance of all specimens. With kind appreciation for the information. O.

A.: Your samples were delayed in transit. No. 1 is, in greater percentage, Galenite (lead sulphide.) Blende (zinc sulphide) more or less present. No. 2 is really too small in quantity for satisfactory tests; it reacts for silica, aluminum silicate, and magnesium silicate, however. No. 3 is high-grade limonite with hematite present (iron peroxides.) Platinum not present, and no tests were made for gold and silver.

Two Samples

SALT LAKE CITY (Utah) April 3.—Q.: On my way home I am mailing you sample of a "Salt" from Beck's Canyon, south of this village. The rock is from the "Old Hickory" mine, near Milford. Kindly state what both samples really are. M. D.

A.: The Beck's Canyon specimen is very high-grade "Nitre" (potassium nitrate.) The "Old Hickory" mineral is Olivine of greenish-yellow color. It is a variety of Chrysolite, and chemically, anhydrous silicate of Magnesia. There is a low percentage of copper in the specimen.

Four Samples

BEATTY (Nev.) April 3.—Q.: I am sending under separate cover four samples for tests. Hoping this meets your good will. "ROCKY MOUNTAIN GEORGE."

A.: The mining boys in the hills, especially those of the Rocky Mountains, are dear to the heart of the writer. Many successful years were spent with them in "the mining game."

Sample No. 1 is igneous rock containing glassy Sanadin (feldspar.) No. 2 is altered Jasper; iron present with a little zinc. No. 3 is Limonite; zinc traces and uranium absent. No. 4 is Scoriaceous rock, hornblende, manganese, iron oxides, and a trace of zinc found.

Five Samples

LONG BEACH, April 4.—Q.: I am sending you five samples in one package, numbered. These specimens were obtained on a recent prospecting trip. Any information you will give me will be duly appreciated. W.

A.: The samples were not numbered, and they were divided in the container with a roll of paper. Those marked "Barstow district" are lava-like "burnt up iron scoria. "South of Barstow" is a mixture of aluminum and magnesium silicates with a little diatomaceous earth. The samples marked "Barstow district" (probably a third lot of specimens) consist of a mixture of Hematite ("Indian war paint" variety) with feldspathic rock. "Barstow district" (one other sample) is a spongiform silica; gypsum and sulphur more or less present. The specimen from "Lower end of Death Valley" is a quartzitic pebble.

Free Gold Absent

SAN BERNARDINO, April 4.—Q.: I am sending you a sample of rock obtained not many miles from here that looks to me like it might carry something of value, but I have been so often fooled that I decided to send it to you for analysis and classification. S.

A.: One of the samples is Pegmatyte, a mixture of quartz and feldspar. Muscovite (potash mica) and biotites present. Biotite is known as "Black mica" to the mining boys in the hills. The other samples are mixtures of feldspar, silvery potash mica, and biotite. There is more or less yellow mica in the specimens which is known as "Cat gold." Corundum should occur at the locality from which the specimens were taken.

Soda Present

LONG BEACH, April 5.—Q.: As an old subscriber of The Times I am always interested in reading your comments and examinations on specimens sent you in Monday's issue of The Times. I have taken the liberty of mailing you a few samples that I shall appreciate having your opinions on as to their proper classification. All are said to be Chalk, or calcium carbonate, they are tagged Nos. 1, 2, 3, and all are of different weights. The heaviest one No. 3 is said to be water precipitated calcium carbonate, seems to be too heavy to be chalk, the lightest one No. 1 has the right weight. All are obtained from deposits in Los Angeles and near-by county. Should you decide to reply per your column in Monday's edition of The Times I will look for it as under my initials. W. F. L.

A.: Such letters as yours are always appreciated. Answering, nearly 1,000 varieties of lime carbonate, the one known as "chalk" finds many uses in the commercial industries. Your specimens are, in great measure, mechanical mixtures. Sample No. 1 consists of aluminum-magnesium silicates, containing traces of Alunite No. 2 is Marl (a mixture of calcium carbonate, containing more or less clay, and a source of lime.) No. 3 is spongiform lime carbonate, probably Stalactitic and water precipitated. Nos. 2 and 3 were not tested for magnesia.

Not Radioactive

LOS ANGELES, April 5.—Q.: I am sending you two samples of rock or mineral that look like some varieties of Blende. Both of these samples are thought to contain Helium. One of them has been tested and reported to contain Selenium, Radium, and Helium. Both come from near Los Angeles. Please tell me what they really do contain. J. A. D.

A.: There is not a trace of Selenium or Uranium in either of the two specimens. As to the gas Helium, it would be rather unusual to analyze less than an ounce in weight of mineral (the two specimens do not weigh one ounce) for practical results. Your sample No. 1 is simply an iron-manganese silicate on the order of "Slickenslides." No. 2 is a mixture of "chips" showing hornblende, traces of magnetite, other iron oxides, iron-magnesium silicate, and traces of zinc.

Sulphide Ores

INDEPENDENCE, April 6.—Q.: Samples from the White Mountains. Please state what they consist of. K.

A.: The specimens were not received until the date above shown, and they turned up from the Dead Letter office at San Francisco. The tag being torn in two parts.

Chemical analysis proves that the samples are chiefly quartzitic rocks carrying, approximately, 5, 10 per cent copper. The sulphides found are chiefly of pyrite (iron disulphide) with traces of Chalcopyrite (iron-copper sulphide.) A trace of nickel was obtained in analysis. The rock is chiefly of Jasper (quartz,) and it was not tested for gold or silver. Platinum absent.

She: Why can't you tell me? Can't you take me into your confidence?

He: Yes, but I don't care to take all your friends.—[Boston Transcript.

WELL DOUBLES OIL YIELD

Bloomfield Production Area Greatly Enlarged; Midwest Held Up by Lack of Cars

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FARMINGTON (N. M.) April 19.—The outstanding event in this section is the bringing in Saturday of Coal Creek Oil Company's well No. 1, which extends the Bloomfield production area at least a mile and a half farther west. When the producing sand was first struck heavy wet gas began to flow and a little later this blew into oil of high gravity from a shallow depth.

The strike was made at 688 feet, and experts who have visited the well have given it as their opinion that it will produce as much as all the other wells on this structure combined.

the hole has not been made be-

A real test of the capacity of cause of lack of tankage. This will be supplied as soon as the railroad can bring it in. The well has created greater interest than any other strike made since the first producing well in the Bloomfield section was brought in.

The Coal Creek Company is composed of Detroit capitalists and is managed by Joseph M. Vigliett, a banker and broker. It is rather a peculiar circumstance that the Bloomfield Oil and Gas Company, which has four producing wells on this structure is also made up for the most part of Detroit capitalists.

FIRST FLOWING WELL

The new strike is located ten miles east of Farmington, on Section 20, 29-11. It is the first flowing well to be brought in east of the Navajo Reservation, and is located on deeded land, which is owned by W. E. Duggan, cashier of the People's National Bank of Farmington. Another well will be put down at once which will be located 400 feet from the No. 1. The work of moving the rig has already started.

James R. Thomas of Oklahoma City, who controls about 100,000 acres of leases in this section, was here this week with his geologist, R. A. Conkling, and went over the lands with T. B. Hall, who is interested in the acreage. Mr. Thomas left for home after stating that he will return in ten days to launch a drilling campaign.

The first of these operations will be located southeast of Farmington, not more than eight miles distant and on a formation that has been passed on by several geologists and pronounced worthy of being tested. It is reported that Mr. Thomas is being backed financially by one of the major companies.

Both the Texas and Marland oil companies have taken over leases here covering a large acreage. No statement has been made by either company as to a drilling program but it is believed by those best informed that operations will be started by both before the middle of summer.

LACK OF TANK CARS

The Midwest Refining Company has announced that no more shallow wells will be drilled for the present, after the bringing in of No. 12, on account of market conditions. There are not enough tank cars on the Denver and Rio Grande Western Railroad to take care of a fraction of the company's daily production, so there is no use to bring in more wells until this is remedied, operators assert.

The Montezuma Syndicate, managed by Charles Hubbell, who brought in the first Bloomfield well, spudded in a well last week and now has the hole down 150 feet. It is located on Section 13, 29-11, and is one mile northeast of the No. 1 well. The No. 1 well was brought in one year ago.

The new rig for the Santa Fe Company, which is of standard type, has been completed and a deep-test well was spudded in Sunday. A little more rigging up will be necessary. All the oil men of this section are watching this well with the deepest interest, for it will prove what the lower sands contain in the areas covered by the shallow producing sands. Some geologists maintain that these lower sands will show a heavier oil than has yet been found in the San Juan Basin.

The Gypsy Oil Company is repairing leaks in its gas and water pipe lines preparatory to resuming drilling operations. It was reported to be on the top of the oil sand when it closed down last December.

F. D. Gibson of the Gibson Oil Corporation is unloading drilling machinery here which is being taken to his acreage in the Bloomfield district. Mr. Gibson on his trip here a few weeks ago announced his intention to put on an extensive drilling campaign. His company controls the largest oil acreage of any oorganization in this basin.

OIL MEN IN BATTLE FOR HILLS TRACT

Unleased 160 Acres in Baldwin Field Holds the Center of Stage

Actual drilling operations in the Baldwin Hills field are of secondary importance in the interest of oil men at the present time, the first place being occupied by E. H. Brown, owner of 200 acres on the north side of the field, which is said to be the only promising territory still unleased. The question of who will get the coveted acreage should be settled some time this week. It is reported that practically all of the large companies, and several of the smaller ones are bidding for it.

Forty acres of the Brown tract already have been tied up by a syndicate of Los Angeles business men, who, it is asserted, have agreed to pay Mr. Brown a royalty of one-eighth of the oil recovered, and to give him a considerable share of the stock in a company which is to be organized to develop the tract, so that the owner gets a two-way cut on the deal.

The Brown acreage is located adjoining the Associated Oil Company's Vickers lease, and is believed to be well situated on the trend of production, with strong probability that approximately half of the tract is productive.

The exploration, which is being conducted by several companies, for a possible deeper sand, is another point of great interest at Inglewood. The preponderance of geological opinion appears to be that a deeper oil zone should exist, but none of the deep tests has as yet definitely demonstrated the existence of such a sand.

DRILL IS CHANGING MANY MINDS

Active Work Undertaken in District Once Believed to be Barren

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, April 19.—The Buena Vista and Elk Hills, once considered entirely barren of oil, is fast winning a reputation with new wells being brought in and drilling going on throughout the district from Buena Vista Lake to the McKittrick front.

The newest outfits to plan operations are the Gilbert-McAdoo interest on Section 8, 31-23 and the Reardon-Ninkovich organization on Section 6, 31-23 about two miles away. Both the McAdoo and Reardon organizations will drill on government land under prospecting permits obtained some time ago. With oil on all four sides of these two properties the indications are excellent from a prospective point of view. It is considered that drilling to around 4000 feet will be necessary.

The assignment and sale of oil lands in Section 21, 28-28 by the Globe Petroleum Corporation to Frank V Gordon who in turn placed the holdings with the Loscal Petroleum Company has required the filing of seven instruments with the Kern County Recorder.

In the first instrument a lease, the original of which was between the Equality Oil Company and Harry W. Thomas was assigned to Mr. Gordon naming the west half of the west half of the southwest quarter of Section 21, 28-28. A second instrument denoted the sale of the land to Gordon. Drilling and pumping equipment located on the east half of the southeast quarter of Section 23, 31-22 as well as the land itself is sold according to two more instruments on file. The remainder of the papers are given to the assignment and sale of the lands and equipment by Mr. Gordon to the Loscal Petroleum Company.

PLYMOUTH SALE ORDER

Amador Court Directs Liquidation of Mortgage Held by Bank

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SACRAMENTO, April 19.—The Superior Court of Amador county has ordered the sale of the Plymouth Consolidated gold property unless stockholders liquidate the $50,000 mortgage held by the Bank of Amador county.

The decree directs the sale all assets of the company, if found necessary for liquidation of all debts. The Plymouth Consolidated for many years ranked among the largest gold producers on the Mother Lode. It was promoted by W. J. Loring and is controlled by British capital.

LEASE REVENUE LARGE

Total for Year in New Mexico Set at $136,282

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CARLSBAD, (N. M.), April 19.—It is reported by Ed Swope, State land commissioner, that 6,000,000 acres of public lands of New Mexico have been leased for oil development purposes.

These leases are not by any means confined to the territory around Artesia in the southeastern and Farmington in the northwestern parts of the State, but they are well distributed over all of New Mexico.

The revenue which the State received from oil leases last year amounted to $136,282. The State owns more than 500,000 acres of land in the Artesia district where there is much drilling activity in progress.

REDRILLED OIL WELL PRODUCES

Six New Rigs Being Built in Huntington Beach Field at Present Time

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HUNTINGTON BEACH, April 19.—By redrilling its old Miley-Keck No. 1, which produced from shallow sands for two and one-half years, the Associated Oil Company has just brought in a producer flowing 450 barrels per day.

Some time ago the Associated decided that deep sands in the eastern part of the field should extend as far as the Miley-Keck No. 1, and a redrill job was ordered. The hole was taken down from 2745 feet to 3467 feet, where 550 feet of screen casing was used. The well is now yielding 450 barrels daily, free from emulsion.

Six new rigs are being built in the field at present. The Southern California Drilling Company has built a rig known as Granas No. 1, located on the east side of the field.

Fred B. Foster has erected a rig on Seventeenth street at the intersection of Huntington avenue as an offset to Petroleum Midway Company's Krabling No. 1.

The Petroleum Midway is building a rig on the Elliott lease, which will be labeled Elliott No. 4 on the east side.

The Shell Company has a rig up ready to drill on the Davenport lease at the intersection of Toronto street and Huntington avenue.

The Standard Oil Company has built two new rigs, one on the Bolsa lease in the north end, known as Bolsa No. 21, located in the flat near the ocean, and A-28, in the north end, located several hundred feet south of the famous Bolsa No. 1, the discovery well of the field.

NEW MEXICO PRODUCER IS BROUGHT IN

Company's Fourth Well Flowing at Rate of 450 Barrels Daily

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ARTESIA (N. M.) April 19.—The Twin Lakes Oil Company has just added another good producer to the Eddy county field. It is the No. 3, located in the Southwest Quarter of Section 28, 18-28. After being shot with eighty quarts of nitro between 2003 and 2043 feet the well began flowing at the rate of 450 barrels a day on the gauge. This is the fourth producer for the William M. Mitchell companies, which operate in this field as the Twin Lakes, Maljamar and Seven Rivers Oil companies.

Three wells of the first two companies have flowed approximately 21,000 barrels, 5000 of which has been made by the Maljamar No. 1 in the last twelve days. The Gilliland Oil Company's No. 1 well on Section 29, 18-28, after drilling into eight feet of sand, tapped at 1975 feet, is being deepened in the hope of picking up the Roswell No. 1 pay sand at about 2250 feet. The hole is now standing with 1500 feet of fluid.

Of considerable interest was the finding of a noninflammable gas in the W. C. Wells No. 1 well on Section 19, 20-30, at 700 feet. Samples have been sent to both the government and midwest laboratories by their agents.

Interest now centers in the completion of A. R. Goodale's California No. 1 on Section 30, 18-29, and now drilling at about 2000 feet, and the Ohio Oil Company's No. 1 test on Section 1, 18-28, which has found a good showing at shallow depth. The completion of either will mean a valuable extension to the field.

GUANOJUATO MINES FACE SHUT-DOWN

Mills Cannot Operate Longer on Low Grade Oil, Says Manager

BY JACK STARR-HUNT

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY (Mex.) April 19.—Press dispatches from Guanojuato, where many of Mexico's largest gold-silver mines are, state that Harry P. Smith, manager of the Guanojuato Development Company, has announced that all of the company's properties will be closed down May 18, next.

This company is an American organization. It operates the majority of the mines in the State of Guanojuato, and is reported to have more than $2,500,000 invested there. It is asserted that Manager Smith attributes the impending shut-down to the fact that the mills cannot longer operate on low-grade ore.

In well-informed mining circles here it is believed that the shut-down is a development of the recent enactment by the State Legislature of certain mining labor laws to which some of the companies strenuously objected.

Porto Bello Gold

by Arthur D. Howden Smith

"We are forty-five before the mast,
And ten green clerks berthed aft,
With the cap'n, the cook, the mates and last,
Simmy, the boy, who's draft."

They were out on deck now, and Flint stayed the song long enough to roar:

"Lay aft, ye swabs! Ye asked for a fo'c'sle council, and ye shall have it. ——me, Bill, can't ye sing louder?"

"Louder!" I muttered to Moira and Peter. "Certes, ye might hear them on the Spyglass."

"Ssh!" reproved Moira. "I will be wanting to hear the rest of it. There, Darby is singing now—and others."

A score of voices took up the savage lilt:

"Sandy Grant bashed the mate in the head
And dropped him overside.
The second mate they stabbed
abed,
And so the ten clerks died"

By the time they came to the last verse the whole crew must have been singing. The roar of voices made the dishes quiver on the table before us.

"A proper song, 'The Elephant,'" commented Flint's voice. "Barrin' 'Fifteen Men' tis the best I know. I ain't no preacher, but I can't help bearin' in mind that every crew has some feller like Simmy, some feller as always wants to scuttle the prize for his own satisfaction, and never mind what his mates thinks."

There was no answer to this, only the slapping of bare feet on the deck and the rustle of men crowded close together.

"Well, speak up, fo'c'sle," he went on with a note of satire. "What d'ye seek? I've heard tell as how there was talk of givin' me the Black Spot—whatever that may be—and sailin' home by your lones and dead reckonin'. What's the argyment, I say?"

The companionway acted like a voice-tube to carry the deck-noises to our ears; but hearing was not the same as seeing, so Peter and I persuaded Moira to slip into her stateroom and ourselves advanced to a position immediately inside the doorway issuing upon the main deck, where the council was being held.

The scene was almost identical with that which I had witnessed a few nights previously when I spied upon Flint's preparations to surprise Murray. Flint sat, as he had then, upon an upturned barrel, with Bones, Silver, Pew and two or three more. The remainder of the crew were squatted on the deck, a semicircular pattern of coppery faces and tattooed chests. The weather had turned warm after the storm, and practically all of them wore Darby's costume, a pair of trousers or breeches, usually slashed off above the knees.

Foremost in the ring of seamen was a tall, lanky fellow with rather long, yellow hair and a belligerent expression. 'Twas he who sustained the burden of the debate with Flint, supported to some extent by a group of a score or so, who sat behind him.

"Aye, aye, Tom Allardyce," Flint was saying as we reached our aerie. "You was the man all against attackin' Murray."

"Wasn't I right?" retorted Allardyce. "Didn't all happen as I said it would? Butchered, we was."

"Everything don't go right from the beginnin'," answered Flint. "But just look where we be now, mates."

"It ain't your doin'," asserted Allardyce. "'Twas only blind luck as the storm wrecked Murray and we rode it out."

"Ah!" said Flint agreeably. "Luck is right. The very words I'd use myself, Allardyce. For see ye, 'tis luck counts for the most, and I ha' been main lucky o' late. No man can deny that. Whatever I put my hand to turns out well."

This received a murmur of indorsement.

"Aye, and s'pose a frigate jumps us?" called one of the men sitting with Allardyce.

"Depends on the frigate, man," answered Flint equably. "A Spanisher I'd fight. A King's ship I'd run from. A Frenchy—I don't know."

"The ship's foul. We couldn't run," said Allardyce. "No, mates, I say we ha' £800,000, and we'd be satisfied wi' that. 'Tis a couple o' thousand pounds apiece."

"Aye, aye," came from a number of men. "Disband while the luck's wi' us."

"Disband wi' £800,000 more as good as in our pockets!" exclaimed Flint. "I never heard crazier talk."

"Better live wi' £800,000 than lose a third o' us to win twice that," insisted Allardyce doggedly.

"Not while I ha' aught to say about it!" roared Flint. "Gut me if I'll lose riches we all ha' worked and fought for just to please a handful o' swabs as haven't got the courage to risk a bit more."

There were expressions of opinion both ways upon this; the company was fairly well divided. Add Allardyce proceeded to press his advantage.

"If ye talk about losin' riches, cap'n, 'tis you are willing to risk losing the £800,000 we have in hand. Ye'd go for the other treasure and most likely lose what we already have."

Flint squinted reflectively at the yellow-haired man.

"Now that might be a good argyment, Allardyce, if 'twas true," he remarked. "But it ain't. The truth is, I am all for makin' the treasure we have safe before we go cruisin' to the Dead Man's Chest. Treasure is a poison on shipboard if ye ain't got a sure use for it. That's why I had ye leave-ashore the lot Murray moved to the blockhouse. It's out o' the ship."

Allardyce lost his temper.

"Aye, ye want it where ye can get your hand on it, and give us the slip!"

"How'll I do that, Allardyce?" inquired Flint softly.

"If I knowed how you were plannin' to do it I'd stop ye."

"Ah, stop me, would ye?"

"I would! There's other men ha' marooned or murdered the half o' a ship's company that there might be fewer to share in the prize."

"That's kindly of ye," said Flint. "I take that real kindly! There's some, Allardyce, as might draw pistol for that. No, no, put up your weapon! I'm a-goin' to prove to ye, whether ye like it or not, that I mean well by ye. I'll tell ye what I'll do.

"First off, mates—" he addressed the whole crew—"do ye or don't ye want to win £800,000 more wi'out havin' to fight for it?"

A fair majority were in favor of this.

"Second, mates, are ye willin' as the treasure we have shall be buried here on the Rendezvous until we ha' fetched back that part that's on the Dead Man's Chest?"

"Who's to bury it?" put in Allardyce sullenly. "'Tis easy for a few men to bury treasure so's none save theirselves can find it—and if they disappear suddenlike, what'll their shipmates do?"

"There's sense in that," agreed Flint. "Let's say as you and me bury it, Allardyce."

The yellow-haired man shook his head.

"There'd be one o' us come back—and 'twouldn't be me."

"Got a great idea o' me, ain't ye?" mocked Flint. "But s'posin' ye took along some friends? Would ye feel safe then?"

"How many?"

Flint turned to Silver, whose hard eyes had been studying the faces of both parties to the debate.

"How many would ye say, Long John?"

Silver's big face split in a smile of derisive quality.

"Seein's as you're one o' the party, cap'n, maybe we might say five—six includin' himself."

"Ye think he'd be safe from me wi' five friends along?" asked Flint earnestly.

"Six is a good number for buryin' treasure," replied Silver, grinning broader than ever. "And with you 'twould be seven—and seven's lucky."

Flint regarded him admiringly.

"Wouldn't ye know 'twould take Long John to think o' that? Seven is lucky, says he! Ah, yes, and who for? Well, Allardyce, what d'ye say? Will ye feel safe wi' six friends?"

Several men laughed.

"Yes," answered the yellow-haired man.

"Then that's settled," said Flint. "Pick 'em now. We'll start settin' the treasure ashore at once. You and your friends and me, we'll go off soon as that's finished. Bill Bones will take command o' the Walrus. Bill, ye'd better take her out east o' the island and stand off and on, weather permitting. If ye lie up here wi' naught to do, there'll be trouble, and men will be comin' ashore, and so we'll get no work done."

"How long will ye be?" asked Bones, smiling in a knowing way.

Flint hailed Allardyce, who was already deep in conversation with his group of supporters.

"How long d'ye figure it should take to stow away the two lots of treasure, Allardyce? We'll put the gold and coined silver in one cache and the bar silver in another."

"How do I know?" snarled Allardyce.

"'How does he know?' says he," Flint echoed gravely. "Tell ye what, Bill, you just stand off and on like I said, and when we're ready to come aboard we'll row out o' the Anchorage. That's simple enough, ain't it? No chance for misunderstandin' or aught goin' wrong."

Peter and I ducked into our stateroom as the two came aft. They went into Bones's room, which was next to Moira's, and for some time we could hear them talking in low tones. When they came out Flint was saying:

"Mind, Bill, an easy rein, but give 'em no slack. And leave the wench alone. 'Twould only make endless trouble wi' the crew."

Bones replied with a blistering string of curses.

"And ye were a fool," he wound up, "to let Long John make odds o' six to one. Why, even Murray——"

"Stow that!"

I could feel an edge of temper to Flint's voice.

"I'm sick o' hearing you prate Murray this and Murray that. I'll show this crew that Flint's way is as sure as Murray's."

"It's plum duff to Silver if aught happens to ye," remonstrated the mate.

"Don't ye worry, Bill. There'll be no man in this crew willing to lift a finger after I come aboard again. Where's my Flemish pistolets?"

SCIENTISTS TO EXPLORE PUBLIC LAND

Geographic Society Gets Permit for Archeology Expedition in New Mexico

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Permission was granted the National Geographic Society by the Interior Department to conduct archeological explorations on public lands southwest of the Carlsbad national monument in New Mexico.

The areas to be explored embrace the headwaters of Dark Canyon, Juniper Canyon and the north tributaries of the Black River. The permit to the National Geographic Society is for a period of three years from 1925 to 1927 and a report for each year must be made to the Department of the Interior and to the Smithsonian Institute.

It is also specified that archeological specimens acquired as a result of the explorations are to be exhibited and held for safekeeping in the museum of the National Geographic Society or in the United States National Museum. The permit also provides that only unappropriated public lands shall be explored.

In its application to the government the National Geographic Society states that the archeological explorations will be conducted under the supervision of Neil M. Judd, curator of American archeology, United States National Museum. He will leave in June for New Mexico to begin his preliminary examination of the region.

TENT BAR ON RANCH IS RAIDED

Week-end Party Near Lake Elsinore Receives Visit From County Officers

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

RIVERSIDE, April 19.—County officers led by Undersheriff Rayburn raided a party on a ranch near Elsinore early today and arrested Everett L. Grubb, Los Angeles insurance man, on a charge of possessing liquor.

According to Rayburn, Grubb said he was a member of the Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce and had about 100 members of the organization there as his guests. In one of two tents erected on the ranch grounds, the officers declare, was a bar, and in a near-by orchard were ten kegs of beer of greater strength than the law allows.

The beer was seized and Grubb was taken to Riverside, where he gave $50 bail and was released. Other members of the party were not arrested.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

TULSA (Okla.) April 19.—D. D. Kohle, 38 years of age, a professional parachute jumper, was instantly killed at a flying field near Tulsa this afternoon when his parachute failed to remain open. Kohle jumped from an airplane piloted by Dick Phillips of Tulsa. The parachute, a new invention, opened and checked his fall and then closed, allowing him to plunge more than 700 feet to earth.

Flotation Plant to be Added to Mine Equipment

The Great Southern Mining Company, Inc., of Los Angeles, is said to be meeting with most satisfactory success in the development and equipment of its mine near Wickenburg, Ariz., and that the installation of the new five-drill air compressor and machine drills will soon be completed; while arrangements are being completed for the purchase of the first twenty-five-ton unit of a milling plant using the flotation process of ore reduction.

It is the intention of the company to deepen its shaft another 100 feet and develop the ore bodies on that level. The company, it is stated, has a large tonnage of ore on the dump and showing in the mine workings carrying values of from $20 to $40 a ton in silver, lead and zinc values.

At a meeting of the board of directors, held the 18th inst., George H. Reel was elected president of the company. Other officials are F. J. Fish, vice-president; C. J. Parker, secretary; J. R. Brunning, treasurer, and Charles E. Nathhorst, consulting engineer and general manager.

There is one motor car now for every horse in the United States, according to an estimate of the United States Department of Agriculture.

MASTERY

HERE is a man, W. L. George, whose books are best sellers on two continents. "He is a genius," you say. "Mastery was easy for him; he had no obstacles."

But wait a minute. For years he was a failure. He knows the five reasons why he was a failure. With a frankness which is extraordinary he sets them down.

You have read many rules for making the most of your life; here are five rules for making the least.

1. Be shy. W. L. George was shy. To cure himself, early on three successive mornings he made himself walk into a department store, march to the children's department, and ask for one yard of red baby ribbon!
2. Be impatient. "In the old days," says Mr. George, "I was impatient with objections. Now I allow my client to exhaust himself with objections. That is your chance—the psychological moment when your customer has made such a vigorous attack on you that he doubts he is right."
3. Work too hard. Do you plan your time for loafing as carefully as your time for working? "Too many people work all the time, and are surprised when they become jaded or confused," writes Mr. George. "I planned definite periods of idleness every day, which I never give up."
4. Forget things. W. L. George could not remember faces. Then he learned a trick that cured him. You will be surprised how quickly you, too, can master it.
5. Talk too much. "Try to be impressed," Mr. George advises, "instead of impressive." Once he forced himself to let a friend talk for twenty-seven minutes. At the end of it he gritted his teeth and said, "Oh, do go on!" And the other man talked for nineteen minutes more!

You may agree with Mr. George's "rules," or you may not. But one thing is certain. You will find some echo of your own life in them—something to check you up on your own plans and progress.

For this is the distinctive service of The American Magazine—every reader finds himself in its pages. "I have experienced that in my own living," he says. "This magazine is real, it is LIFE."

Ask yourself—

If you were going to work for a new boss—
Would you ask him to give you references? Richard R. Reeves says it wouldn't be a bad idea. Page 14.

Would you dare take over a business which had failed three times?
Here's a man who is president of six prosperous concerns which were on the rocks when he found them. Page 19.

How does it feel to be psycho-analyzed?
Lucian Cary tells some of the amazing things you will discover about your dreams, your troubles and yourself. Page 20.

Are you a "good loser"?
"When you meet a setback," says John L. Queeny, "it's all right not to whine about it. But being a good loser can be carried too far." He tells you why on page 37.

How big a world do you live in?
The earth is still thick with untouched riches and new opportunities. But you may have to leave your home town to find them. Page 43.

"Hi" Phillips, popular humorist, was a free man—
Until he bought a dog. Now he says it's hard to tell whether he owns the dog or the dog owns him. Page 48.

Guess how many buttons you buttoned this morning
You probably button 30 or 40 every time you dress yourself. Figure out how many that is in a lifetime! Page 59.

This man earns his living fighting with alligators
And he does it with his bare hands. Page 71.

Why is it that men must shop on the ground floor—
While women are willing to climb upstairs? Page 55.

What does a structural iron-worker think about?
For forty years Bill Ritchie has walked girders at dizzy heights. And he likes it. Page 45.

POPULATION { By the Federal Census—(1920)— 576,673 / By the City Directory—(1925)—1,198,344

—THEN AND NOW

For several weeks a local afternoon paper has been attacking former United States District Judge Benjamin F. Bledsoe, candidate for Mayor, and eulogizing his opponent, George E. Cryer.

Apparently for dramatic or psychological effect, this paper is labeling its denunciation of Bledsoe and laudation of Cryer with the slogan—"The Truth"—as here depicted.

Reference to the files of this newspaper indicates a somewhat variable estimate by it of what constitutes "the truth" and, in addition, a most astounding and bewildering series of contradictions in its estimate of Mr. Cryer.

On April 25, 1921, this paper, referring to Cryer, former Mayor Snyder and Boyle Workman, all Mayoralty candidates, informed its readers:

"It is a mere choice between politicians. This paper cannot advise its readers to do without a Mayor. It does advise them to follow their own judgment—because they know as much about the three leading candidates between whom the choice lies as need be known. And that is this: They are all simply political office-seeker—wax figures in a political Punch and Judy show."

On February 6, 1924, after Mayor Cryer had been re-elected, the paper still possessed its bad opinion of the Mayor, as indicated in its published statement:

"Mayor Cryer and City Council merely yawn and twiddle their thumbs over the Doheny Harbor lease, made after Harbor Commissioner McKee had taken a trip to Honolulu on Doheny's yacht. . . ."

And again, on February 14, 1924, that publication charged: "Every day it becomes more apparent that the people are being robbed right and left by the ganging of exploiters at the harbor. If the Council or Mayor Cryer want the truth they will get busy and they will get busy quick. They will stage an investigation under direction of a competent man, free to go to the bottom of all the harbor intrigue. Council and Mayor Cryer have stuck their heads in the sand long enough. . . ."

Again, on February 15, 1924, it said: "We do not know whether the Harbor Commissioners are blindly incompetent or deliberately false to the city's interests. But we do know the people have voted $15,000,000 for Mayor Cryer's harbor board. . . . And that Mayor Cryer and City Councilmen are beating around the bush instead of launching an investigation that will get to the bottom of the whole harbor scandal."

On the same date the paper proceeded to make this confession to its readers:

"With Mayor Cryer and the Council dodging the issue, we confess that we do not know of a single official who has the courage to initiate the right kind of an investigation."

On February 18, 1924, it said:

"This is only the start. The Mayor and Council could still conduct their own investigation if they had sense enough to.

"Either they are too blind or too weak, or for some reason they dare not follow this devious trail to its dangerous end. Council and Mayor can partially save their faces by fully co-operating with the District Attorney. But only partially.

"The stigma of their inaction they never can remove. They are lost leaders.

"As for Cryer, he is one of the most disappointing men in political life in Los Angeles in recent years. Once again he has failed in an emergency as he usually fails when an emergency arises."

In this same excoriation the newspaper then proceeded to address the Mayor directly and personally, thus:

"Mayor! Long enough have you been known as 'Honest George' who hated trouble. The people will soon begin to think not that you don't want to fight, but that you dare not. And if they begin to ask with sneers why you dare not—well, who can blame them?"

Commenting on the lack of enthusiasm on the part of Mayor Cryer for additional police protection, the newspaper on February 28, 1924, said: "Repeated attempts to co-operate with Mayor Cryer on an intelligent program for increased police efficiency failed."

And, strangely enough, that paper on this date was entirely in agreement with The Times that Mr. Cryer sadly lacks the courage of his convictions and that he likewise is deficient in the quality of decision.

"Perhaps," it observed, "this is the key to many of the Mayor's difficulties—he dreads making a painful decision. He likes to circumvent conflict. Some people call this lack of backbone. . . ."

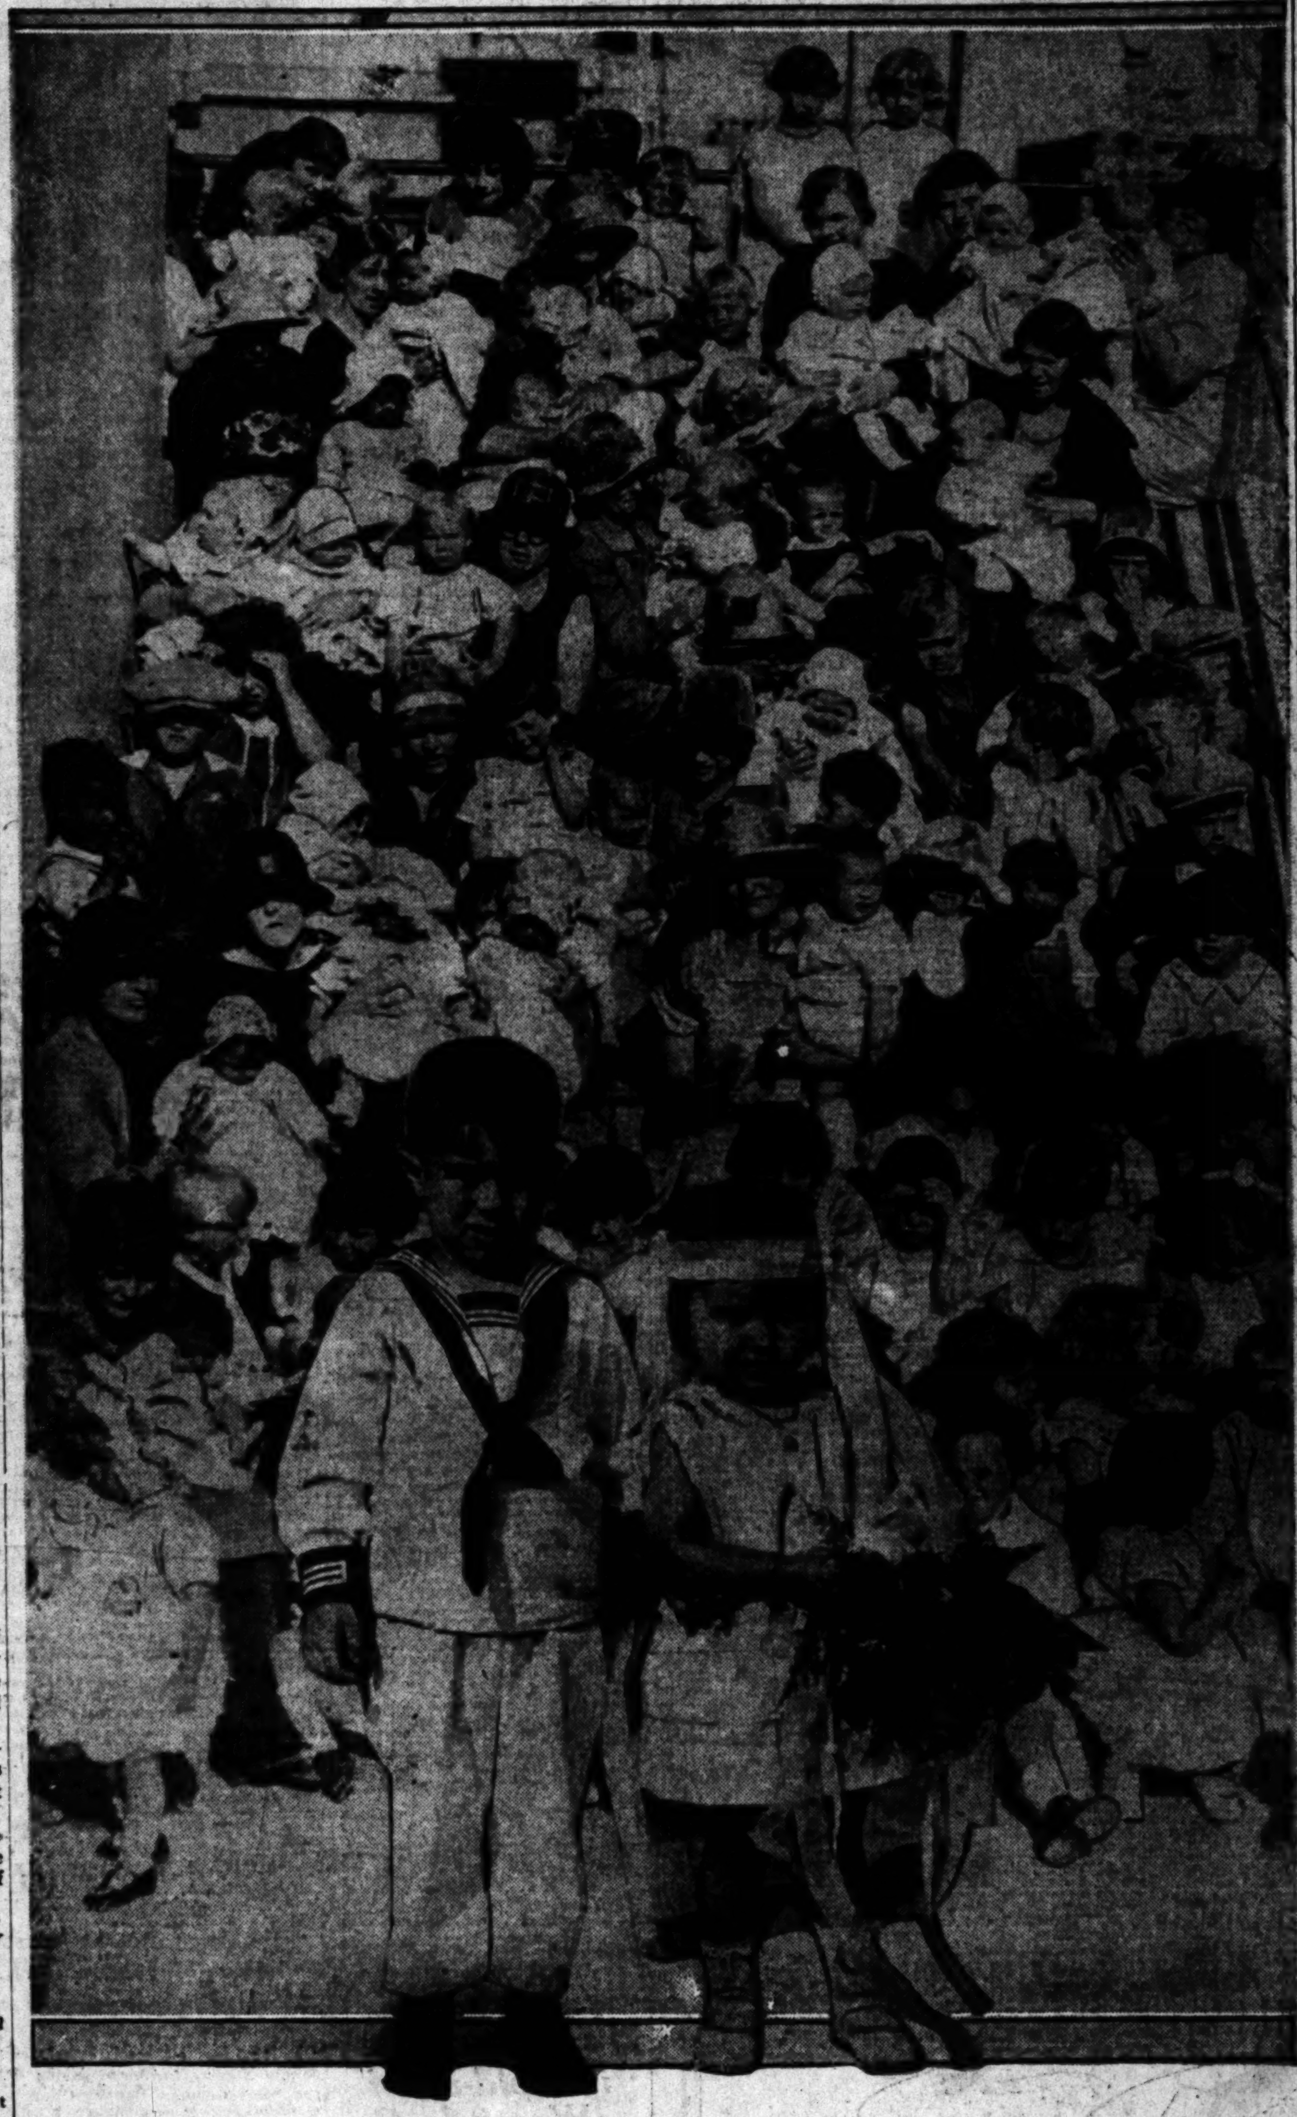
BEVY OF BABIES FEATURE OF CLINIC CELEBRATION

Tots Bear Evidence as to Excellent Work Done at San Pedro Institution



Group of Babies Assembled on Steps of San Pedro Community Hall at Sixth Anniversary Celebration of Baby Clinic

Betty Stone and Donald Hurley, "bride" and "groom" at same celebration

ONE THOUSAND babies of the harbor district were treated during the past year by the San Pedro baby clinic of the Los Angeles health department, it was announced yesterday by Miss May Waite, superintendent, at the sixth anniversary celebration of the clinic, conducted at the San Pedro Community Hall.

More than 100 mothers and youngsters of the port district were present to hear the program participated in by children who have been treated by the clinic during the six years of its operation. A discussion of methods to broaden the scope of the clinic's activities was also conducted by Miss Waite.

The feature of the program was a mock wedding with Betty Stone, 4 years of age, as bride and Donald Hurley, 5, as bridegroom. Roy Sloan solemnly officiated as the minister.

FISK STUDENTS FOLLOW U.S.C.

Collegiate Campaign for Dry Law Observance Unanimously Approved at Nashville

More than 1000 students of the Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn., yesterday gathered together in their assembly hall and unanimously voiced their approval of the collegiate campaign for more universal and voluntary observance of the prohibition and other constitutional amendments recently started by the 5000 students of the University of Southern California at Los Angeles.

Declaring themselves activated by resolutions passed by the student body here, the Tennessee College appealed to all eastern and middlewestern educational institutions to swing into line and "put over" what they averred to be a distinct necessity for the preservation of the future life of the nation at large.

Addresses by the faculty of the university and by Maurice F. Rabb, leader of the senior class, featured the occasion. Texts of the resolution passed here, together with considerable data on general conditions in the country, procured from The Times, were read to the students and their verdict asked. The response was unanimous.

Three universities are now on record as favoring the campaign, the third one being Leland Stanford, Jr., University at Palo Alto, Cal.

RESOLUTIONS DRAWN UP

The resolutions as passed by the Tennessee students said:

"Whereas, The attitude of the citizens of the United States toward the observance and enforcement of the law is fundamentally essential to the life of our nation, and,

"Therefore, Be It Resolved, That the students of the Fisk University are in favor of more voluntary and universal observance and enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States."

The First Trust and Savings Bank of Pasadena was named executor.

SCIENTISTS MAKE RARE FIND

Markings on Arizona Canyon Walls May Move Age of Man Back Millions of Years

Scientific discoveries which may upset by millions of years the present theories on the antiquity of man on the North American continent are disclosed in the official report of the Doheny expedition in the Hava Supai Canyon of Northern Arizona, which was made public yesterday.

The results of the expedition, which left Los Angeles October 23, last, under the leadership of Samuel Hubbard, curator of archaeology at the Oakland Museum, may have far-reaching effect on research work into the subject of prehistoric man on this continent.

The chief find of the expedition, perhaps, was the dinosaur pictograph cut into the wall of the canyon at its junction with Lee Canyon, a tributary to the Supai Canyon. The pictograph shows what is unmistakably a dinosaur balanced on its tail, indicating that the prehistoric artist must have seen it alive. Tracks of dinosaurs in the hard rock were also found by the expedition in "Painted Desert," about 100 miles away.

TWO THEORIES OFFERED

In discussing this discovery, Mr. Hubbard points out in the report that only two conclusions can be drawn from the pictograph.

"Either man goes back in geological time to the Triassic period, which is millions of years beyond anything yet admitted, or else there were 'left-over' dinosaurs which came down to the age of mammals. Yet even this last conclusion indicates a vast antiquity."

Up to the time of this discovery it had been considered a scientific fact that dinosaurs were extinct 12,000,000 years before man appeared on earth, the report states on the authority of a distinguished scientist.

The execution of the pictograph of the dinosaur is interpreted to mean that the prehistoric artist must have had an eye to form.

THE Governor having refused clemency, "Tuffy" Reid will be hanged next Friday.

From every consideration of right and justice, the Governor is right.

BOY CRIMINALS

Civilization is in the midst of a tragic and terrible battle in which the forces of the underworld are ranged on one side; the forces of decency and lawfulness on the other. Tuffy Reid is one of the pitiful casualties of that battle.

That he is very young is beside the point. Fully 75 per cent of the criminals—particularly the shooting kind—are young boys.

Life in this country has become as dangerous as in a frontier mining camp. The list of peaceful, law-abiding men who have been shot down by murderous crooks in the United States during the post-war years is a shocking and dreadful record.

The retaliation must be swift and relentless. Either capital punishment is a mistake from every angle, or it isn't. Either it should be abolished, or the Tuffy Reids who defy organized society should be swept away.

PREHISTORIC HAIRPINS

There is a certain irony in the interesting archaeological discoveries in the ruins of ancient Carthage.

The world waited in the hope that relics of the great Hannibal had been found. Instead, they unearthed a hairpin factory.

A GREAT GENIUS

Perhaps the best relic that Hannibal left was his military science.

Military writers have adjudged him to have been the greatest military genius who ever lived, his only possible rivals being Napoleon, Julius Caesar, Gustavus Adolphus, Alexander the Great and Frederick the Great.

Von Hindenburg's great campaign against the Russians in Poland and East Prussia was Hannibal's Battle of Cannae over again on a larger scale.

THE FUR MARKET

This has been a sad winter for the neighborly but unwelcome skunk.

Reports from the London fur markets, as quoted by the Hunter-Trapper-Magazine, show that skunk fur brings 25 per cent higher prices than last year; also opossum, raccoon, beaver, white weasel and muskrat have gone up.

Fox furs, on the other hand, have slipped down. The blue fox is quoted as having had a drop of 50 per cent since last autumn. Silver and black fox furs are also quoted as having had a heavy drop—apparently due to some change in fashion.

The highest rise quoted in this London auction report was that of the kangaroo and wallaby, both of which are 40 per cent above last year. I have no personal acquaintance with the genial wallaby; but whoever he is, or whatever he looks like, he seems like a mighty poor life insurance risk.

RICH DIVORCES

The cheapest old wheeze in the world has been started again; it is about the prevalence of divorce among the idle rich and the movie stars.

The truth is, of course, that the rich and the movie stars get divorced more often than other people simply because they can afford the luxury.

Money doesn't bring domestic unhappiness. There is a liberal supply of poverty-stricken women who would like to be divorced; but they are bound to a cross. They can't make a living for themselves and their children if separated from the brute. They have to stick or starve.

In the case of a woman with a separate purse, to want a divorce is to get a divorce.

Silk and satin marriages are no more and no less successful than cotton marriages. But silk being slick, it is easier to slide out.

BOY IS HANGED TO OIL DERRICK

Grewsome Mystery Seen in Find of Nude Body

Family Scouts Suicide Theory and Plans Quiz

Inquest is Scheduled Today Over School Lad

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FULLERTON, April 19.—Grewsome mystery surrounds the discovery at dawn today of the nude body of Terry Courtney, 14 years of age, an Olinda schoolboy, hanging from a crossbar of an oil derrick in the Olinda field near here.

Despite police belief that the boy committed suicide, his parents are convinced he was murdered. Relatives will conduct a private investigation, E. E. Courtney, the father, stated tonight, regardless of the findings of the Coroner's jury. Courtney is foreman of the Olinda lease of the Fullerton Oil Company.

Discovery of the body ended a search that lasted all night and which was participated in by a posse of men under Sheriff Jernigan and scores of citizens summoned by the lad's parents. The boy had been seen alive last at 4 p.m., yesterday.

Belief in the murder theory is based on the fact that no reason of any kind why the boy should have taken his own life has been found. He was a normal, healthy youth and took a keen interest in his work and play. Large for his age, he had played on the Olinda High School football team; was also a violinist in the school orchestra and was active in Boy Scout work. He was not of moody disposition, according to his parents.

SUFFERED FROM EARACHE

The only evidence uncovered that might point to suicide is the fact that the boy a year ago suffered severely from earaches. This trouble, however, had not recurred lately, his mother declared.

Late yesterday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Courtney left Terry at home listening to the radio, while they went to a picture show. When they returned at 7:30 the boy had disappeared. As the hours passed and he failed to return, the parents became alarmed and summoned help to search for him. As far as could be learned by the police, no one had seen the boy from the time his parents left the house until his lifeless body was found hanging from the old derrick.

An inquest will be conducted tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. at McAuley & Suter's mortuary, to which the body was taken.

Investigation of the death is being conducted by Sheriff Jernigan, Coroner Brown, Dep. Dist.-Atty. Mosley and Deputy Sheriff McClellan.

CLOTHING IN SACK

The boy's clothing was found in a small building a short distance from the oil derrick.

It is believed that the boy had been dead for several hours when the body was found. The section of the oil field where the body was found is in the producing area but all activities were suspended at noon Saturday.

COMMITTEE DENIES BUSINESS AREA PLEA

The zoning committee of the City Planning Commission yesterday denied the petition for opening Wilshire Boulevard to business from Western avenue to the junction of Wilshire and San Vicente Boulevard. The decision of the committee was announced at the conclusion of a heated hearing attended by more than 300 property owners along Wilshire Boulevard.

ANCIENT SPRING HIDDEN DEEP

Old Pueblo "Water Works" Built Over

Mary Lee Blaine at the Old Town Pump

IF YOU don't believe the old home town ain't what she used to be, just stumble through some long, dingy corridors and gangways, down a narrow wooden stairway and find yourself in the dark, damp, cool basement under the Lyceum Theater on Spring, between Second and Third streets.

There you will find three or four feet below the level of the basement floor the top of a well, which is supplied with water from an old spring. The spring has been incased with concrete walls. An old-time hand pump such as you used to have down on the farm rests on a platform over the well.

There was a time when the spring that is now smothered in darkness under this old building stood out in the sunshine. In the old pueblo days gay senoritas came to this spring to fill their Mexican equivalent to the old oaken bucket. They tell many stories about this old spring up and down the street. Once an old-timer drove up in his oxcart to water his animals. The place was very muddy around the spring. When his oxen had drunk their fill they found they couldn't pull the cart out. It was mired down. The old-timed unhitched his beasts and led them away.

If this were a true legend we would end it by saying "the local street car company came around and salvaged the cart and to this day it is in service on the Spring-street line." But it is fact and not fancy. So we must state that when the summer came and the mud dried out, the old timer came back and dug his cart out.

But it is true that to this day the spring flows. An electric pump has been put into it to carry the flow into the sewer. To shatter the romance completely, alongside the well, where many a gay young charro flopped on his tummy and drank from the spring, a motor-driven fan drones away, furnishing air for the theater pipe organ upstairs.

BLEDSOE FACES CROWDED WEEK

present Mayoralty election, Col. Arthur J. Copp, Jr., prominent Los Angeles attorney, and a member of the Bledsoe-for-Mayor general campaign committee, yesterday stated that, in his opinion, the prosperity of Los Angeles and the progress made by the city during the next four years depends to a large degree upon whether or not former Judge Bledsoe is placed in the Mayor's office.

"The civilized world is coming to Los Angeles. Within our generation it is anticipated, in point of population and wealth, Los Angeles will become the greatest city in the history of the world.

"Provision must be made to supply this population with utilities required for the maintenance of life. I know of no one who has even expressed a desire to be Mayor of Los Angeles who has in as full measure possessed the peculiar qualifications required for the successful solving of these difficult and important problems as Judge Bledsoe. A man with his attainments, high ideals, personality, independence, leadership and magnetism is needed now, if ever, to administer the city's business."

Hickey to be Arraigned on Slayings Today

Charged with the murder of his wife and his baby son, J. J. Hickey, former police officer, today will be brought from the County Hospital where he has been recuperating from wounds inflicted when he resisted arrest, and arraigned before Judge Hardy on the two murder counts.

Hickey was indicted by the grand jury when witnesses told of a quarrel at Hickey's home at 3019 Baldwin street on March 29, which ended in the shooting of Irene Hickey and the baby, J. J. Hickey, Jr. Other officers, attempting to arrest the apparently crazed man, were forced to wound him.

Although seriously wounded Hickey has made a rapid recuperation and is expected to be returned to the County Jail today to await his trial.

EASTERN LINES AID CALIFORNIA

Aggressive Action Taken to Boost Travel Here

Railroads Quick to See Advertising Merit

Work in Conjunction With All-Year Club

Several of the great railroads of the United States which heretofore have not stressed the point are to work aggressively toward the stimulation of Southern California tourist travel this summer.

These railroads include the New York Central and the Pennsylvania, the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, the Great Northern Railroad and the Texas and Pacific Railway Company.

The tie-up with the railroads in the interest of tourist travel to Southern California was effected by the All-Year Club at the time its advertising schedule was completed the 5th inst. A letter giving the complete schedule of newspaper advertising in the eighty-two cities and 112 newspapers was sent to the advertising managers of many railroads by C. G. Milham, executive secretary of the club.

It was suggested that this advertising would make travel to California and would be doubly effective if, paper for paper, and date for date, the railroads advertised their rates and the convenience of travel. All-Year Club advertising dwells on the vacation charm of Southern California in the summertime.

The railroads were quick to see the advantage of paralleling some of their advertising to that of the club. Perhaps the most effective single piece of advertising help given California by any railroad not connecting or feeding here directly is that of the New York Central.

This railroad gives California the front cover of its main time table. The material for this cover was prepared by the All-Year Club, not for Southern California, but, pursuant to the request of the railroad, for all California. There are four pictures. They show one of the magnificent palm drives just outside of Los Angeles, the beach at Santa Barbara, the famous cypresses at Monterey and the giant redwoods in the Sequoia National Forest.

The Santa Fe Railroad, the Southern Pacific Railroad, the Union Pacific and the Rock Island, feeding directly here have always worked and are now working closely with the All-Year Club, realizing the mutuality of interests.

The bringing of the eastern railroads to realize the utility to them of advertising California travel comes as a distinct acquisition to the Southern California promotional effort.

Man is Held in Hold-up of Woman's Car

Jack Kessler, 32 years of age, of 2843 Oregon street, was arrested yesterday by Detectives Torres and Tilson of Boyle Heights police at the request of authorities in Santa Barbara, who state he is charged with holding up a woman and robbing her of her automobile.

According to information from Santa Barbara, the victim of the hold-up was Mrs. E. F. Hewitt. The machine was asserted to have been driven to Los Angeles and sold to Mrs. Lulu Verde of 340s Lee street.

When Kessler's room was searched, the detectives reported, they found a deputy sheriff's badge and a pistol. On the strength of these discoveries, Kessler is held also for investigation.

color and proportion, that he used tools and that he lived millions of years after the "ape man," if there ever has been such a creature.

On the same wall with the dinosaur pictograph, the members of the expedition found the representation of an elephant attacking a man. This find is looked upon by Mr. Hubbard as completely establishing the contention of Dr. Frederick A. Lucas, director of the American Museum of Natural History, that men and elephants were coeval in America.

Ibex were also found pictured on the wall of the famous canyon and one panel, which showed considerable artistic execution, shows several hunters driving seven ibex and two deer into a trap, though no ibex, not even fossil ones, have ever been found in America.

Mr. Hubbard, in concluding the report, points out that there are miles upon miles of the Grand Canyon which no white man has ever seen and that there is enough material there to form a veritable mine of archeological treasures.

The expedition was sponsored by E. L. Doheny of this city. It included, besides Mr. Hubbard, Clarence W. Gilmore, curator of vertebrate paleontology of the United States National Museum; Robert L. Carson, photographer; Joseph F. Roop, sculptor; Fred V. Shaw and Arthur Metzger, assistants, and Bud Clawson, guide.

CITY HEADS ASK HUGE SUM

Budget Committee to Prune Estimates to Fit Available Fund Figures for Year

Tentative estimates furnished City Auditor Myers by department heads indicate that the requests for funds under the city budget for the coming year will total $26,500,000. Pending the return of City Engineer Van Norman, his department has submitted a tentative estimate of $8,482,501.

As the estimate of available funds for the fiscal year 1925 is, in round figures, $20,000,000, the Council Finance Committee, sitting as a Budget Committee, will begin May 7, to prune and lop the departmental requests so that they will fit into the city revenues. The committee has experience in this work, as last year the requests amounted to $24,000,000 and were cut to $18,000,000.

Virtually all of the departments, excepting the City Engineer, have submitted their final estimates.

Due to increased salaries the Engineering Department has filed an additional estimate of about $1,000,000 and the fire and police departments have filed additional estimates totaling $1,346,400.

PASTOR DIES AFTER BRIEF SICK SPELL

Rev. Jacob Albert of First German Baptist Church Passes Unexpectedly

Following a five-day illness, Rev. Jacob Albert, formerly pastor of the First German Baptist Church, a nationally known figure in his denomination, passed away unexpectedly at his home, 209 West Forty-second Place, yesterday. Death resulted from complications which developed after an attack of acute indigestion.

Dr. Albert had been a resident of Los Angeles for the past twenty-seven years, being pastor of the First German Baptist Church throughout that entire period until eight years ago, when he retired from active duty. Under his direction the church membership grew from a small handful to one in the front ranks. During that time, Dr. Albert was repeatedly named delegate to the biennial and annual national conferences of the church, frequently making the opening address of the sessions.

He was 78 years of age at the time of death and is survived by his widow, Mrs. Amelia Albert; three daughters, Mrs. Emil Guasti, Mrs. Charles Harper and Mrs. D. Arbuckle, and one son, Dr. Walter Albert. Funeral services will be held from his former pastorate at Fifteenth and Myrtle avenue at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

INJUNCTION GRANTED ON "SHADOWGRAPHS"

Pierre Artigue yesterday was granted an injunction against Paul Grimm and Paul M. Gosgrove, known in business as Grimm & Cosgrove, in the use of "a means for producing animated shadowgraphs," on the grounds that it is a valid patent, issued to Artigue on April 16, 1918. The defendants failed to reply to the plea for an injunction. United States Judge James rendered the ruling.

COSO VOLCANIC IRON W

For six years I suffered from gas and indigestion, which later developed into an ulcerated condition. I was treated by various physicians and later at the Roper Hospital in Charleston, South Carolina. Almost in despair, I came to Los Angeles, practically a helpless invalid, but was not benefited until I began the use of Coso Volcanic Iron Water, which has absolutely relieved my stomach trouble and I no longer suffer from inactive liver. Though I lost about 60 pounds, I am gaining flesh rapidly and feel better than for years. Much of the benefit that I have received I attribute to the use of Coso Volcanic Mud Baths, as this mineral mud opened the pores of my skin and I perspired so freely that much of the accumulated poison of years was eliminated. I cannot say too much for Coso Water and Volcanic Mud Baths, and anyone who is interested can call upon me personally or telephone me at my apartment. This is my only method of showing my appreciation to the Coso company for the benefit I have received from their products.

TRYING CIRCUMSTANCES

We must admit that the California sunshine makes it hard to get three summers out of one spring suit.

NOTHING HELPS

Taking a look at last year's straw hat doesn't seem to make the world any brighter or better.

PERILS OF PESSIMISM

It must make a pessimist awful sore when the hard luck he so confidently hoped for doesn't arrive.

STICKS TO IT

We are being urged to emulate the tiny but useful postage stamp, which has a habit of sticking to one thing until it gets there.

THAT RUN-DOWN FEELING

Folks who get mixed up with the street traffic are liable to know what it is to be all run down at this or any other old time of the year.

KICKS COMING

If every man had a job there would still be unrest and dissatisfaction. Many folks do not want to work at all and others are never appeased with the tasks they have. It is impossible to please everybody.

FIGHTING FOR MONEY

Dempsey was reported as putting away the championship, but he will still fight for it if there is a lot of money in sight. The ring pulls one way, the movies another, and the box office does the talking.

STRONG JAWED

If a man had a jaw as strong as that of an ant he could carry a weight of 200 tons with his teeth. And this goes for a lady, too. But possibly it is best that things are as they are.

NOTHING TO WORRY ABOUT

Married women who are living with their husbands are being barred as schoolteachers by the Boards of Education in many cities. But it is easy to get rid of a husband if he gets in the way or interferes with the job.

KEEPS NAME BRIGHT

Grover Cleveland Alexander is nearly forty years old, but is still going strong in the big league. He was one of the first boys named after the Democratic President and possibly the most famous. We are likely to have four years more of Grover before he gets the bench.

MISUSE OF POETS

Efforts to designate an official poet laureate for the State of Michigan have been halted. The sweet singer of Michigan subsided long ago and nobody seems quite worthy of the crown. Most of the Wolverine bards are now writing advertisements for motor cars.

THE BUTTER MAN

Experiments in carbonating cream with the idea of getting a more sanitary and enduring butter are not worth while, according to the judgment of the professors in the agricultural colleges. Nobody wants a butter that fizzes when the package is opened and the treatment does not contribute to the staying qualities of the product. It looks like lost motion. It may be better butter, but it's bitter.

HANDMAID OF CIVILIZATION

Uncle Sam appears to be supplying the world with typewriters. This helpful device is an American invention and this country has always controlled production. We are making the machines with keyboards for forty different tongues. Last year the shipments of our typewriters to thirty-five different countries were more than they had been during the entire ten-year period immediately preceding. The makers are just getting into their stride and the business world is realizing the full value of the machine in all the activities of commerce. We may not be able to make the world do right, but we are teaching it to write plainly.

THE ELECTRIC LIGHT BULB

The bulb that lights the modern world is very small, very cheap and very fragile. Except when illuminated by the electric current there doesn't appear to be much to it. Yet to manufacture that small and simple article almost every part of the globe has been ransacked of its treasures. Here are some things that, according to the Nation's Business, have gone into its making:

Potash from Germany, feldspar from Sweden, manganese from the Caucasus, pyrites from Spain, shellac from India, tin from the Malay States, tungsten from Japan, bismuth from Australia, cryolite from Greenland, cobalt from Ontario, niter from Chile, resin from Georgia, gum arabic from the Sudan and mica from North Carolina. And yet how little it costs the consumer—such is the genius of business!

A PETTY SENTIMENT

A marked increase in the sentiment against Americans is reported by many of our countrymen traveling in Europe. It seems that we have nothing but dollars and the machinery for making more dollars. We don't think deeply. We are producing no great art or literature. We vegetate while we potter with our machines and dream of wealth and luxury. We are cartooned as animated money-bags, and our national penchant for mechanics is caricatured by innumerable wheels of purposeless turning.

It would seem that anyone out of the quadruped class who is in the least acquainted with America would never utter such babble. Still, one of the penalties of success is to be misunderstood and maligned. We can afford to be patient with this sort of talk and generous in our replies to it, for we know that a man or a nation with true honesty of purpose and a friendly feeling for the rest of the world cannot be injured by such calumny. On the other side, it would seem that a whole nation or group of nations may harbor hallucinations with respect to the people of a certain country—that an argument such as that of our absorbing materialism may be repeatedly passed around until it actually is believed by those who put it forth.

A Martian, cognizant of all the facts, would perceive at a glance that Europe's jealousy of us and our progress lies at the base of this criticism. Europe, on short rations, resting under an awful load of debt, taxing itself until it staggers and almost lies down in despair, casts envious eyes at prosperous, well-fed America. It would like to jingle a little cash in its own pocket and ride in motor cars and, because it cannot do so, we are dollar-minded and mechanical, with no cultural advancement.

In England there are many who still picture red savages and buffaloes roaming our prairies. They do not realize what a long way we have come since Sydney Smith asked his famous question, "In the four quarters of the globe, who reads an American book or goes to an American play or looks at an American picture or statue?" They fail somehow, perhaps perversely, to detach us from our crude past. If they paused to reflect they would realize that American books are read by the million all over the world, that American plays run hundreds of nights in London theaters, that American paintings and statuary win gold medals in European salons and that American picture dramas of the highest type of artistry are viewed by hundreds of millions of foreigners. Materialism forsooth! Our machinery does not write these books, paint these pictures or sculpture these statues.

It is Pharisaical to boast of morality, but how idle is any charge of materialism made against us by a group of nations whose own crass materialism plunged them into the most horrible war in all history—a war terminated only by the intervention of us "dollar-minded Yankees" who shed our blood that they might be saved from self-extermination! If at this date they fail to recognize America's altruism in this intercession, then their case is hopeless. And who, indeed, but an American is restoring the most notable pile of ruins created by the war—the devastated Rheims Cathedral? And who besides an American President is attempting in these times anything really noteworthy toward insuring Europe and the rest of the world against further carnage and destruction?

It is urged by these foreigners that we lack spirituality, but is there not a high degree of spirituality manifested by our desire so to clip the wings of war as to leave only armament enough for national policing purposes? We "materialistic Americans" get no credit for this, but only hypocritical slurs upon our honesty of purpose. Yet, regardless of this lack of appreciation, we are going still further—we are making every effort, as the President said in a recent address at Washington, "to secure a firmer faith of the people of the earth in each other, which will establish an indwelling peace in the heart of mankind."

One must apply all the tolerant philosophy found in Kipling's "If" when one learns that these very efforts at peace are being attributed to ulterior purposes of world dominance and trade supremacy. But we must be patient. The pendulum swings. The end will show how petty is such babble. Unless, indeed, all Europe is to share the fate feared for Britain by Tennyson:

"Babble, babble, our old England may go down in babble at last."

COMMUNITY PUBLICITY

The American Chamber of Commerce of Tampico, Mex., has been studying the problem of community publicity. Believing that the exceptional tarpon fishing, hunting, golfing, agricultural and mineral opportunities its area affords would make thousands of tourists who now go to Florida visit it at least once a year if they were known, it has sought the most effective means of calling those things to the attention of Americans. It boasts that the tide-salted Panuco River is the breeding place for the tarpon which make Florida attractive to many sportsmen, and that tarpon eight feet long, the biggest and gamest ever landed, have been caught there frequently. During the present season one local fisherman there has caught fifty tarpon, and the Tampico Tribune weekly devotes a page in its sport section to the activities and standing of the tarpon fishermen.

The Chamber of Commerce first decided to employ an experienced newspaper and magazine writer to head and organize its publicity bureau, but, after fuller study, came to the conclusion that the one best way to enlighten the world—or that part of it which it wished to reach—was by sending its local newspaper to the people it wished to inform of its advantages. Therefore, it is writing to clubs throughout the United States, especially sporting clubs, offering to send the Tribune without charge if the clubs will agree to keep it on file in a prominent place in their reading-rooms. In that way it expects to enlighten tens of thousands of prosperous Americans more effectually than any publicity bureau could, not with one-sided publicity, but with accurate and timely information on oil, mining, agricultural and sporting advantages which Mexico as a whole and Tampico in particular offer.

WOMEN TO THE FRONT

The women of the United States are gradually coming to the front in bringing the nation nearer to the League of Nations. The American Association of University Women, at the final session of their convention in Indianapolis, recommended not only the entrance of the United States into the Court of International Justice with the Hughes reservations, but joining the League of Nations.

The President, in his inaugural address, made it plain that the League is a subject which must work out its own salvation through the channels of universal education. The indorsement by the University Women of this country of the covenant of universal peace is one of the best signs that the educational world at least is in hearty sympathy with the movement. California feels a thrill of emotion and pride at the unanimous re-election of Dr. Aurelia Henry Reinhardt of Mills College, Oakland, as president of the association, in connection with the resolution which the University Women adopted.

Thought filters through from the top. When women who carry the standard of education aloft from the campus of the nation's best educational institutions join with federated club women, the Gold Star mothers and a score of other representative women's organizations, to demand the adherence of the country to the principles laid down in Versailles, politicians will take note and draw their own conclusions. The elephant is known for its short-sightedness in a vision which carries no farther than twenty or thirty feet, but nature, compensating as usual for shortcomings in one sense, has given it a corresponding acuteness in its scenting organs. A hunter standing in the wind toward the colossus of the jungle is not safe from a stampede at a distance of half a mile. Nor does the mastodontic instinct of the animal permit it to await the march of elemental catastrophes such as a prairie fire.

The women of the country form a large proportion of the electoral total which elects representatives of the people. It may be well, therefore, for the G.O.P. elephant to heave its trunk in the air and take a sniff of the powder puffs which refresh the ladies' smiling features as they march on toward Versailles and turn their disdaining noses from Congress. They are mothers and prospective mothers of large blocks of voters who will take their political views from the same hand which administers the pasteurized milk bottle.

Among them are thousands and hundreds of thousands of school teachers and educational nurses who imprint the first impressions on the budding minds. That in the next generation will make and unmake the men who will carry the destiny of this commonwealth in their hands. To scoff at their opinions now is neither wise nor politic.

The "mene, mene, tekel, upharsin" written on the walls by the women's conventions is a sign which no politician can afford to ignore. For education permeates the thought waves which impart intellectual life to the masses in which opposing thought has but scant opportunity to live and thrive.

INSPIRATION

A young writer was lamenting that he lived too late. "I have a lot of the same ideas Shakespeare had," he complained, "but, since he's already written them all, they do me no good. The inspirations which made Wordsworth and Keats famous come to me, but if I should write them they would be old stuff. Many of the very sentiments which immortalized Seneca and Marcus Aurelius flash into my mind, but today they would be called platitudes. I might have made an undying name for myself had I lived centuries ago, but now it's no use."

So, to console himself, he began reading "The Little French Girl," and as he said he exclaimed: "By George, of all the novels I've read, I never read one like this before!"

Yet it is doubtful if the author of "The Little French Girl" consciously tried to be "different." She merely went to life instead of to literary traditions for her story, and told it pretty much as a good reporter would tell a feature story which had aroused his keen interest and fired his imagination and so she created something new.

Fannie Hurst once wrote a local newspaper man a friendly letter about her own work. First, she said, she studied hard in colleges, winding up with a special course at Columbia University. She wrote and wrote, but couldn't sell anything. Then she realized that, though she knew a lot about story technique, she knew little about life. So she went out and worked as a shop girl, then as a chorus girl. She crossed the ocean steerage. She took to strolling down Second avenue in New York, not as a "sightseer," but as a friend, stopping to chat with the people who kept the little shops, getting interested in—not merely inquisitive about—the life stories and yearnings and aspirations of human beings. "And now," she concluded, "there are so many things I learned and want to tell, so many convictions about life that I want to express, that it is no longer a question of 'thinking up something to write about,' but rather of selection from the great mass of human interest which has entered into my heart."

That must be the great secret of "how to write." It is said that every true believer must become a preacher—that everyone who becomes convinced of facts concerning the world must express them. Shakespeare could have decided there was nothing left to write about as easily as could the modern young writer.

About a century ago the director of the United States Patent Office resigned, saying so many things had been invented there soon would be no job left for him and he must look for something with a future. That was before the days of telegraph, telephone, washing machine and breakfast foods. As long as there are human beings there will be new stories to write, and every story-inventor will find himself in the midst of raw material, no matter where he lives.

THE POTATO CROP

The slump in quality and quantity in the potato crop in various sections of the country is due to a combination of causes. In a general way it may be said that the potato has almost as many petty diseases as the human frame and any one of these may bring a slump of 10 or 15 per cent in the yield, aside from impairing the flavor of the tubers. Lots of citizens insist with some vehemence that their potato ration doesn't taste nearly as good as it used to. It seems that the plants and the potatoes themselves are subject to a lot of ailments—many of them purveyed by bugs or worms. The Department of Agriculture urges the isolation of seed fields with special inspection. If the plants can be kept free of their insect visitors for a season or two the potato will come back in splendid form and be worthy of the affectionate attention of the chef.

DISTURBING THE PEACE

A couple of Kansas towns are reported as having school contests in which pupils and classes compete with one another for supremacy in Latin, geometry, composition and other studies. This is a serious innovation. Students may give battle on the diamond or the gridiron; they may come to grips at the hurdles or in the 100-yard dash, but when they get to jousting over the multiplication table it wrecks all conception of educational ethics. Pupils are eager to make the football team. It would be embarrassing if they fought for places on the algebra squad.

THE SERPENT FLA

BY PRINCE SHABAN

Flattery, that subtle poison to which all ceptible, that misleading satisfaction to our do quite well without, is encountered so freq clations that one must ever be on guard agai weapon of our enemies, the proof of insince the practice any value or is it entirely destr

Minerva, the Grecian Goddess of Intellect, is supposed to have said: "Know thyself." Many are they who are proficient in understanding others, but rare is the man who understands himself. If a man knows himself thoroughly and has defined his ambitions and his principles he will not be unduly encouraged by careless praise when he is wrong, nor swayed from his purpose by the sneers of others when he is right.

How often are we told how nice we are or what beautiful things we have or how wonderful is our work. Do we not often accept these statements because they are pleasing to us, even if they are in discord with our judgment? Is he who rates the quality of his acts, of his thoughts and of the products of his labor on the opinions of others weak or strong? Weak, pitifully weak, for he does not understand himself.

A few illustrations will aid us in analyzing this subject. There was an artist who had gained a wide reputation for his remarkable talent. He possessed the ability for the proper selection of his subjects to fit his work. His rewards had indicated that his knowledge of his art and his technique were of high standing. While he was painting a beautiful picture in his studio his servant, who had been occupied in sweeping the floor, stopped his labor and gazed in admiration on the picture. "Master," said he, "it is glorious. It is the peak of your work. You have excelled yourself."

The artist turned to the servant and smiled in appreciative satisfaction and thanked him, saying that he was pleased to have the picture pass his inspection. Little did the servant know of the blending of colors and the intricacies of the artist's work. In accepting the flattery of his servant he not only deceived himself, but deceived the servant as well by causing him to believe that he was in a position to give valuable classification to his art.

Milton pictured himself, in his splendid work "Paradise Lost," as one entirely devoid of vanity. While he was entertaining his guests at a dinner party in his home a friend whispered to him that one of the guests present had made the remark that Milton was a fine-looking man. Now Milton was blind, old and shrunken at the time, still he made his friend repeat the remark several times during the evening. Even with his enormous brain power and qualifications vindicating his self-confidence, he was susceptible to flattery.

There is a story of Leonardo Da Vinci that demonstrates his self-confidence. He had just completed painting a picture of a shepherd and placed it on exhibition and was standing by to note the criticism of the public. Two shepherds came into the gallery and, after looking at his picture, called his attention to the shoe laces. Da Vinci compared the shoe laces in the picture with those of the two shepherds and discovered his mistake. He changed them to agree with theirs and returned his picture to its place of exhibition.

The next day the two shepherds returned and, encouraged by the change they wrought in the picture, commenced to criticise the face. Da Vinci took hold of them and, as he was ejecting them from the gallery, said: "You may correct the shoe laces, because you wear them yourselves, but when you criticise the facial expression you insult my knowledge of my art. Your assistance is harmful when it is not based on actual knowledge."

Da Vinci was sure of his art and gave due credence to the constructive censure of the shepherds when they knew whereof they spoke, but he had the confidence in his own knowledge not to allow them to change his opinion by criticism on a subject of which they were in ignorance. Most certainly the creator who is possessed of a knowledge of that which he undertakes should not allow his confidence to be dependent upon other people's mere opinion, for usually their expression is readily given, even though they lack definite knowledge of his enterprise and do not take the trouble to investigate it.

A pitiful victim of flattery is the young lady who is given the illusion that she possesses a wonderful voice through the delicacy of her friends when forced to listen to her literally screaming beside a piano. When she has finished the assembly invariably remarks on the wonderful quality of her voice. Without realizing that these friends do not possess the knowledge to be capable judges of music or of her histrionic ability, she takes their opinion seriously and ofttimes studies and struggles for years having her voice cultured and trained and spending great sums of money for a hopeless cause.

Even though her friends know that she lacks talent for the career she has chosen, they will, by their compliments, which are intended for pleasantry, encourage her falsely to continue. If she could but know and appreciate that axiom of Grecian mythology, "Know thyself," she would not be deceived by this flattery and choose a career more adaptable to herself and incidentally relieve the rest of us of an occasional few minutes of patient suffering.

BY JUAN NEAL LEVY

Of more than usual interest to local society is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. G Aubrey Davidson of San Diego and Coronado, formerly of Los Angeles, of the marriage of their son, Gilbert Aubrey Davidson, Jr., to Miss Elizabeth Jones of Ashville, N. C., the ceremony taking place the 19th inst., at the First Presbyterian Church in Washington, D. C.

The marriage is the culmination of a romance which began in Washington two years ago, where the young folk have been attending school, the bride at St. Margaret's, from which she was graduated last June, and young Davidson at the George Washington University. After passing a month with Mr. and Mrs. Davidson, Sr., at Hotel Del Coronado, the young couple will make their home at the Copley Apartments in the national capital, where Mr. Davidson will finish his studies in finance, after which they will make their permanent home in San Diego.

The wedding unites two prominent families, the bride being a member of one of the old Southern families of Ashville, while Mr. Davidson's parents are prominently identified with the social and civic life of San Diego and Southern California, where they have made their home for many years.

Bridge Dinner

Among the enjoyable affairs of the week will be the bridge dinner with which Mr. and Mrs. Judson C. Rives are entertaining at their home in West Chester Place, Saturday evening, the guests of honor being Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Henchy of the Gaylord, who have just returned from an extended trip to New York, Florida and Havana. Roses and delphinium, combined with ferns and tulle, will form the decorations of the dinner table, and covers will be arranged for Mr. and Mrs. Henchy, Mr. and Mrs. William Boothe Guyton, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Wetherby, Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Lee Dabbs, Mr. and Mrs. George Walker, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Waite and Dr. and Mrs. Cecil R. Luton.

For Classmates

Among the enjoyable affairs of recent date was the luncheon and bridge with which Miss Mary Wells entertained Saturday afternoon at her home in Gramercy Place, her guests including a bevy of young classmates from Los Angeles High School. The decorations were attractively carried out in pink and orchid tones, and those enjoying the afternoon were Miss Louise Cupit, Miss Virginia Aldous, Miss Virginia Bailey, Miss Virginia Grece, Miss Constance Kendall, Miss Peggy Johnson, Miss Lenore McNamara, Miss Mary Frances McAter, Miss Josephine Catlin, Miss Maxine Abel, Miss Virginia Inman, Miss Katherine McCaffey, Miss Elizabeth Garrett, Miss Margaret White, Miss Kathleen Fitzgerald, Miss Louise Miller, Miss Betty Phillips, Miss Violet Olsen, and Miss Aileen Ravenscroft. Miss Wells was assisted by Miss Olsen and Miss Ravenscroft.

For Bride-Elect

Mrs. Alvin B. Wilson entertained last week at her home in Beverly Hills, honoring Miss Persis Leamer who announced her engagement to Charles Raymond Wilson recently. Luncheon and bridge were features of the afternoon, the house being beautifully decorated with spring flowers, and the hostess was assisted by her sister, Mrs. E. E. Elder also of Beverly Hills. Those included were Miss Leamer, Miss Jessie Wilson, Mrs. L. M. Bryant, Mrs. Elma Davis, Mrs. Harry Wilson, Mrs. J. E. Binford, Mrs. Newton Vincent Alison, Miss Grace Wilson, Miss Neil Wilson, Mrs. Sidney Coolidge, Mrs. Elder and the hostess.

Dinner Party

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Anderson of the Gaylord entertained with a dinner party in the Cocoanut Grove at the Ambassador Friday evening, their especial honor guests being Mr. and Mrs. William D. Syers, Mr. and Mrs. Moore and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Cooke.

Home Again

Mrs. Ralph Winfield Miller of West Adams street returned last week from a visit in Portland, Or., and the North, bringing with her Miss Ruth Wilkinson of the northern city, who is her house guest. Saturday evening Dr. and Mrs. Miller and their attractive daughter, Miss Eva Miller, entertained with a dancing party in honor of their guest, Miss Mary Elizabeth Kincaid and Lynn Helm, Jr., also sharing the honors. Forty guests were bidden.

Wedding Announced

Formal announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Nathison of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Calla Mathison, to Rollo E. Shaw, son of Mrs. Margaret Shaw, of 1228 Harcourt avenue, the ceremony taking place at Glenwood Mission Inn, Riverside, Thursday, the 16th inst., at high noon, Rev. Ira W. Barnett of Calvary Presbyterian Church officiating, in the presence of members of the immediate families. Following the ceremony a wedding luncheon was served in the Patio, after which Mr. and Mrs. Shaw left on their wedding trip, and after their return will make their home here. The bride was graduated from University of California, while Mr. Shaw, who is one of the promising young attorneys of Los Angeles, received his degrees from University of Southern California.

Afternoon Affair

Complimenting Mrs. Freemont Campbell of Tacoma, Wash., and Mrs. Homer Wissendorf (Margaret Church,) a recent bride of Burbank, Mrs. W. W. Cottle entertained with a smart bridge-tea at the Hotel Maryland Wednesday afternoon, the card tables being arranged in the lounge overlooking the beautiful gardens and distant hills, baskets of spring flowers being used in the elaborate decorations.

Those included were Mrs. Gene Bryant Heywood, Mrs. Thomas E. Gibbon, Mrs. Edward Filley, Mrs. Donald Albright, Mrs. George Smith, Mrs. George Koeler, Mrs. Arthur Hull, Mrs. Leslie Hoagland, Mrs. Earl Condon, Mrs. Clarence Lind, Mrs. Harold Davis, Mrs. John Stebbins, Mrs. William Scripps Kellogg, Mrs. Roy Pearson, Miss Estelle Bean, Miss Janice Boardman, Mrs. Wallace McAllister, Miss Marjorie Miller, Mrs. John K. Church, Jr., the guests of honor and hostess.

Honor Guests

Mrs. Eugene Overton and Miss Ada S. Blake are issuing cards for an "at home" Friday afternoon, May 1, from 4 to 6 o'clock, at Marlborough School, Third and Rossmore, honoring the Alumnae Association and Marlborough Club.

Sorority Party

One of the pleasant events of the past week was the Easter party given by Gamma Lambda Kappa Sorority at the home of Miss Eleanor Bassett in West Fortieth Place Tuesday evening. The decorations were carried out in spring flowers in yellow and lavender, the sorority colors, and covers were arranged for Miss Eleanor Bassett, Miss Marjorie Claudine Rice, Miss Margaret Hamilton, Miss Persis Leamer, Miss Bertha Crisp, Miss Laura Lee Close, Miss Lois Cunningham, Miss Bernice Malone and Miss Louise Riglesberger.

Harris Jewelry Found Following Wounding of Boy

Francis Vincent Tudson, 18 years of age, who was shot by police officers the night of the 16th inst., in an attempted burglary, yesterday was identified by Sergt. Barlow, finger-print expert of the police department, as the youth who robbed the home of Nick Harris, private detective, March 24.

Detective Lieutenants Neece and Page, who questioned Tudson, said the youth made a complete confession of the burglary when confronted with the finger-print evidence.

Following the reported confession, the detectives went to a vacant lot near First and Olive streets less than a block distant from the police station and recovered silverware and jewelry valued at approximately $2500, from a hole where the youth is said to have admitted hiding it.

The Woman and Her Job

by Valerie Watrous

(Questions concerning the problems of women will be answered in this column if addressed to Mrs. Watrous at The Times.)

PERKY STRUTS HER STUFF

Ever since we bobbed our hair we've been trying to find some one who took enough interest in the job of trimming to fit it to our peculiar style of beauty. Now, when I use that editorial "we" I don't mean it that way. I am merely echoing the wail I've heard from every woman I know on the subject of barbers.

"You know, I'm always waiting for my hair to grow again to have it cut the way I want it . . . but I haven't succeeded yet," a friend said recently. "I've been consistent, I've tried one after another. Nobody in the business seems to think that the same haircut doesn't suit every face."

And that's the whole trouble. If shaving the "neck's nice nape" is the vogue, the barber whisks the clippers up to the base of your skull, no matter what you say. That one woman has a long neck, and another a short one, makes no difference.

A few of the barbers, both women and men, seem to think it's your business to tell them what to do . . . and even then they don't know what you mean. Study the contour of the face? Why, Mabel, how can you!

A month or so ago I drifted into a neighborhood beauty shop . . . it couldn't be worse than some of the big shops downtown . . . and was assigned to the mercies of a perky young person who must have been at least 18.

Flapper? Indeed, yes; she outflapped anything I've seen in her expression of boredom. Her eyes caught shifting hazel lights, and there was a quizzical mockery in the slant of their long-lashed lids; her nose had an upward tilt, and there was a perky lift to her chin . . . I liked Perky; anybody would.

Solemnly I told her just what I wanted. She shifted her gum and scissors with the same motion, listening patiently. I entered into further details, when she cut me short.

"Say! Who's doin' this, you or me?" She cocked her young head on one side. "If the last fella that cut your hair followed your instructions, you'd better wear a muzzle."

I really wanted to be indignant, but laughed instead.

"I know it's a mess," I conceded, "that's why I'm so fussy. I'd like to get a becoming bob just once . . ."

"Here's where you get it. I know my stuff, an' I strut it," Perky announced, giving the scissors another flip and set to work.

You can say what you like about these young intellectuals, but you can't deny their efficiency. Every few minutes Perky stepped back and surveyed the result, then continued, whistling softly as the scissors snipped.

She was so sure of herself my confidence was won, but I watched the effect with a wary eye. When it was all over and she whisked away the protecting apron, I took the mirror from her hand to praise or condemn.

If I wasn't so inherently superstitious I would probably have dropped the mirror. But I've just rounded out seven years, and I can't afford to start another seven just now.

There was the most becoming bob I'd ever had! There also was the impish eyes of Miss Perky flashing triumph into mine.

"Didn't I tell you I knew my stuff and could strut it?" Perky demanded with the ring of a craftsman's pride in her tones.

"It's the best ever," I acknowledged reaching a reckless hand into my purse.

"That's what comes from being a specialist," Perky continued, "I study my customers, and I try to cut their hair to suit. Now your neck's sort-of long and . . ."

"If you say 'stringy' you'll find I'm a specialist in sudden wrath," I threatened.

"Easy, easy. I'm not going to say that . . . didn't I tell you I know my stuff?"

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Miss D. A. C.: Professional shoppers usually receive a 10 per cent commission from the merchant. The customer does not pay anything for the service and the shopper has to compete with the shopping department of the big stores. You would get your customers by advertising in The Times, or by direct-mail advertising. Your announcements should be sent a month or six weeks in advance of holidays.

Dear Edith: I wrote you personally some time ago. You would have to begin as a milliner's apprentice. You would probably start at $10 a week, or less, depending on your present skill. A year of such work would be invaluable if you plan to go into business for yourself. I would advise you to wait a year and work in a shop, then you would not be dependent on your maker and would keep down your overhead while you were building up trade.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Half at a Time

Varnish every other step so the stairway can be used while being renovated. When dry, paint the remaining stairs.

Turn Them Around

Don't forget to turn the rugs around at housecleaning times. Constant turning makes them wear evenly and they should be turned at least every six minths to insure good wear.

Butter for Sandwiches

When you expect to make sandwiches, leave enough butter on a plate in the warm kitchen for a couple of hours instead of putting it all in the refrigerator. It will just be nice for spreading when the sandwiches are to be made.

The Spring Inventory

It's time to look over the preserve closet and make decisions as to what is to be done up this year. Housecleaning is upon us and immediately follow the first fruits and we will want to know what proved popular last year and will have to be repeated this. Take account of stock.

Have Them Dyed

When the colored satin slippers become smudged with polish from men's shoes during the dance and are generally hopeless, take them back to the shop where they were purchased and have them dyed a darker shade to match some other less delicate frock.

Diet and Health

BANANAS!

I have an inquiry from Miss C. as to whether I consider the banana a fit fruit to eat.

Why, woman, from some points of view the banana is one of the fittest fruits we have! But—it must be a thoroughly ripened banana. The only reason bananas are in disrepute (aside from the popular song about them) is that they have been eaten in an unripe state and usually not thoroughly masticated.

Bananas are thoroughly ripe only when the skin is thin and is turning black. That is the time when you can usually buy them cheaper because from this point on they begin to become too soft and over-ripe.

When unripe bananas are indigestible because they have a large proportion of starch and most raw starch is difficult to digest. When ripened, this starch is changed into a sugar that is easily digested. In fact, thoroughly ripened bananas are so easily digested that in a certain rare disease of children, known as Celiac disease, in which there is a lack of the ability to digest carbohydrates, bananas can be used as the sole carbohydrate food; on this the children thrive, according to a children specialist whom I heard discuss this question at New York Academy of Medicine.

Thoroughly ripened bananas can be given to babies as soon as any pureed fruits are given to them, (about the seventh month.) The best way to puree them is to pass them through a colander and then beat. But remember, they must be the ripe ones.

Bananas are of value chiefly because of their high percentage of easily digested sugar. However, they have some of all of the known vitamins. They are not high in the mineral elements and for this reason they can be taken with profit by those suffering with kidney disease (Kellogg.)

With other fruits, with the exception of plums, cranberries and prunes, bananas have an alkaline reaction in the body, which is desirable, as our diets should be predominant in the alkaline forming foods.

A good-sized banana, five and one-half ounces in weight, has 100 calories of food value, five of which are protein, six fat, and eighty-nine carbohydrates. The protein must be of a good quality because in the tropical countries, during the six months of the rainy season in which the bananas ripen, they furnish almost the exclusive diet of the natives.

The only way unripened bananas can be eaten with profit, is baked without the skins, or mashed and stewed with a little water and flavored with lemon juice and sugar. The ripened bananas can be baked in the skins, but should be baked quickly and only until the juice begins to flow. If baked too long they become tough and dark and lose their flavor.

There is a banana flour which is made by drying and grinding the mature, but unripe, fruit. This made into muffins or cake is very digestible and highly nutritious. It is said that Stanley while traveling in Central Africa depended upon the banana flour as his staple food. This flour can be made into gruels also.

When ripe bananas are dried in the sun, without the skins, they are known as banana figs. They are palatable when cooked into sauces.

Yes! We can have bananas. Ripe bananas.

DO IT WITH GAS; APPLIANCE WEEK OBSERVANCE BEGINS TODA

ENGINEER TELLS HOW TO REDUCE FAMILY GAS BILL

Proper Adjustment of Flame and Cleanliness of Burner Are Important Factors

Gas Engineer, Los Angeles Gas and Electric Company

No one would buy gas for its own sake.

People pay their good money for gas service—for the heating or lighting service that the gas will perform. And yet, thousands of persons every day burn gas which does not yield its full quota of service because of poorly adjusted appliances.

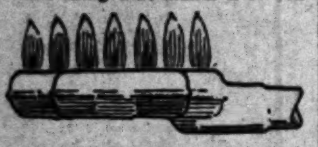
To furnish gas of high quality at uniform pressure any second of the year, for a reasonable charge is the part of Los Angeles service. Our direct responsibility ends at the meter.

Nevertheless, it has been our policy to assist our patrons by all reasonable means to secure the best results from the use of gas appliances.

A little care will save many dollars to gas consumers because of the more efficient utilization of gas that will result.

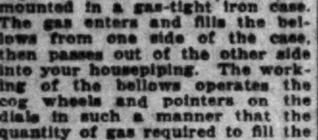
MECHANICAL CLERK

One thing that makes it so convenient for the housewife to "go shopping" for gas is the mechanical "clerk," which stands at the entrance to your house piping day and night, year after year, ready on demand to measure out to you whatever quantity of gas you may need. This "clerk" is the much-abused, but very reliable, gas meter.



Yellow Tip not enough air

The gas meter is a very simple device. It consists essentially of an arrangement of bellows, valves, cog wheels, dials and pointers mounted in a gas-tight iron case. The gas enters and fills the bellows from one side of the case, then passes out of the other side into your housepiping. The working of the bellows operates the cog wheels and pointers on the dials in such a manner that the quantity of gas required to fill the bellows moves the pointers around the dials so as to indicate or "register" the passage of that much gas. That is all there is to it.



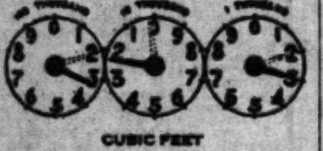
Blue flame too much gas

Gas meters are among the most accurate measuring instruments known. Like your watch or any other mechanical device, the tendency of the gas meter as it becomes older or worn is to "run slow" or register less gas than actually passes through it. From every standpoint it is to the interest of the gas corporation as well as the gas users to have the gas meters as accurate as possible.

When you understand your gas meter better you will trust it more fully. We have approximately 300,000 of these mechanical "clerks" standing on constant duty to serve you—one "clerk" to the customer.

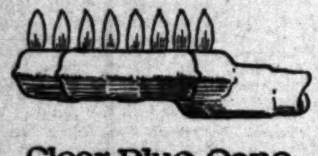
READING THE GAS METER

It is desirable that every gas user shall be able to read his meter if occasion prompts. It is a very simple process—after you know how. Note in the illustration (Figure one) that the pointers on the two outside dials move in the same direction as the hands of a clock; on the center dial the pointer moves in the opposite direction.



CUBIC FEET

Begin at the left and write down in order the figures on each dial that the pointer has reached or passed, which in the diagram are 3, 2 and 3, respectively. To these figures add two zeros, which gives a reading of 32,300 cubic feet. This means that 32,300 cubic feet of gas has passed through the meter since the pointers were all set at zero.



Clear Blue Cone perfect flame ½in. in height.

If at the previous reading the pointers stood as indicated by the dotted lines, the reading then was 20,200 cubic feet. By subtracting 20,200 from 32,300 we find that 12,100 cubic feet of gas was used between the two readings, and that quantity of gas would be charged on the bill.

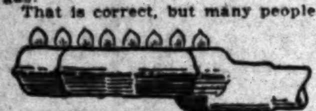
If in doubt as to whether a pointer has reached a certain point, it can be decided by comparing with the next dial to the right. For example, the dotted pointer on the left-hand dial has reached or passed 2, because the dotted pointer for the middle dial has passed 0. Any pointer is always exactly at a division point when the next pointer to its right is at zero.

We like to have out patrons read their own meters.

HOW TO BURN GAS

"Very easy," you say. "Just strike a match and turn on the gas!"

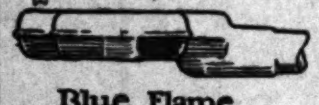
That is correct, but many people do not understand that at the same time you also turn on the air, or should, at least.



Blue Flame not enough gas

Pure gas, as it comes from the pipes, is not in the ideal condition to be burned. A certain quantity of oxygen must be mixed with the gas to give it the maximum of heating value. It is the purpose of the "air mixer" (Figure 2,) which is a part of the valve of the gas burner, to admit air containing oxygen to be mixed with the gas as it enters the burner.

Burn less gas, and more air. Oxygen is free as the air of which it forms a part, and though it costs nothing it is worth much to the user of gas. If you are not burning the right proportion of oxygen you are burning too much gas. The right mixture, when burning gas of the quality served by the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, is eight and one-half parts of air to one part of gas, by volume. Adjust your burners now and cut down your gas bills. This is how to do it:



Blue Flame too much air..

With a screw driver loosen the set screw that holds the shield in position on your air mixer. Slowly rotate the shield, so as to increase and decrease the size of the openings in the air mixer. Note the effect on the flame from the burner, comparing with the illustrations of various types of flames shown in Figures 3 to 7, inclusive. When you have the condition most nearly like the illustration entitled, "Perfect flame," tighten the set screw to keep the shield in adjustment. A yellow, smoky flame means not enough air; a "blowy" flame that "pops back" and burns in the air mixer means too much air. A steady, blue flame, like the "perfect flame" in Figure 7, indicates a correct mixture of gas and air. When the flame is "perfect," the adjustment of the air mixer is correct. That is the only rule. You can do the trick as well as anybody. Don't waste your gas by faulty adjustment of your air mixer.

KEEP BURNERS CLEAN

DOMESTIC GAS USAGE RECENT

Primitive Man Regarded Fire as Evil Omen

Englishman Found Substance Would Light Home

Tremendous Strides Made in Late Years

Gas is a comparatively recent innovation — as far as domestic usage is concerned.

Back in the Miocene or Pliocene Age and still later, when the Pleistocene man walked over the earth, no utilization of nature was used to foster and develop the necessities of life. Man ate his food raw, tearing it apart with his teeth.

Lightning and its subsequent fire and smoke when it struck were regarded an evil omen, not to be tampered with. Gradually, however, man discovered that the coals left in the wake of some electrical storm had potentialities little dreamed of before. Man began to experiment and found that food was more palatable and tender when heated over these coals.

Finally fire was made by rubbing two sticks together, the discovery of some advanced thinker. And henceforth man's dependence on nurturing beds of coals, following a storm, vanished. Later he discovered that metal could be melted and molded into forms necessary for his domestic and hunting implements. But throughout all this time he had no knowledge of the force he was controlling. He did not realize that the flame which he encouraged was one of nature's great forces—gas; that the heat surrounding the wood distilled the gas from the fibers of the wood, which burned.

Thousands of years passed before man realized that there was some force which could be used for benefit other than that which was developed from the burning of wood, coal or like material. The age of the alchemist arrived, the forerunner of the modern chemist.

An alchemist seeking for gold discovered an unknown force, which confined in some kind of a container and released slowly, would burn. This was gas. But until 1792 no one thought of utilizing this gas for domestic purposes. Then a man named Murdock built what is known as the first gas still. He piped it into his home and used it for lighting purposes. Shortly afterward a street in London was lighted by gas and drew the curious for miles around.

In the nineteenth century gas was brought to America and from that day until this its rise to the only efficient form for cooking has been marked by tremendous strides.

UTILITIES CHAIR FOR UNIVERSITY

Johns Hopkins Offers Students Course in Gas Engineering

A chair of gas engineering has been founded at Johns Hopkins University.

This course is intended to instruct not only students who are planning to enter the gas industry as their life work, but also for the education of men already engaged in the gas utilities. The course will be so arranged that not only men who already have technical knowledge can perfect themselves further in the science of the business, but also for men who have no technical training but desire to acquire such. For the latter, there will be a regular four-year undergraduate college course, leading to a degree in gas engineering. All students entering this course must be graduates of approved high schools or preparatory schools.

It is expected that a large part of the labbratory work during the last two years of the course will be in plants of gas industries in or near Baltimore.

Special attention will be given to advanced courses for those who have already been through college. The tuition fee for both undergraduate and graduate students is very reasonable. Prof. Wilbert J. Huff has been appointed professor of gas engineering.

ELECTRIC LIGHT AIDS DIGESTION

Incandescents Said to Relieve Pain and Have Effect of Germicide

By placing an electric light over the abdomen, experts say, digestion can be stimulated. Light from an ordinary incandescent lamp has a germicidal effect and will relieve pain.

This is a discovery of special consequence. Soon the well-appointed table will include a light plug at each place. Gentlemen after dinner will carry lights amidship to show that they have dined. The lighting systems of our cabarets will acquire a new significance.

But it should not go too far. When eating dinner requires an instrument board and as much technique as driving an automobile, science has progressed far enough. The naive pangs of colic are better than digestion with a machine shop.

GAS HEATING POPULAR IN SOUTHLAND

Cleanliness and Health Factors Inducing Change from Old Ways

Gas furnaces are becoming practically universal in private homes throughout Southern California, according to a survey recently made. The cleanliness of the gas-fired warm-air heating system has been offered as one of the outstanding reasons for the swerving from the old form of coal furnace.

It is also admitted that this system is healthful because the heating is done by pure air heated to the proper degree and uniformly distributed. The economy of operation of a gas-fired heating system of this type is realized, it is said, when advantage is taken of the flexibility and the ease of operation. The cost of gas fuel as compared with other fuels in the long run is reasonable when it is remembered that the heating service rendered is of such a nature that expense and bother of tending a hard-coal furnace is eliminated.

The gas furnace is particularly adaptable in the California home because of the mild climate. This is also responsible for the extra economy with which it may be operated. Ordinarily, it was pointed out, the minimum consumption of fuel gives ample heat for the average California home.

Gas Takes Place of Charcoal as Japanese Fuel

The charcoal brazier, characteristic of Japanese homes for many years and familiar throughout the Orient as the best available method of heating houses is being rapidly displaced by gas stoves in Japan, according to the Pennsylvania public service information committee.

Japan is also using 1,000,000 gas lamps in the city streets and 200 gas engines in the tiny factories that produce everything from ivory carvings to toothbrush handles and from sandals to sausages.

Gas production today with 10,000,000,000 cubic feet annually is double that of 1914. Seventy-six companies, as compared with ten in 1914 furnish the service, it is said.

MAKING GAS USEFUL

Gas, it is said, was first made in a tea kettle, and tea kettles are still used over gas. When the bottom of a kettle wears out, a useful gas saver can be made by cutting out the bottom with a can-opener and using the top of the kettle as a cover or salamander to place over open dishes or flat irons on the gas stove. This saves as much as 50 per cent of gas used and also saves time.

IF GAS WERE KING

The universal use of gas service in our cities would reduce by half the $500,000,000 fire loss of the American people, according to the Rocky Mountain Committee on Public Utility Information.

CITY'S USE OF GAS SHOWS PERSISTENT, STEADY GAIN

Record of Last Decade Indicates Population is Now Close to Million and Half Mark

Consumption of gas in Los Angeles and the immediate vicinity—the territory served by the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation—has shown a steady increase in the last ten years, according to figures released yesterday by D. L. Scott, advertising manager of the corporation. This company, it is said, serves 75 per cent of the people here and in the surrounding communities.

In 1915, the year that Los Angeles first started its phenomenal growth, 4,358,183,000 cubic feet of gas were sent out through the mains of the company. Five years later the amount was double and in 1922 exactly 12,563,189,000 cubic feet were dispatched, an increase of 27.60 per cent over the previous year. In 1924 this consumption had increased to 16,288,353,000 cubic feet.

LOS ANGELES IN LEAD

Warm weather is a deterrent to gas consumption, yet every month this year has shown an increase in the number of cubic feet sent out in the mains. For the first three months of this year 5,908,447,000 cubic feet of gas was used, more than the entire year of 1915, 1916, 1917 or 1918.

Likewise, figures compiled in the East for the month of January for the percentage of increase of gas send out in ten of the large cities revealed that Los Angeles led with an increase of 10.74 per cent over January, 1924. Detroit ranked second with 8.32 per cent increase, Baltimore third with 4.70 per cent and Milwaukee fourth with 4.23 per cent. Chicago and St. Louis both showed 3.35 per cent and 5.31 per cent decrease respectively over the month of January, 1924. In the month of December, Los Angeles again led with an increase of 24.85 per cent, despite the fact that colder weather reigns in the East.

POPULATION ESTIMATED

The growth of population in Los Angeles is also recorded in the history of the installation of gas meters, Mr. Scott shewed. On January 1, last, there were 306,318 meters installed while five years previously there were only 155,565. The year 1923 saw a net gain of 45,736 meters and 1924 a net gain of 37,687 meters.

Gas mains installed under the streets of the city and outlying districts also show as much gain as other indicators of the city's growth. On January 1, last, according to Mr. Scott, the company had 2483.97 miles of street mains, almost twice as much as in 1920, when 1452.21 miles were recorded. On the first of the year 1924 there were 2214.02 miles of street mains. These figures, it was explained, merely indicate the steady and substantial growth and spreading of Los Angeles. On the basis of these figures and compilations from various sources and authorities in the city the gas company has estimated the population of Los Angeles at 1,400,000.

GAS RANGE PLANTS PUT UNITS HERE

Pennsylvana Company Latest to Locate Branch Factory in City

Southern California's rapid growth in population during the last decade is reflected in the number of Eastern manufacturers of gas ranges that have located branch factories and plants in this city in recent years. This condition, it is explained, offers the community here better values for the amount expended and also keeps the manufacturers in closer touch with the new market.

The latest eastern concern to establish a Los Angeles factory assisted by local capital is the Eriez Stove and Manufacturing Company of Erie, Pa. This company has formed a California corporation and now has a plant employing thirty-five men at Twenty-fifth and Alameda streets turning out a representative line.

The Eriez gas range has been marketed here for more than fifteen years and has already been considered one of the highest grade ranges made. Through manufacture in Los Angeles these stoves are now made at a price within reach of all prospective buyers of ranges.

P. D. Jones for many years associated with the gas range business in Southern California is manager of the local plant and Graham Hambly is secretary and treasurer. The marketing of the output is being handled through Graham Hambly and Son, local jobbers.

GAS WORKS WONDERS

Nation-wide interest in obtaining the greatest heating values for money spent for fuels has led engineers to figure out what 1000 cubic feet of manufactured gas will do. Among other things, it will boil 275 gallons of water, broil seventy three-pound steaks, bake fifty one-pound loaves of bread in home, prepare 330 single meals in a restaurant.

CITY LEADS IN GAS CONSUMERS

Close Competition Follows Enormous Growth

Organization Formed to Instruct Housewife

Cheap Appliances Provide Pitfalls for Unwary

Recognized as within one one-hundredths of one per cent of being an all-gas city, Los Angeles through its tremendous growth in recent years has reached the pinnacle of gas-using cities in the United States in proportion to its population. With this growth has come competition and in competition price slashing. To cope with inferior commodities offered as trade inducers frequently below the manufacturing cost, the local unit has launched its instructive campaign for intelligence in purchasing of ranges and the consideration of quality above price.

The local unit of the Gas Appliance Society of California, which was organized recently, has Mr. George Finney of Holbrook, Merrill & Stetson, 750 North Spring street, as its president and boasts of some of the leading business men of the city in its membership. As stated in the by-laws of the organization one of the main objects of the society is to "establish a spirit of fraternity between the members by social intercourse and exchange of information, the extension of more cordial and friendly relations between manufacturers, jobbers, distributors, retailers, gas companies and consumers, and to facilitate the education of the employees of its members to enable them to better perform their duties."

"We don't need to tell the people of Los Angeles the value of gas, they are already sold on the idea," Mr. Finney said yesterday. "But what we do have to do and what we are going to try to do is to educate the women of the city into observing quality above price. Gas ranges are a necessary commodity for every home and it is just as inadvisable to invest in cheap ranges as it is in other cheap accessories.

"There is a price bottom to every stove and when you go below that price an inferior and undependable article is obtained. The same care and discretion must be used in purchasing gas ranges as, for instance, in furniture. A cheap stove is a liability in the long run and every housewife has come to recognize this. It is our aim to educate before the purchase, not afterward."

According to figures which have been issued by the local Chamber of Commerce, 600 carloads of gas ranges are received in Los Angeles annually. Several other cities have a much larger field than here, but it is expected that in time Los Angeles will be one of the leading cities, if not the leader, in the use of gas appliances in the world.

COOKING IS NO BUGBEAR FOR BRIDES

Modern Recipes and Ranges Make Preparing of Food Simple

We still smile sympathetically at the recollection of the little bride of a generation ago whose progress along the culinary path was marked by scorched pies, burned fingers, and tears, but we accept a dinner invitation from the modern novice cook without hesitation.

This state of affairs is not due to any change in women themselves, but to a change in conditions. Twenty years ago a girl went to housekeeping with a notebook full of rules for making Aunt Hetty's delicious dishes, and a huge old range. To any inexperienced girl, the problem of making that old stove hot enough for some things and cool enough for others, even getting it to go at all, seemed as big a job as managing a steam locomotive. So what Aunt Hetty's "pinch of this and about so much of that" didn't finish the stove completed. No wonder we have never ceased feeling sorry for the poor little bride.

The modern bride advises us to send our sympathy where it is needed, not to waste it on her. For a cookbook she selects the tested recipes of a food authority, which tell her, clearly and concisely, every step in food preparation, and as a final precaution she selects a substantial, well-built gas range as her most dependable helper in learning how to cook. As a general rule she chooses one with an oven heat control, so that by a turn of a lever the oven is as hot as she wants it, and stays so.

PREHISTORIC MAN FIRST GAS FINDER

Some advanced thinker of prehistoric manhood discovered that by rubbing two sticks together violently fire could be produced. First a little glowing spark, then an ember, which if blown upon and encouraged would finally burst into flame and become fire.

Later he discovered that metal could me melted and molded into forms necessary for his domestic and hunting implements. Man was progressing.

But during all this time he had no knowledge of the force which he was controlling. He did not realize that the flame which he encouraged in the brush or dry wood was one of Nature's great forces—gas. That the heat surrounding the wood distilled the gas from the fibers of the wood, which burned.

KITCHEN EFFICIENCY

The man who does not realize the importance of efficient appliances in the home is still a prehistoric husband. He is holding back the efforts of his helpmate. He is encouraging a waste in his unit of the world's greatest factory, the kitchen.

UTILITIES BOON TO COMMUNITY

Of Vital Importance to Well-Being of City's Inhabitants

Good gas, electric and other public utility services are of vital importance not only to the industrial development of any community, but to the well-being and happiness of the people themselves, declared Adam Gschwindt in a recent address to the Illinois Chamber of Commerce.

"In the industrial upbuilding of communities, competition is first between continents, secondly between nations, then between States and finally between cities and towns," said Gschwindt.

RULES GIVEN TO CUT GAS BILLS

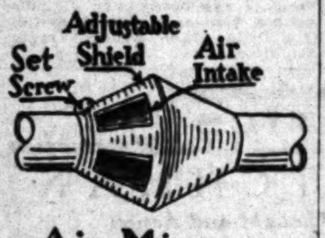
dust, etc. It can't be helped. The only remedy is to clean the burners periodically. Dust in the air mixer and other substances in the burner itself interfere with proper combustion.

To clean the burners lift them out of the range and, with a sharp instrument, clear out the small openings which may have become clogged or partially clogged with dirt. If the burners are greasy, immerse them for several hours in a strong lye solution, rinse and then dry them thoroughly over a gas flame.

"A gas range is a cook stove with a college education," it has been said. Then those modern gas ranges with automatic temperature control must have taken the post-graduate course in domestic economy.



Air Mixer

VENTILATION FACTOR

One of the advantages of gas is its cleanliness. This same cleanliness has resulted in many homes being built without chimneys. Many rooms have a fixture for burning gas, but no flue for ventilation.

Regardless of the flue or the type of gas appliance in use, see that any room in which people stay is thoroughly ventilated. It is a very simple matter to keep a window at least partially open—and a precaution for health.

Many people fear "night air," or "cold air," and keep their windows tightly closed. A most detrimental custom. Damp walls result from closed, unventilated rooms. Open them up. For the sake of health, safety and comfort—ventilate.

GAS LEAKS

Sometimes there are small leaks in gas pipes that can be detected by the odor of the escaping gas, but cannot be readily located. In such a case, call in your plumber to make the necessary repair. If the leak is in our service pipe or meter notify us at once. We did not install the piping in your house and cannot assume responsibility for keeping it in repair. However, if there is a serious leak of gas anywhere about your premises that requires immediate attention, notify us at once for safety's sake.

Don't, please don't look for a gas leak with a match.

GAS PRESSURE

It is our endeavor to maintain uniform gas pressure in our mains at all times. In this we are very successful. It sometimes happens, however, that the gas pressure at the kitchen range will be very poor, while the pressure in our pipes in the street will be normal. In such cases the trouble usually is due to stopped-up or too small piping in the house. Housewives can easily test the gas pressure at the kitchen range in this way:

Light one burner on the top of the range. Then light a second burner and turn the gas up. If the flame in the first burner becomes smaller when the second burner is turned on, it indicates poor gas pressure. This should be reported to us for investigation. If the fault is ours we will correct it gladly. If it is something requiring the attention of your plumber we will so advise you. Often the lady of the house thinks the gas pressure is too low when her difficulty is due entirely to faulty adjustments of the burners. See that burners are kept in perfect adjustment.

GAS-SAVING SUGGESTIONS

Do not use the giant burner when a smaller one will do.

Do not light two burners at a time and let one of them wait while you are getting food ready. Remember, matches are cheaper than gas.

Keep your burners clean to get efficient combustion.

It requires more gas to maintain a cooking temperature in an open vessel than in a closed vessel of the same size.

Don't try to hurry boiling. You cannot heat water above 212 deg. Farenheit, the boiling point. Therefore it is poor economy to waste gas making the pot boil briskly. A gentle boiling will furnish the same cooking temperature and will require much less gas.

Light your fire last, and turn it out as soon as your cooking is finished. If it takes ten minutes to prepare your food for cooking and ten minutes to cook it, don't make the mistake of lighting the gas before you start to prepare the food; for in that case you clearly burn twice as much gas as you use. Most housewives don't do it that way—but some do.

HEATERS MAKE GREAT STRIDES

Gas Devices Now Regarded as Real Necessities

Mechanical Construction Shows Improvement

Lawson Company Brings Out Five New Types

Comparable to the enormous strides made in the automobile industry in recent years, local gas appliance dealers here are pointing to the evolution of the modern Radiant type gas room heater as a fit exponent of what can be accomplished by American inventive and mechanical ingenuity. From an ordinary heater of average appearance, manufacturers have developed this new form until it is now considered as a piece of furniture, necessary for any home.

The types of radiant heaters now range from the small sleeping or bathroom heater to the large ornate forms destined for fireplaces. Once considered a luxury, it is being pointed out, that these new radiant heaters are designed for the weight of every purse and every use.

Recent extensive improvements were made in their mechanical construction, it was said.

One of the world's largest makers of gas appliances, the Lawson Manufacturing Company of Pittsburgh, Pa., is bringing out for the coming season five new type radiant heaters that are conceded to be the last word in gas-room heating. More efficient burner has been invented, which, through its capacity for bringing in secondary air, insures perfect combustion, gives a more powerful and economical heat and eliminates odor. These heaters will all have clay back walls. A very ingenious patented feature is the manner in which the glowers are set over the burner making it impossible for them to be placed wrong. Possibility of breakage through contact has also been eliminated.

The Lawson odorless heater is favorably known throughout the entire world, more than 200,000 being in use in Southern California alone. The Lawson Manufacturing Company, in addition to the Pittsburgh plant, maintains factories in London and Paris.

This new Lawson radiant heater will be available in Los Angeles July 1, and is popularly priced from $14.25 to $42, in five sizes and two finishes.

TOO HOT WATER SPOILS FLAVOR

The French have a saying, "The pot should only smile, not laugh," which accounts for much of the delicacy of flavor found in French foods. We Americans hurry everything, our foods included, and as a result our meals suffer, both in taste and in nutritive value.

Without a doubt the careful manipulation of heat is the biggest factor in producing palatable food. While some foods, such as broiled steaks, baked potatoes, or biscuits, need high heat, and plenty of it, to produce perfect results, the majority of foods need more kindly treatment.

Half the cooking done on the top burners of the gas range might be more satisfactorily carried on on the simmering burner, once the boiling point has been reached. To keep the pot "smiling" is the mission of this important, but often neglected burner.

No one has really eaten boiled ham until he tastes a slice of the sugar-cured variety which has been cooked in hot cider over no more heat than this tiny burner gives. The toughest and stringiest piece of beef becomes a dignified dinner dish when simmered in spicy sauce, after first being browned over a hot flame. Even the powerful pressure cooker will maintain twenty pounds pressure, sufficient for any canning process and for the rapid cooking of meats and cereals.

Of the many kinds of food which are cooked over hot water, or in a double boiler, all may be handled on the simmering burner. Custards, cereals, puddings and the like, not only cook with less gas, but they require less watching, since the water does not boil away so rapidly, and there is little danger of burning.

To cook eggs properly pour boiling water over them and place them over the simmering burner for five to ten minutes, depending upon how soft they are desired.

Well-Lighted Kitchen, Big Home Factor

Every housewife realizes the vital importance of proper light for the kitchen work centers, but she does not always realize how the manufacturers of gas ranges take this point into consideration in designing the kitchen stove.

When electricity took the place of other means of lighting it seemed so wonderful a thing that we just screwed a big powerful lamp in the ceiling fixture and let it go at that. It took many years for us to realize that in practically every kitchen operation, carried on by artificial light, we were working in our own shadow. At least two lighting outlets are necessary for even the smallest of kitchens, one to throw light on the sink and table top, and the other to eliminate every part of the range.

The very first gas ranges which were equipped with elevated ovens invariably had the oven at the right-hand side. A left-hand oven, whenever a determined housewife insisted on one, meant a special factory order and the fuss and bother of a long wait.

Dealers now carry as many left-hand ovens in stock as they do the right-hand variety, and the reason is, not that there are more left-handed cooks than there used to be, but that the manufacturers are keeping pace with women's desire for comfort and efficiency in kitchens.

RADIO SERMON IS WARNING AGAINST BEAUTIFUL DEVIL

Dr. Thomas From "Times" Station Declares Satan Possesses Great Knowledge and Power

Declaring that Satan is "a being of great beauty, knowledge and power," Dr. Martin Luther Thomas, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of San Pedro, in a sermon preached from The Times broadcasting station yesterday, told his invisible audience that it behooves Christians to keep an ever-watchful eye upon this arch-enemy of the true church. Dr. Luther spoke in part as follows:

"The progress and power of the Christian Church present to us not only a phenomenon, but the greatest phenomenon of all history. Within the thirty-three years succeeding Christ's ascension, the Gospel was preached as a witness throughout the then known world. In two centuries the Gospel seemed mistress of the world, and today the church has the same power and vital force that it had in the glorious days of the apostles and the early Christian martyrs.

RECORDS OF PAST

"What is there about the church that it should so successfully withstand the onslaught of the ages? 'The gates of hell shall not prevail against it,' said our Lord. That we may better understand these words let us turn back the pages of history and examine the records of the past.

"The age of innocence has passed, and man, because of his sin, must wrestle with a rebellious earth. So through the years man lived and toiled, and once more the power of evil is gnawing at the vitals of humanity. Immorality and social injustice were the common practice; the priesthood became corrupt; God's house of worship was neglected, until the Son of God, standing upon the mountainside overlooking Jerusalem, wept in anguish of soul over the universal rejection of eternal truth.

"But out of the turmoil and wickedness of the nations a new hope is born—the 'Ecclesia — the called-out body—the Church of Christ,' and against this church the gates of hell shall not prevail. Let the old dispensations fail—let Israel fail as a nation; let Egypt come and go; let Rome send forth her conquering legions, but His church shall never fail for it is founded upon a rock.

UNIVERSAL CHURCH

"When we speak of the Church of Jesus Christ we speak in no narrow, sectarian way. We mean the one universal church, composed of all those who have looked through the form of ceremonies of the ages into the face of Jesus Christ and have uttered the cry of the Apostle Thomas, 'My Lord and my God.' The church is a spiritual organism, living and throbbing with the life of the risen Christ. The members of the true church of Jesus Christ shall not forever be held in the bonds of death. Those death gates shall not prevail, but shall be burst open in triumph on that glorious day when our Lord returns again. For He is coming again some good, glad day. He will come again, with a scepter in the hands that were pierced for us, and the King of Glory will rule and reign!

"So when you speak of the church, lift up your voices in glad thanksgiving and praise, for here is one organization that shall never fail. It never has failed in the past and it will not fall in the future.' The church has foes and at times the battle rages with alarming fierceness, but through it all His love, unchanging and unchangeable, flows out to us, binding His church to Him with cords that cannot be broken. In these days our hearts are often heavy over world and church conditions, for the arch enemy Satan is busy. And he is a being of great beauty, knowledge and power, sowing tares among the wheat. But as the church throughout the centuries has lived because of the faithful sowing of the seed, so now must the church guard carefully the deposit of faith, and leave the result with Him who shall send forth His angels and reap His field in that day."

SAYS WORLD HUNGERS FOR BREAD OF LIFE

Rabbi E. F. Magnin spoke at the Temple B'nai B'rith Friday evening on "Reviving the Religious Spirit." He said in part:

"Many people have in modern times become alienated from church and synagogue and the problem of the earnest preacher is to bring them back again. Many methods have been attempted, some of them legitimate and some, in my opinion, illegitimate. In the long run only honest and dignified methods can succeed. Imitating the tricks of commercialism and publicity will reach a certain type and bring temporary results, but that is not what we are seeking to do. We are seeking, I take it, to win back the cultured as well as the uncultured. We want thinking people to build up and maintain the great churches and synagogues and make their influence felt. In order to do this, the religious institution must stand for a principle. It must be consistent. It must hew to the line and make compromises only when necessary and when not opposed to the ideals for which it stands. The minister and leaders must be characterized by sincerity, religious conviction and character. Any weakness will be readily detected and will serve to alienate the right kind of people from the house of God. I do not believe that quick methods have an abiding influence. People were slow to leave the portals of the sanctuary, and they will be slow to return, but they will return and seek comfort and inspiration if they are to be had there. All people are religious at heart, despite what they may think to the contrary. They are thirsting for the Word of the Lord."

THINKS CHRISTIANITY APPLICABLE TO LIFE

Dr. M. Howard Fagan, pastor of the Wilshire Boulevard Christian Church and president of the Los Angeles Church Federation, preached yesterday on "How to Make Christianity Effective." He said in part:

"That Christianity, in the mind of its Founder, is intended to be a practical religion, is apparent to anyone who will take the trouble to read the teaching of Christ. That, in a large measure, we Christians have failed to make it practical is equally apparent.

Christianity is a religion of principle rather than of law. In the main, Jesus laid down great principles to cover all of life's relationships, in the home, in business, in play, and in all our contacts. Possibly the greatest need of our day is a more practical application of these principles to the problems of present-day life. The supreme task of the church is to make Christianity effective in individual, national and international relationships. That interesting person, Mahatma Gandhi, who perhaps has more personal followers than any other living man, was asked how Christianity could best be made effective in the national life of India. He thought a moment and then replied, "If you are going to do that I would suggest four things." He then suggested that all Christians live more like Christ, that we practice Christianity without adulterating it, that we put the emphasis upon love and that we keep our hearts open to the reception of truth wherever it may be found. Now there is nothing that is now in these suggestions, and yet they are challenging to each one of us. If the Christians of the world would follow these suggestions then Christianity would indeed be made practical in the life of every nation."

SAYS TRUE RELIGION MUST BE INCLUSIVE

Preaching on "Is Religion a Help or a Hindrance?" Dr. Henry C. Culbertson, in his sermon at the Plymouth Congregational Church yesterday, voiced the hope that the day will come when creeds and dogmas will be practically forgotten in the universal adoption of the all-inclusive religion of Jesus. Dr. Culbertson spoke in part as follows:

"Jesus was regarded in His day as an enemy of religion. Why? What kind of religion did He oppose? Religion is a mighty force, and it may be a force for good or a force for evil. When religion is beautiful with love and good will it is from God. When it is a cause of division and hate it is a thing of evil. How eloquently Jesus condemned those who worshiped, saying, 'Lord, Lord,' but substituted religious observances instead of loving service to their fellowmen. How fiercely He denounced the self-satisfied pharisees who made so much of ritual and doctrine, but allowed their religion to cut them off from sympathetic and helpful association with the sinful and wretched ones of earth. His heart bursting with love for all mankind, Jesus condemned all selfish and exclusive religion as false and hypocritical. In Jesus's name we too must condemn all emphasis upon doctrinal differences such as would make them the cause of hate and disruption; all conservatism that refuses to allow free seeking after scientific truth and honest variance of opinion regarding it; every attitude that sets up rules, rituals or beliefs as more important than fellowship and brotherly kindness; every emotional mysticism that would put the souls of men to sleep instead of inspiring them for splendid humanitarian service; every prejudice that would misrepresent God as loving any particular nation, race, group or church better than another. Whatever unites us in love and sympathy, kindness and good will, is from God, and whatever divides us and breeds hatreds and rivalries and ecclesiastical antagonisms is ungodly and diabolical. Some day we shall be rid of credal hatreds, overchurched home communities and unreached heathen darknesses, superficial self-satisfactions and the outcasting of sinners, and we shall have a new and more Christlike world in which the great-heartedness of God shall find expression in the happy hearts of all humanity."

SOUL'S IMMORTALITY DISCUSSED BY RABBI

"The Ancient Prayer, Kaddish" is the subject of the sermon preached by Dr. Mayer Winkler, rabbi of Congregation Sinai, on the last day of the Passover. Following is an excerpt from the discourse:

"The eighth day of Passover is dedicated to the memory of the departed. Passover, the festival of physical and spiritual redemption, would not be complete if we would not remember in love those redeemed souls of our dear ones. United in spirit with the immortal souls, we conclude this festival of liberation, which stands for the immortality of the soul liberated. There is a prayer 'Kaddish' which is uttered devotedly by the mourners, a prayer of praise and glorification, a prayer expressing the idea that we mortal human beings do not murmur against the will of God, but rather magnify His name believing that He takes care of the souls of our departed. At the grave, where the heart is rent in twain, where the soul is crushed, where the tears flow unceasingly, the intonation of the Kaddish performs the office of solace, consolation and of submission to the will of God. It has a magic power; it is a mystic formula to hold the heart. Very often even those who, in their daily pursuits, ignore the teachings of faith, of immortality, feel strengthened in such momentous periods of their lives, and are consoled by the ancient prayer, Kaddish. Originally this prayer was not a prayer for the dead, but rather a concluding prayer in the ancient rabbinical discourses. The rabbi magnified the name of the Lord and the people in unison responded, naming the name of the Lord. The language of this prayer is the Aramaic vernacular, a relative language of the Hebrew, the language spoken at the time of the Talmud by the gentile world in Palestine, so that the people at large should understand. For many centuries the Kaddish has received the significance of being a prayer of mourning and of the mourners, who, honoring the memory of the dear departed, appear in the temples and synagogues and utter this sublime prayer, which is not lamentation for the dead but a pledge of the living who desire to continue their lives in the spirit of their ancestors."

NONSECTARIAN CHURCH CALLED WORLD'S HOPE

Declaring that "a nonsectarian church is the hope of the world," Dr. Bruce Brown, pastor of the South Park Christian Church, in his sermon yesterday evening told his audiance that "the coming, conquering church will be big enough for men to think in but will not be identified with any philosophy or theology." Dr. Brown spoke in part as follows:

"Only the truth can endure. If the Bible is not true the church exists without any stable foundation and is destined to pass away. If the Bible is true the church that shall endure is the one that preaches and practices its teachings. That means that it must abandon all creeds and customs and ordinances and names and practices that are not authorized by the Bible. It cannot be identified with any class or clan or nation. It must deal with the eternal and essential. It will have no rules of conduct beyond the simple admonitions of the New Testament. It will face every evil and defend every virtue. It will make no compromise in order to obtain place and power. It will be the friend of the weak and helpless, the advocate of the oppressed and the defender of the poor. It will be the friend of sinners and the defier of tyrants. It will hold aloft the banner of truth. The hope of the world is in a nonsectarian church."

ELEMENT OF SUCCESS POINTED BY PASTOR

Rev. William C. Isett, pastor of Amanda Chapel, in his sermon yesterday on "The Way of the World and the Way of God," emphasized the fact that the permanency of success in business depends upon conformity to the law of service. Mr. Isett said in part:

"The story of Baalam is applicable to our own day. For hire he was willing to use his splendid talents, only to find it is impossible to go contrary to God's laws. Those who walk by faith and not by sight, who obey God rather than men, who are the children of faithful Abraham, are sure of a blessing. There is nothing in the world which can bring a curse upon them. Even the wrath of man can be made to praise God. We know that to them that love God all things work together for good. But the spiritual law is they must love God before the blessing can come. The law of the tree is upward for the branches and downward for the roots. Men do not gather grapes of thorns nor figs of thistles. As a business man, the permanency of your business depends upon your conformity to the law of service. When your motive is that your production shall be a blessing to humanity; your business has in it the first element of success. If it is purely for your own selfish gain, it may still be a blessing to your fellow-men, but you yourself will not succeed nor be honored in it. Great talents are not to be perverted to ignoble ends. Balaam was a great prophet but he would have used his God-given talent to enrich himself. He was willing to use this gift in the service of Balak. But each of us has a gift, a talent. Always it is to be used for blessing. Let us beware of selfishness and greed. When more honorable messengers, with more money, were sent, Balaam tried to do what he knew was wrong. He has many followers today, people who would stand in with God and still serve themselves. We need men and women to whom to do the will of God is more honorable than to receive promotion and a house full of silver and gold. Such men are well pleasing to God and a blessing to their fellow-men."

Daughters of Eve

A hard-times party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Adams last Saturday evening. The young men were attired in overalls and straw hats, while the young ladies were dressed in paper caps and gingham aprons. The evening passed rapidly. It couldn't pass any too rapidly for us if we were attired like those young ladies.—[Boston Transcript.

COMEDY PRINCE AND WIFE OFF FOR EAST

Film Stars to Visit New York, Journeying Via Canada

Yesterday at the Southern Pacific Station a crowd of friends and admirers—many from the star list themselves—gathered to bid the famous comedian and his wife a happy journey.

The Lloyds, like many others who have recently left the make-up boxes on the shelf, will do so temporarily only. The trip is for rest and pleasure, according to the comedian.

Their wanderings will first take them to Canada, where they expect to have a little snow experience before the spring warmth drives the white flakes away. From the North the couple will travel eastward, finally arriving in New York, where many appointments for "first nights," "week-end parties" and all that goes with the bright lights of Manhattan awaits them.

"So long—for a few weeks only," yelled Lloyd from the rear platform of the observation car. The couple were accompanied east by Joe Reddy, their publicity representative.

POLITICS

THE WATCHMAN

Trend of Political Thought and Action

BY THE SENTRY ON HIS BEAT

The 33 candidates at the May 5 primaries today enter upon the last two weeks of their campaigning which, while it has not been spectacular, has been the most active in the city's political history, largely due to the new district representation plan of electing Councilmen. With a registered vote of 379,553, the total vote cast is expected to be at least 40 per cent, or 150,000, and may run higher.

The campaign has progressed far enough to make some predictions as to the victors in the primaries, though, of course, there are always some surprises in the unexpected strength of candidates. The predictions of most of the politicians are somewhat as follows:

For Mayor, Bledsoe and Cryer nominated, with Gregory receiving 7000 votes; for Board of Education, election of the present board at the primaries; City Attorney, uncontested; Controller, Mushet and Myers nominated; First Councilmanic District (San Fernando Valley,) Wardlaw and Lampton at the top of the list, with Randall a possible third; Second Councilmanic District (Hollywood,) probable election of Councilman Allan at the phimaries; Third Councilmanic District, Loucks and Hughes high men; Fourth Councilmanic District, possible election of Workman at the primaries, though Ray may land on the June 2 ballot; Fifth Councilmanic District, close race between Assemblyman Badham, Topham and Sparks; Sixth Councilmanic District, Farmer and Moore, winners; Seventh Councilmanic District, Davis and Criswell winners; Eighth Councilmanic District, Lewis and McClellan probable winners, with close race for third place; Ninth Councilmanic District, Sanborn and Dodge probable winners; Tenth Councilmanic District, Assemblyman Pierce may win at the primaries, with close race between Downs and Meyers; Eleventh Councilmanic District, Dr. Langdon may win the primaries, with Hall second in the voting; Twelfth Councilmanic District, closest race in the city between McCully, Horn, Price, Saunders and Barnes; Thirteenth Councilmanic District, close race between Fuller, Pedrotti and Fitzpatrick; Fourteenth Councilmanic District, Councilman Baker leading and possible election at the primaries; Fifteenth Councilmanic District, Assemblyman Carter and James H. Dodson, Jr., winners at the primaries.

The candidacy of Dr. Frederick C. Langdon, candidate in the Eleventh Councilmanic District, has been indorsed by Rev. A. P. Shaw, pastor of the African Methodist Church, who urged the election of Dr. Langdon because of his long record for efficiency during the five terms he was a member of the City Council.

The Apartment-House Association, of which William T. Maddex is president, has indorsed the candidacy in the Fourth Councilmanic District of H. W. Kraemer. From Postmaster-General Henry New at Washington Mr. Kraemer has received an indorsement declaring that men of Kraemer's ability are needed in public life. Kraemer was State bank clerk and land clerk in Indiana.

Former Councilmen True, Conaway, Bryant, Olsen and Mrs. Lindsey have indorsed the candidacy for Controller of City Auditor Myers.

Additional indorsements of the candidacy of Councilman Allan in the Second Councilmanic District (Hollywood) include those received from Holman Coffin, Harry L. Canna, B. L. Clogston, Walter Dunn, G. R. Dexter, Chester Dexter, Dr. Lawrence Downs, Ray S. Elliott, George L. Eastman, Charles Eyton, J. C. Edwards, George F. Elmendorf, John A. Evans, Andrew Fiske, Parker V. Foster, L. H. Freeman, Frank K. Galloway, C. A. Gray, George A. Green, George G. Greenwood, Dr. C. E. Galloway, William S. Hart and H. A. Holland.

Mrs. Myers White was hostess at a woman's rally for Miles S. Gregory at the Biltmore Hotel music room Saturday. More than 300 women prominent in social, civic and club life, were included among the guests. Addresses were made by Paul Wolfe, Cora Deal Lewis, Mrs. Bertha Baruch and Councilman Gregory. A violin solo was given by Mrs. Paul Wolfe. Gregory will talk to the employees of the Pacific Casket Company at noon today and a short time later, talk at the Broadway Department Store Cafe. During the afternoon he will appear before the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company's employees. This evening he will be the guest at the Sciots dance at the Cinderella Roof and terminate the evening's speech-making with a talk before the Greater Whittier Boulevard Association. A big Gregory parade will be held tonight from Fifteenth and Figueroa streets to Main and Washington streets, to take part in the celebration of the turning on of the ornamental lighting system of this section of the city.

The program for the Tuesday afternoon rally at the West End headquarters of the Bledsoe-for-Mayor campaign, 3868 West Sixth street, under the management of Mrs. Erwin P. Werner, will have as speakers Joseph Scott, Maj. Walter K. Tuller, Clara Shortridge Foltz, Mrs. H. J. Redwine of Hollywood and Louis G. Guernsey. Mrs. Chester Turner Hoag and Mrs. Gordon W. Wattles will preside over the tea tables. Enlightening facts about Judge Bledsoe will be a feature of the various talks.

One of the interesting observations of the recent convention of the Los Angeles district women's clubs convention at Santa Barbara was the overwhelming number of women that stood for Judge Bledsoe for Mayor.

New Barbeque Stands Concern Seeking Permit

A series of barbecue eating places fashioned in the shape of ducks and bearing the name and the suggestion that you "duck-in" for a sandwich, are to be erected along California's principal highways if the plans of the Duck-Inn Corporation, which were laid before the State Corporation Department Saturday, are approved.

According to the company's application, which was filed by Attorney Donald P. Goodwin, it is proposed to construct the novel eating places out of lightweight material so they may be moved by auto trucks to advantageous places. It is suggested that the "Duck-Inns" will do much to beautifuy the highways, the company averring that the average barbecue sandwich stands are an eyesore.

Supplies for the ducks will be prepared at a central commissary and delivered by truck to the several stands. The company asks permission to issue and sell $100,000 worth of stock to hatch its first brood, which will be established in the neighborhood of Los Angeles.

DIRECTORY MAN DIES

Dr. E. E. Beem, Cashier of Company, is Found Dead in Room

Dr. Elmer E. Beem, cashier for the Los Angeles Directory Company, was found dead in his room at the Natick House, 108 West First street, yesterday afternoon. Apparently death was caused by heart disease. He was a graduate of a medical school, although he never had practiced medicine here. Peck & Chase, morticians, have charge of the body.

An autopsy will be made by the Coroner's office tomorrow and the cause of the death determined.

FIVE ROBBERIES BY BAND

Eight Are Sought as Oil Stations and Are Victims; Negroes Slash Man's C

Police were searching last night for eight band stole a parked car and used it in two oil station other robber gangs committed three other hold-ups in negroes slashed a man's coat with a razor when he ance.

The oil bandit is the only one of whom there is a description; he has red curly hair. In the car of Lloyd Preston, 810 Second street, Venice, he got $25 from John Cloud, operator of an oil station at 1000 Sunset Boulevard, and $14 and a tank of gasoline from Joe McHill, operator of an oil station at Vine and Waring streets. McGill got the license number and Venice police questioned Preston, but were unable to learn from him who the man who stole his car might have been.

Ismal Sosa of 2813 Dayton avenue lost a pay check for $36 and 5 cents in cash, when two negroes held him up at Avenue Twenty-six and Humboldt street. Sosa showed fight but the production of a razor and a revolver by the two negroes compelled him to yield.

S. Peratis of 1144 West Fifty-first street reported three men followed him from his store and at Fifty-fifth street and Budlong avenue, robbed him of $25 in cash and checks for more than $200.

Two bandits held up B. Engler of 5406 South Hoover while he was sitting in a car with a young woman at Forty-second and McKinley streets. Engler had no money with him and the bandits got nothing. They did not offer to molest his companion.

That gloves were used sometimes during the era of cave dwellers is indicated by discoveries made in ancient ruins. Crude leather specimens, about the size of small hams and held together by thongs, have been found in long-buried remains of that period.

"SEVEN CHANCES" IS MIRTHFUL; BALTO IS A HIT

By Edwin Schallert

Buster Keaton has at last ventured into romance. In "Seven Chances," in truth, his venture may be described as a veritable plunge, for during a few reels at least, he becomes one of the most-sought sheiks on the screen.

I cannot say that I like this comedy, which is showing at Loew's State Theater as well as "The Navigator." That, to my mind, was Keaton's top-notch picture.

However, I found "Seven Chances" genuinely amusing, and in spots quite unroariously funny. The audience laughed at the line of gags toward the climax, especially where Buster dodges the huge boulders that follow him in his wild flight down a hill.

A marriage is the goal of the plot in this instance. The terms of a freak will produce most of the complications. Seven millions are to be the hero's inheritance, provided he can find a girl who will wed him before the hour of 7 o'clock on his twenty-seventh birthday, and of course it is on that day and none other that he hears the terms of the will.

Amusing are those moments when Buster is trying to flee from a throng of pursuing women who answered an advertisement put in the paper by his business partner. Literally hundreds of extras must have been hired for these scenes, and they are of all types, colors and states of slenderness or obesity. They arrive in flivvers and on bicycles and on foot, fill all the pews in the church and crowd around the entire outside.

There are some scenes in the early part of the picture when Buster is also trying to propose to different girls, that are in their way very funny and clever. Buster's repression of manner always is good for mirth under circumstances that are by their character supposed to be embarrassing for him.

I think that Keaton does better, taken all in all, when he sticks to his regular costume and regular style of comedy. "Seven Chances" is likely to prove disappointing to some of his fans following "The Navigator." It is nevertheless very good as entertainment.

The picture is the first that Keaton has filmed as an adaptation. It is taken from the stage comedy, "Seven Chances," by Roi Cooper Megrue.

The cast includes some well-known screen players like Snitz Edwards and T. Roy Barnes, and they help the fun, particularly Edwards. Ruth Dwyer seems very pleasing as the feminine lead. The others include Frankie Raymond, Erwin Connelly and Jules Cowles.

The big human interest event of the program is the appearance of Gunnar Kasson with the dog Balto and the entire team of Siberian huskies that made the dash to Nome. I do not know when I have seen anything more fascinating than the film that depicts the terror-haunted, hardship-fraught journey across the frozen wastes. To miss this portion of the program will be to overlook a thrill that is more unusual than any ordinarily provided by entertainment, because of its vivid and powerful reality.

Kasson and Balto both received a big hand when they appeared in person on the stage, and the entire presentation brings home in a very unique way the bravery of the deed that the courageous Alaskan "mushers" accomplished only a few months ago. On this account alone is the current bill at Loew's one well worth seeing.

WRITERS' CLUB VAUDEVILLE BILL IS HIT

The Writers' Club may not have an electric announcement board as yet to tell the audience which act is appearing on the stage, but this will soon have to be installed, judging from the reception accorded the first vaudeville show put on by them last Saturday night. It was a headliners' bill and not only conjured a tremendous uproar of laughs, but brought forward several entertainers whom they have seen none too often of late. Notably, this was true of Doraldina who still "outshimmys 'em all," and Maude Fulton.

It was Trixie Friganza who really topped the show with her line of patter and her songs. Some of her talk was of familiar vintage, but she proffered a lot of bright new remarks for the occasion. It would be hard to reckon up the total score of laughs while she was on the stage.

The smartest smart crack, though, was made by Felix Adler, when he mentioned "Jackie Coogan and his father, Kaffe Kuchen." Adler's comedy was all exceptionally clever, especially the burlesque ventriloquist act.

Joe Bonomo, from Universal, exhibited his "strong man" skill to excellent effect in the opening spot. Cecil Whitworth was his clever assistant. Tom Wilson in burnt-cork make-up, also helped the amusement. Walter Wills, who appeared with Miss Fulton, did a fine bit of eccentric comedy, and their act was one of the biggest hits of the program.

Creighton Hale and his jazz band, and Natalie Kingston with her dancing were other features. William J. Kelly as master of ceremonies—or whatever corresponds to master of ceremonies in vaudeville—told good old Irish jokes to fill in any interludes.

Fay Wray and Martha Sleeper were the pages who put up the letters necessary to indicate the act that was playing, and in view of their presence the electric announcer probably won't seem such a requisite after all.

LAURA LA PLANTE APPEALS

The worst thing about "Dangerous Innocence," now showing at the Forum, is the title, and the best thing about it is Laura La Plante. The title does not in any sense describe what little story there is and the story itself does not amount to much, but Laura La Plante is just about the most appealing and delectable person imaginable.

Playing the role of a little unsophisticated girl just out of boarding school, Miss La Plante seems remarkably self-possessed and mature, but for the most part her exuberant and attractive personality gives the picture an interest, a humor and an appeal quite out of proportion with the film itself.

"Dangerous Innocence" is the film version of "Ann's an Idiot," by Pamela Wynne. William Seiter directed. It is the story of a shipboard romance between Ann, on her way home to India for the holidays, and an English army officer. Inasmuch as the officer was once the sweetheart of the girl's mother, complications arrive in thick array to insure a complicated voyage, and the picture ends in a storm of tears, reunited hearts and a curtain softly drawn on a very close close-up.

That interesting actor, Jean Hersholt, who figured so prominently in "Greed," appears in "Dangerous Innocence" to great advantage. He seems to have an ability for combining villainy with the elements of comedy and humor, which gives him a place in this picture completely overtopping the logical hero in general interest.

The sight of Jean Hersholt being chased down the street by the irate hero, Eugene O'Brien, is a bit of comedy quite enjoyable and the subsequent fight between them adds considerably. Somehow, the injection of a red-blooded fistic encounter seems to insure interest in an otherwise limp plot these days.

Eugene O'Brien plays the role of the English officer and qualifies very well, although a straight male lead seldom offers great interest.

Hedda Hopper, as the mother, is, as usual the clever actress. However, there is a lack of sympathy with the character she portrays which makes the admirers of Miss Hopper thoroughly resent the shallowness of her character in the picture.

FILM HUMOR MORE DIFFICULT TO ACHIEVE THAN STAGE FUN

Adherants of the legitimate drama who are constantly casting aspersions on the power of the motion-picture as entertainment, offer scarcely anything substantial in defense of their stand other than prejudice, in the opinion of John L. Murphy, production manager of the Harold Lloyd Corporation, an acknowledge student of comedy as applied on the screen.

Murphy, for the last seven years directly associated with the production of motion-picture comedies, points to Harold Lloyd as an artist who ranks higher in public favor than any stage star.

"The stage has rarely, if ever, presented anything funnier than 'Grandma's Boy,' 'Safety Last,' 'Girl Shy' or the picture Lloyd has just completed, under the temporary title of "Rah! Rah! Rah!" As a matter of fact it would have been impossible for the stage to present in play form such pictures as "Safety Last" and "Rah! Rah! Rah!" because of their peculiar adaptability for screening.

VOCAL HANDICAP

"Fred Stone, Al Jolson, Ed Wynn, W. C. Fields and the other leading comedy lights of the stage, have the voice, besides the eye, to enable them to provide their followers with mirth. On the other hand, Lloyd and the other movie comedians are robbed of one of the greatest elements in moulding audience appeal—the voice. Lloyd never admits it, but it is much more difficult for a comedian on the screen to win laughs than it is for the stage player. In the first place, the stage performer has the warmth of an audience to give him inspiration, to urge him forward in his comedy antics.

"On the other hand the movie comedian has to perform cold, with a handful of stage carpenters and electricians, gag men, and production assistants for his 'audience,' and surely this is the toughest in the world for anyone to work before. Anyhow, there is a certain psychology about comedy making that holds true in nearly every instance. What makes the lookers on laugh during comedy production usually is a 'flop' on the screen.

"It is foolish for anyone to try to compare the comedy of the stage and the screen. Few stage comedians ever made good on the screen and it is doubtful whether the majority of screen comedians would make good on the stage, as laugh makers.

"But it is laughable when critics superiority of stage to relate the superiority of stage comedy over that of the movies. As a New York critic recently wrote:

"A stage star is continually working under audience inspiration. To get up before a bunch of people who are right there in front of you, in person, and to do your stuff in a frank atmosphere of make-believe, with the additional assistance of peppy music to put the audience into a good mood, is quite different from doing your stuff cold.

"Reversing the position, we seem to see a reason for a spectator's enjoyment of one form of entertainment and his lack of it in another. The stage fan for instance, having grown up with stage humor, finds it difficult to adapt himself to the utterly different technique of the screen.

GAGS COUNT

"Screen fun comes from situations, rather than from costumes and jokes. You may not realize how much action, indeed, there must be in a feature length comedy. You may summarize a film sequence by saying that Harold Lloyd goes downtown, buys a lot of groceries and gets a live turkey, and has a hard time getting them home; but when you come actually to show all this you must have a dozen minor situations within the main situation.

"There is one sequence, you have enough actual action with which to make an entire two-act musical comedy, if it were spun out with the spoken word; and to our way of thinking, it's quite as funny as the kind of entertainment provided by Messrs. Stone, Wynn or Jolson in its own individual way, just as O. Henry's humor differs from that of W. W. Jacob's."

"Which brings us by easy stages to a lurking moral, which is; A carpenter should stick to his job and not try bricklaying, and vice versa."

Ann Pennington Provides Gayety at the Criterion

Broadway, New York, or at least its very essence of gayety, has been transported to Grand avenue, Los Angeles, this week. Or to be more exact, Ann Pennington, enchanting and tiny whirler of the Ziegfeld Follies, is demonstrating to audiences at the Criterion Theater just how they do it on the other Broadway.

Miss Pennington has been absent from the local stage for some five years. For her return, an elaborate prologue, "A Fiesta in Old Mexico," in keeping with the atmosphere of the feature photoplay has been arranged. The dancer is supported by a large and well-selected cast.

"Zander the Great," from the stage success by Salisbury Fields, in which Alice Brady starred, is the current screen attraction. Marion Davies is the star of the production. Little Jackie Huff plays the title role of the deserted boy, Zander. The support includes Hedda Hopper, Harrison Ford, Harry Myers, Harry Watson, Jr., Holbrook Blinn, Hobart Bosworth, Richard Carle, Olin Howland, Emily Fitzroy, George Seigmann and James Farley.

"Zander" is the tale of a mistreated orphan, quite the same unfortunate one has been seeing for the past decade, freckled, pigtailed, horribly mistreated, who is rescued from her unspeakable environment by the kindly trustee who takes her to a real home with a real mother. Complications are provided by the wayward husband of the foster mother, wandering in Mexico, and a small son, Zander.

An educational comedy, "The Iron Mule," which rejoices in really amusing subtitles, is an added attraction.

Players Endure Hardships in Realism Quest

Going far from Hollywood on location and suffering real hardships and trying experiences in making motion pictures is getting to be quite the regular thing.

Ever since the making of "The Covered Wagon" in the wilds of Utah, directors have emulated that example by going miles to actual story locations to secure realism.

The latest example is Zane Grey's "The Code of the West," directed by William K. Howard, who made "The Thundering Herd." The new Zane Grey picture is at the Metropolitan this week with Owen Moore, Constance Bennett, David Butler and others featured.

The picture was filmed almost entirely in the Tonto Basin country in Arizona, selected as the logical location by Zane Grey. The trip was one of the most difficult ever made by a motion-picture outfit. All supplies were drawn by pack horses over miles of rocky trail. The nearest town, Payson, had a population of 310 people. Beyond that, the company traveled a distance of 260 miles. It was necessary to build roads and construct bridges in order to transport equipment for many of the scenes.

Comedy Proves to be Hit at Local Theater

With what is pronounced as the outstanding comedy hit of the present season the Wilkes Orange Grove Theater opened last week in a veritable blaze of glory.

For an opening attraction no better selection could have been made than the engagement of that inimitable comedienne, Mary Boland, in her latest New York success, "Meet the Wife," and tonight the brilliant star will begin the second week of what promises to be an unusu[illegible]ccessful run.

As a comedy of American life, "Meet the Wife" is a riot of fun. It is the type of comedy which all people enjoy—clean, wholesome, in plot and dialogue, prettily mounted, fast moving, with witty lines and laugh-provoking situations.

Closely following the work of the star is the splendid characterizations of Wyndham Standing and Richard Tucker in the roles of the husband and the ex-husband, respectively. David Munro, Lois Austin, Parks Jones, Mayfair Murphey and Ralph Kline constitute the balance of one of the best casts seen here this season.

Sweden to be Scene of New Johnson Film

Sweden, with its fjords and sweeping landscapes, will be the destination of Emory Johnson, the producer, following the completion of his next melodrama for F. B. O.

Johnson's next production will get under way in a few weeks. It will be a newspaper story with the leading character a humble assistant foreman of the pressroom, who, unwittingly, dictates the policies of the great publication. It is likely that Ralph Lewis will sign to play the leading role with a group of stars handling the other parts.

NEW STAR SHOOTS

AL WILSON, AVIATOR, HANDS OUT THRILLS

By Grace Kingsley

Al Wilson is literally and figuratively a shooting star. He is an aviator movie star who is blazing across the film horizon.

If ever people take to the air very much, I suppose all the thrilling things will happen—and more, too—that are shown in our aviation movies. Indeed, the movies seem to be pointing the way. They show how to rescue fair damsels by taking them from one plane to another. They point out to heroes how to descend on a crook's plane and knock him into kingdom-come. They reveal to the public how to run a plane and give the terminology. Indeed, the business of making movie airplane stories should be subsidized by the airplane companies, they are such a good advertisement.

And now a real honest-to-gawd aviator is starring in pictures, as stated above. Al Wilson's latest effort is "The Cloud Rider," to be seen at the California.

I've said so often that I'm going to have a rubber stamp made for the remark, that one of the chief provinces of moving pictures is to exploit little-known fields of action, as there is a fresh interest in such fields, especially if the story is a human one. "The Cloud Rider" again proves it.

However much you may feel that as an author Al Wilson, who wrote the story, is a good aviator, you are bound to be thrillingly absorbed in seeing the fascinating Al descend in midair from his plane to that of the heroine, bearing the wheel which the careless lady dropped as she was ascending; and cold chills of excitement will race up and down your spine as you watch him adjust it. There are other stunts just as exciting; and there is all the realism of the airplane jargon, which is a language in itself.

When Helen Ferguson ran away in an airplane, I didn't see anybody start the propeller whirling for her.

Wilson has immense personality, and as his acting consists principally of managing an airplane he gets by beautifully.

Virginia Lee Corbin is the real star of the picture. How that kid can troupe! As a player of strictly sub-deb roles, refreshingly away from the wild flappers, she has no equal on the screen.

Sad is the fate of Helen Ferguson once more. She has to play an unsympathetic, unreal part. You feel all the time that here is a girl who is beautiful and who has untold emotional ability that has never been unleashed or rightly directed. But her fire, beauty and personality count even in this role of the catty older sister.

Frank Rice as the goofy mechanic gets some laughs. I understand that Frank Tomick, Boyd Monteith and Frank Clark are real aerial pilots. Harry Von Meter, Melbourne Macdowell and Brinsley Shaw are competent in their various roles.

The California Chanters please in some old plantation airs, and Lige Conley has a brisk and very funny comedy called "Motor Mad."

EDMUND LOWE FINE IN "PORTS OF CALL"

There isn't a single yawn in "Ports of Call," down at the Cameo!

Of course no such unimportant detail as the name of the author of a story is supposed to be necessary on a movie-house program. So we don't know who wrote "Ports of Call." Whoever did knows his business. It is a capital movie story, not high-brow, but sound enough in its psychology, clean-cut and deep enough in its character drawing, and fresh enough in its action, not to mention being acted finely enough, to keep you on the edge of your seat every minute.

The theme isn't new, being about the young man who is a coward, but who wins back his self-respect when, finding those he loves in danger, he comes to their rescue. But the story is quite human. There are places, for instance, when the heroine is almost the heavy lady, and the heavy lady is always quite the heroine; while the hero is a coward, and the villain never is!

While the long arm of coincidence may be said to be almost jerked out of its socket when the derelict hero and his lady friend of the dance hall find themselves employed as servants of the hero's old-time rival and his former sweetheart, still the situation is endlessly fruitful in the cause of drama, and every opportunity is taken advantage of.

Lilyan Tashman gives a brilliant performance as the dance hall girl. She doesn't overdo the old hokum; she makes the girl entirely human; she has great sex appeal without once seeming to try to exploit it with any writhings or wrigglings; and she is beautiful.

Edmund Lowe, of course, is fine as the reclaimed coward. This young man deserves big opportunities.

Bobby Mack, despite the good acting of the principals, almost runs away with the picture in the role of the constantly soused beach comber. There is a tremendous quality of genuine humor in his work; and his scene where he recovers from a drunken debauch in a cellar long enough to sound a call on the bugle, making the fighting natives think the soldiers are coming, is one of the high spots in the picture.

Hazel Keener is very acceptable as the good girl; while Randolph Sherman, William Conklin, Alice Ward and Mary McLean are all excellent.

COWBOY RIG PRAISED

Jack Holt Properly Garbed for Role in New Film Story

Jack Holt has never given the screen a characterization that reflects a Third-avenue conception of a cowboy.

He has consistently refused to dress up in the freakish garb which adorns so many "picture-show" cowboys. And the reaction of the picture-going public has been genuine in its approval of his characterization of the real westerner. He gets letters from some of the biggest cattlemen in the West complimenting him upon his horsemanship and his style of dress in his pictures.

Holt's newest screen role is that of the young western rancher in "The Light of Western Stars," which William Howard is now directing for Paramount.

MEMORIAL TO LINCOLN DEDICATED

Brand Park is Scene of Unveiling Monument to Great Emancipator

Several hundred persons attended the unveiling yesterday afternoon in a corner of Brand Park, opposite the San Fernando Mission, of the Lincoln Memorial Seat, donated by three members of the Daughters of the American Revolution to commemorate certain aspects of American history and in honor of the Great Emancipator. The donors were Mrs. George P. Bent, regent of Cabrillo Chapter, Mrs. William H. Anderson, past regent of the same chapter, and Mrs. Julia M. Powell, past regent of the San Fernando Valley chapter.

The seat is located in the "Garden of Memory" under an old willow tree made hallowed by various historical events. The address of presentation was delivered by Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Martha Nelson McCan, past president of the Park Commission, received the gift on behalf of the city.

Lincoln's immortal words "of the people, for the people, by the people," are carved on the stone foundation of the settle.

Others on the program were Dr. Rufus B. Von KleinSmid, president of the University of Southern California, who delivered a short address on the character of Lincoln; Arthur R. FOREST HOME SITES SCARCE

Service Man Says Entire Area is Occupied

Permit Within Fifty Miles of City Impossible

Creation of New National Reserve Proposed

"Los Angeles' national forest, the Angeles Forest, has more summer home permits in force than any other forest area in the world," L. A. Barrett, assistant director of the United States Forest Service in California, Western Nevada and Arizona, revealed this morning following a week's survey of the recreational areas available in the forests adjacent to the surrounding cities.

"At the present time it is impossible to obtain a permit for a summer home site within fifty miles of Los Angeles in any direction," Mr. Barrett added. "We are constantly scheming to throw open additional virgin forest lands to subdividers, community builders and charitable organizations. It seems as though the Southland divides its time between the beaches, Los Angeles and the mountains during the summer months."

Mr. Barrett has been in the Forest Service for more than two score years. Sixteen national forests in California alone come under his supervision. He has visited nearly every one of the forest reserves in the country and has made a lifelong study of out-of-door life, the camper and his relation to public domain.

"It has now reached a point where the creation of another national forest in Southern California is believed advisable. The most likely project is what would be known as the San Bernardino National Forest, with 600,000 acres north, south and east of San Bernardino. Part of the area will be taken from the Angeles Forest, which has developed too much work for one supervisor."

Deputy Commissioners Adams and Praul are in charge of the cases.

SCHOOL BOARD IS PRAISED

C. E. Seaman, New Committee Chairman, Lauds Members for Efficiency and Urges Re-election

A citizens' school committee has been formed to carry on the campaign to elect the incumbent members of the Board of Education. Charles E. Seaman, former president of the Board of Education, a trustee of the University of Southern California, and a prominent educator, is chairman of the committee. Headquarters have been opened at 630 Chamber of Commerce Building.

In a statement to The Times, Mr. Seaman said:

"I know of no public service which makes greater demands upon the individual than that required from the members of the Board of Education.

"Some concept of the magnitude of the task may be gained by considering the fact that the turnover for the present school year was nearly $30,000,000 for the Los Angeles school district.

BUILDING PROGRAM

"The building program has probably been the greatest ever carried on by any school board in the United States for the same period of time.

"This community is fortunate, indeed, that men and women of such high standing, enjoying the entire confidence of the community, should be willing to continue to give their valuable time to the public service.

"It will be recalled that this entire board, consisting of John B. Beman, Arthur S. Bent, Robert L. Burns, Mrs. Elizabeth Louise Clark, Frederick R. Feitshans, Mrs. Lucia Macbeth and Robert A. Odell, with the exception of Mr. Bent, who was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Bristol, went before the electorate two years ago as a unit, on a definite program of policy, and the entire board was elected.

BONDS CARRY

"After serving for a year, the board presented to the taxpayers a building program calling for a bond issue of more than $34,000,000 to meet the urgent need for more school buildings. This bond issue was passed by an unparalleled majority of 20 to 1.

"Although the money from the sale of these bonds was not available until November of last year, the preliminary work done was such that actual construction began immediately the money was available, and there are at the present time actually under way, in one way or another, building operations totaling almost $12,000,000.

"It is almost impossible for any new board member, though ever so capable and honest and unselfish, to perform efficiently at first the duties of the office, and it takes many months for any person to understand thoroughly the many exacting requirements of the position.

MEMBERS DRAFTED

"The Board of Freeholders which drafted the new charter for the city saw this when they provided for the election of members to serve more than two years, and this is the last time that the entire board will have to be elected. In the future there will always be hold-over members.

"Recognizing the necessity of keeping the present board in office," continued Mr. Seaman, "a large group of representative citizens, among whom were many former members of the Board of Education, called on the board some weeks ago, and earnestly asked that each and all of them stand for re-election. The appeal was backed by petitions signed by hundreds of citizens in every part of the Los Angeles school district, commending the board for its splendid service, and expressing the unanimous desire that the members consent to become candidates again.

"It is actually true that this board has been drafted by this community and it has responded to the draft, and I am sure that every citizen will feel that it is his civic privilege to return them to office at the primary election on May 5.

"I do not believe that any school board has ever worked together more harmoniously and unitedly in the interests of the public schools. I feel sure that they will receive practically the unanimous indorsement of this community on May 5."

ORATOR VICTORS TRIM FOR FINAL

Winners Are Preparing for Crucial Meeting

Six to Vie Friday Evening for "Times" Award

Uniform Ability to Make Judging Difficult

With only five working days before them after the close of the local semifinals in the National Oratorical Contest last Friday night; the six winners in that event began immediately to prepare for the next test, The Times grand finals on the evening of the 24th inst., to take place at the Los Angeles High School Auditorium.

Though they have survived four previous oratorical battles, the champions feel that the coming event will be a supreme test of their ability and they are leaving nothing undone in the way of additional preparation to gain the victory. The question as to who will win first place on the 24th is no less open than was the question as to who would be successful in the semifinals.

ABILITY UNIFORM

One of the outstanding features of this year's contest has been the uniformity in ability displayed by the contestants. This was one of the things especially noted by the judges at the semifinals, many of whom have expressed themselves on how difficult they found the task of choosing the winners of first place. At all the six meets the winner of first won by only a narrow margin. At the Group E meet, for instance, Charles Crail of Los Angeles High School, who stood second, lost the decision to Mary Loise Wages by only two points.

One of the most notable achievements of any of the thirty-three semifinalists was that of Morris Panarsky, San Pedro champion, who won second in Group C. Morris, formerly a Los Angeles newsboy and now working his way through high school, had never taken part in public speaking or debating before he entered the contest early in February. Nevertheless he lost by only a few points to Frank Colston, Moorpark senior, who has specialized in debating during his high-school course and is regarded as the best high-school debater in Ventura county.

SMITH IN RACE

The performance of Harry Smith of Bakersfield High School, who won first place at the Group B meet, is regarded by many of the 1500 persons who heard his oration Friday night as one indicating that he should gain still higher honors. Winning over Bertram Edises, clever Fresno debater, who was awarded second place, Harry, who is only 15 years of age, brought the house down with his thrilling address. Last year young Sith won second at the district meet where Don Tyler was awarded first, and in the contest of 1923 he won first place the Fresno group.

Clayton E. Murdock of Escondido, who stood second at the Group A meet lost to Virgil Pinkley of San Bernardino by only three points and a margin but little wider separated Eugene McElmeel of Loyola, winner in Group F, and Donald Newcomer of Burbank, who won second. This is McElmeel's third constitutional contest experience.

Howard Bull of South Pasadena High School, who was second in Group D, won a special prize of $25 for his ability at the district elimination, but lost at the semifinals, where he was pitted against Ronald Anderson of Pomona, who has specialized in debating and is given the chief credit for having made Pomona's debating team the most formidable of any of the high school debating teams in Los Angeles county outside Los Angeles.

Court Asked to Guard Asserted Runaway Maids

Petitions asking that Catherine Marie Mathis, 16 years of age, and Ellen Skaug, also 16, be declared wards of Juvenile Court on the ground they ran away from home and disobeyed the orders of their parents, have been filed in Judge Archbald's court by Harry Mathis, 1560 East Washington street, Pasadena, father of the Mathis girl. Miss Skaug was said to be the daughter of Tom Skaug, 1259 West Seventy-first street, this city, but Mathis filed on her as acting guardian.

According to the petitions, the girls left Mathis's home one day last week and have not been heard from since. Mathis expressed the belief they were bound for San Francisco and the authorities of the northern city were requested to post a lookout to apprehend the girls.

NINE NABBED IN DRY RAIDS

Five Autos, Large Quantity of Liquor Seized in County-Wide Round-Up

Nine men were arrested, five automobiles confiscated and a large quantity of liquor of various hues and degrees of "dynamite" was seized in a series of raids from the mountains to the sea late Saturday night and early yesterday morning by George Contreras, chief county dry enforcement agent, and eight of his investigators.

In all, four stills, 267 gallons and one case of whisky, two gallons of wine, three gallons of gin and fifty-two barrels of mash, were seized.

Incidentally, the raiders encountered a "new one."

According to Detective Contreras, his men had completed arrangements with Chester Sharar to deliver a case of gin to a house in Hollywood. Sharar had been suspected of bottlegging and officers were waiting for him at the address to which he was sent. Sharar, it was said, went to the house and was paid for what was supposed to be a case of liquor. As soon as he pocketed the money, he was placed under arrest. When agents opened the container, however, they found that Sharar had brought nothing but an empty bottle.

The officers were nonplussed for a moment, then held him on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

Cuccio, according to the reports of the raids, was the heaviest sufferer. Listed to him were 250 gallons of whisky; fifty-two barrels of mash and three stills, each of seventy-five gallons capacity. He is charged with manufacture and possession of illicit liquor.

The other still, the officers said, was seized at Reheard's home in Compton, in addition to sixteen gallons of liquor.
